

SCATHING TALK MADE BY REED

End of Prohibition Laws Predicted by Democrat in U. S. Senate

Sensitives will make that a felony which he himself commits at in his personal practice."

Acidly the senator told of drinking at the republican and democratic conventions last summer at Kansas City and Houston. He said that just prior to the convention at Houston a boat was seized and great quantities of liquor were confiscated.

"It was manifest to anybody but a plain, ordinary fool," the Missourian declared, that that papers spread by broadcast that the democrats wanted to have a convention where everybody was as dry as a Sahara desert camel. Then in the hotels everybody was informed the particular room where the liquor could be obtained."

At Kansas City, he went on, turning to the republican side of the chamber, "tending official prohibitionists were paying the boys in the hotels from $7 to $10 a pint for a class of whiskey that no respectable Missourian would ever think of drinking."

There was laughter from floor and gallery and attendants hushed down this infraction of the rules.

May Compile List Of Hypocrites, He Avers
"The liquor was across the street from the leading hotels and could not have been there if the republican convention had not been there," Reed shouted. "Then these sniveling hypocrites adopted a plank in favor of prohibition enforcement. I have sometimes been tempted to write a list of the names of men who vote dry and drink wet. I do not know but I shall do it yet."

"Prohibition is the breeding place of crime, because there has been driven from the open into the dark the liquor business," he declared. "It has been taken out of the hands of a class who the minute they begin to act are criminals. It has been compelled to seek the shadows and the night and then what follows? The men engaged in this illicit business proceed to make their arrangements with the officers of the law and graft and blackmail become the common practice of the hour."

Enforcement Very lax, Senator insists.
"There has never been any attempt to enforce this law as we enforce the laws against murder, arson, rape or burglary. I have traveled extensively in the United States in the last 18 months. I never entered a state, a city, a town or a village where I did not discover the fact that distilleries were all around the towns and all around the villages and the liquor could be obtained anywhere."

"There is not a politician in the city of the United States who cannot collect enough evidence in 24 hours to keep the courts busy for 24 months."

"Let us tell the truth! Ever since Bishop Cannon—who I love the senator from Virginia (Mr. Glass) in the recent campaign described as one of the three popes in this country—may from that he may hold his job and draw his salary, there is no man who has any sense and has looked about him but knows that in the city of Washington he can in an hour's time have delivered at his office or in his home enough whisky to entertain 25 body of senatorial friends, their wives and their sweethearts."

"Great Without Measure"
"To say that the law has ever been enforced is to stand in the face of the truth and to deliberately lie to the American people. Graft, graft without measure and without stint."

Reed read amounts alleged to have been paid by distillers to policemen to shield bootleggers. "Bribery, graft," he thundered, pounding his desk with his fist. "Just then the time of Senator Reed expired."

"Mr. President," called several senators, eager to seek permission for the Missourian to go on. "It won't be long," pleaded Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, "before we will hear that entrancing voice no longer."

Elsinore Begins Monday to Put in Photophone; 2 Weeks Necessary to Finish Work

A crew of RCA Photophone engineers, acoustical experts and electricians, working behind the scenes, will begin Monday to install in the Elsinore theatre the latest system of sound reproduction developed by the leading radio and electrical interests of the country.

The outstanding features of the new system, hailed by audiences in the principal theatres of the country as giving absolutely like-like rendition of music and speech in talking motion pictures are:

1. Remarkable naturalness of music and speech reproduction, attained through the latest acoustical achievements of the radio art;

2. A unique method of photographing sound and motion on the same film which ensures perfect synchronization of action and speech;

3. New methods of achieving acoustical perspective so that sounds are given their relative tonal values, without the flatness of music or speech that heretofore has characterized sound reproduction in motion pictures;

4. A wider range of sound effects made possible by the improved electro-dynamic loud speakers used in the reproduction of sound.

"Salem audiences," H. G. Rosebaum of the Elsinore theatre declares, "will be astounded when the vast progress made in talking motion picture reproduction when the new RCA Photophone system is installed in this theatre."

Experts have been amazed at the life-like reproduction of music and speech attained by this system, which has scored remarkable successes in some of the leading theatres of the country.

"So perfect is the synchronization that the characters on the screen seem to leap out from the picture and the audience almost feels the living presence of the actors on the stage. Words spoken by the characters proceed directly from the lips of the speakers, not from other parts of the box. No unpleasant or disturbing

$147,000 From Rockefeller
Completion of the campaign for $150,000 at this time is necessary in order to meet the contract with the General Education board of the Rockefeller Foundation. The offer made to Willamette university was a gift of $350,000 when the university should become free of debt and raise a requisite sum or endowment. On the basis of his contract the Rockefeller foundation will pay the university approximately $147,000 with the completion of the present campaign.

The Rockefeller foundation has urged its attention recently to medical research, and is making no more gifts to colleges except those having medical schools where research work may be carried on. With these facts in mind the local endowment committee is making every effort to complete the drive. No date has been announced for the close of the Salem campaign.

BITTER DEBATE ON PHONE BILL

Burdick Measure Goes Through but Vote is 33 to 24

bill held to the major argument that the people of Portland are demanding reduced rates and that speedy remedy can be had by other means. It was added that Portland is justified in asking special relief for the reason that a special situation prevails there in the fact that the telephone company is operating without a franchise.

Commission Held Inadequate
Mr. Burdick failed to agree with other speakers in their criticism of the public service commission, but held it an admitted fact that the commission is unable to cope with the situation due to lack of information and lack of funds for an adequate investigation.

Opposition to the bill centered on the point that it would constitute a step backward to the period when rates were not established scientifically, but by bargaining between municipalities and utility officials. Objection was also voiced to special regulation for Portland, as though it were not a part of Oregon.

Declarations that lobbyists for the telephone interests had approached every member of the house, were freely made, and Burdick also claimed that these interests had attempted to sidetrack the bill into an unfriendly committee.

It has been conceded by leaders of the film industry that "Interference" will make motion picture history in that it marks the first successful attempt to give a legitimate attraction just as presented on the stage without one iota of a change. Every speech heard in the stage production will be heard issuing from the Capitol theatre's screen.

The play "Interference" was first produced in England where it graced the boards for two years. In the fall of 1927 it was given its New York premier and ran for nine months in that city.

Ten Trains Lost In Terrific Gale And Snowstorm

BELGRADE, Yugo Slavia, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Despite the frantic efforts of the government to locate them by telephone, telegraph, wireless and even couriers, ten entire trains are missing in huge snow banks in Bosnia. Hundreds of villages have been entombed in ice and snow.

For ten days no word has been received from the missing trains and as they carried no food or sleeping accommodations much concern is felt regarding the passengers.

The whole of Yugo Slavia is now bound and great suffering prevails everywhere.

INTERFERENCE AT CAPITOL TODAY

Manager Archie Holt of the Capitol theatre announced Saturday that the Paramount all-talking picture, "Interference" will be the feature attraction at his house this week and that the talking picture is the first Broadway stage production filmed that features dialogue from beginning to end.

"It has been conceded by leaders of the film industry that 'Interference' will make motion picture history in that it marks the first successful attempt to give a legitimate attraction just as presented on the stage without one iota of a change. INTERFERENCE IS MARVEL OF TALKIES

By R. M. Lockhart
Isn't it too bad someone hasn't invented some sort of a thing-a-ma-bob by which zealous reporters may note the casual comments overheard in the darkened auditorium of a motion picture house? Side-comments like, "Here he comes to spoil another party," when William Powell, the very naughty man of the world in "Interference," strolls tipsily into the apartment of his former wife. He comes to obtain from her the incriminating evidence she holds concerning the woman he really loves.

"Interference," which comes to the Capitol with the week, holds the promise of a new era in Vitaphone pictures. Aside from its inherent dramatic appeal, there is fine artistry in settings and voice reproductions as compared with the metallic ring of early presentations of its kind.

"Interference" is a finished production. It would have to be to have gripped the picture-weary audience that attended its preview Friday night. And grip them
