Squad of Sharpshooters Oppose Red and Black In Tonight's Game

Two quarters of the Salem-Alhany high school basketball game Tuesday night bore close resemblence to the famous contests about which the fans were writing to Lair Gregory recently; in other words they were shutout periods, Albany failing to score.

But unfortunately for Salem high's publicity hopes, a lad named Hauswirth had sunk one basket for a couple of points early in the first quarter, and in the last quarter R. Buchanan and Bosson scored field goals. Salem high won

Never did Salem high's defense look better than in this game, the visitors being entirely smothered in all reasonable scoring area so that they were forced to do their shooting from a distance calculated to induce eye strain in their attempts to see the basket. From all appearances these boys were good shots-their long ones came go close.

The red and black ran up its total of 39 points with machine like steadiness, getting nine the first quarter, nine the second, five in the third quarter and 16 in the final period. All this time Coach Louis Anderson was busy changing his lineup around, but that didn't seem to make any difference either in its offensive or defensive strength, except that the absence of the regular forwards was reflected in the low score of the third quarter.

Rooks Billed Tonight Most of these were made for the purpose of saving the regulars' pepper for tonight's game in which it is anticipated, they will need it. The game tonight is with the Oregon State Rooks, a squad of sharp shooters in which Duffey, former Salem high star, is forced to extend himself to hold his own. He divides honors with Lyman and Fagin, two of the speedlest forwards ever developed in Oregon

This team defeated Salem high by the decisive score of 30 to 17, recently at Corvallis, and later was one of the few teams to defeat the championship-aspiring Medford quintet. On its own floor Salem high is conceded a chance to win, but a slender one. Summary of Tuesday

Kress appears to be one of the best natural hitters to come up in and, by piling up ten points on some years. He had them guessing when he led the American league in batting for several weeks last year. But his continued rain of base hits soon proved that he was not just a flash in the pan. Ralph attributes this success at the plate to the fact that he was right on edge when the bell rang, and acquired confidence when he discovered that American league pitchers did not try to "dust him off."

He has his fielding faults, but is learning a lot in that department. At Tulsa, the farm of the Browns, Kress did not pick up much about the defensive part of the game.
