Grateful!

The spiritual quality of a nation determines its greatness. Material wealth and mechanical achievement are necessary, but the quality and worth of a people are to be found in the contribution that people make to the artistic, spiritual and cultural life of the world.

There was another meeting of the Salem Hunt club in the chamber of commerce rooms on Monday evening at 8 p. m. A. H. Nehl will come to this meeting from Portland to answer any questions pertaining to the club and what benefits the members may expect. With him will be Captain Alfred Kelly and Miss Laird, instructors from the Portland club.

The object of the local riding club is to secure facilities complete in which horsemanship plays a part. Arrangements have been made to form this organization, social in character, which may become permanent later; perhaps acquire its own clubhouse, stables and facilities, all at the desire of the members.

Through instruction in every phase of horsemanship beginning with the simplest preliminaries to finished equitation, will be available under teachers with years of experience. Events every active party will be staged from time to time. These will include breakfast rides, musical rides, moonlight rides, masquerade rides, paper chases and cross country trips. More than 100 members have already signed up, sponsors of the organization report.

KINGWOOD HEIGHTS PROJECT TAKEN ON

Opening of the Kingwood Heights Estates district in West Salem was announced today by John Werner who has taken over the development of the 26-acre property for Major Robinson who is the tract. Werner will start his sales campaign next week. He stated that he considers the property an ideal for fine homes and expected a hearty response from sale purchasers.

Hop Market is In Doldrums and Buyers are Few

Markets for hops are few and far between according to reports from local dealers who have seen only an occasional buyer through Salem in the past month. Thirty thousand bales of the 1928 crop in the state are said to remain on hand.

Over production is held as the major cause for the low price and far between according to reports from local dealers who have seen only an occasional buyer through Salem in the past month. Thirty thousand bales of the 1928 crop in the state are said to remain on hand.

ON TRIP TO COAST
Dr. F. G. Franklin, Professor Charles Haworth, Dr. S. B. Laughlin and Charles Townsend, were guests of Dr. Carl E. Miller on a trip Friday to the coast. They took breakfast together at Corvallis and then going on to Newport and remaining there for one hour, where Dr. Miller has a cottage, and after a little rest, returning home by way of Hobo, Sheridan and McMinville, stopping at McMinville to see the new Linfield college buildings. During the trip they encountered sunshine, rain, hail, snow and wind and sleet. The ocean was quite rough.

AIR LINE ARRANGED
KANSAS CITY, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Arrangements for a dawn-to-dusk airplane between Kansas City and Los Angeles were completed today at a conference between Siles A. Morehouse of the Western Air Express and Kansas City officials.

Salem Shows Appreciation Of MacDowell Club and of Miss Byrd in Concert Here

By OLIVE DOAK
Miss Winifred Byrd, artist, and the Salem MacDowell club chorus in concert under the direction of Miss Minette Magers gave a memorable performance at the Grand theatre.

Salem has been criticized for its lack of appreciation of the efforts of its own people in presenting the best in musical productions. Either the city is becoming converted to what is being offered her, or last night was an exception for the audience did appreciate a truly classical program. The program was a masterpiece of Wagner's opera, Die Walkure, and Tschalkowsky's subtle "Song of Autumn," each played with such magnificent interpretation by Miss Byrd.

Intellect Behind Playing
Miss Byrd's program, as she presented it Saturday night was more than music—it was intellect interpreting pure music. In Tschalkowsky's "Song of Autumn" she led the listener into the melancholy theme with such subtle shading that he was not disturbed by its hopelessness. Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" as Miss Byrd played it was a picture as well as music, and the "Ride of the Valkyries" was so deftly and powerfully painted as to leave her listeners fairly hypnotized with the pictured power of the music.

Another choral number which was particularly effective was the "Dance of the Gnomes," MacDowell. The light, airy melody fitting from one part of the chorus to another showed excellent control, restrained power, and sympathetic interpretation.

As it always has been with a chorus the accompaniment in finish making or marring a fine production and Miss Ruth Bedford did her part excellently in helping to make the chorus last night. Miss Iva Clare Love was enthusiastically received in violin support.

A large number of people being seated in a rather small hall is always a problem if it are not well handled. This was avoided Saturday night through careful and quiet ushering by members from the music department of the Beethoven society of Willamette university.

MARCH GETS ROUGH AS END APPROACHES

PORTLAND, Mar. 23.—(AP)—March displayed more lion and less lamb in Oregon today. Snow fell in several districts in the state during the day. Pendleton reported a light fall which was as it struck the ground, and at La Grande wet snow fell for more than an hour during the morning.

Grants Pass reported the mountains surrounding the Rogue river valley, white with snow which extended almost to the valley floor. Seven inches of snow are reported on the Siskiyou. The Rogue river rose more than three feet during the night, according to reports.

In Portland a blustering March wind bore rain, snow, sleet and hail down on the city.

LOANS REACH NEW HIGH MARK, WORD

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Breaking away from the restraint sought to be exercised by the federal reserve board, loans to brokers and dealers by the New York reserve member banks for the week ending March 20 reached the new high figure of $5,793,000,000, an increase over the previous week of $1,000,000. The figures announced by the reserve board in its weekly statement today showed the new high record was $124,000,000 more than the previous mark recorded for the week ending February 6 on that day the board issued its letter to federal reserve banks warning them that use of reserve credit for speculation must be restrained.

Popular Song on For Run at Bligh Theatre in Salem

What will probably prove to be one of the outstanding song hits of the season, was written as the theme song for "The Shopworn Angel," the Nancy Carroll-Gary Cooper picture which opens a four day run Sunday at Bligh's Capitol theatre.

The song is "A Precious Little Thing Called Love," and was written by Lew Davis and Fred Coe. Nancy Carroll is heard singing the song during one stirring sequence and this colorful introduction, combined with the catchy and appealing music and words has induced a universal acceptance of the song.

Noble to Speak To Chamber; Will Tell About China
W. C. Noble of Youngstown, O., owner of the Skyline Orchards, will be the speaker at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon Monday, it has been announced. He has been asked to describe conditions in China and Japan where for the last five years he has represented the General Fireproofing company.

MORE THAN 35 DEAD IN FLOOD

5 Missing and Believed Lost in Swollen Streams of Southern Waters

Kentucky and eastern Tennessee to the flood ridden southern list. Means of Communication
Mobile Check Difficult
Cloudbursts and tornadoes snapped telephone and telegraph lines and made difficult checking of actual conditions.

The deaths, seven of which were reported yesterday from tornadoes which killed five negro children at Merrellton, Ala. where a church used as a school was destroyed, a white child at Small Creek, N. C., and a farmer at Alpharetta, Ga., who was struck by a tornado that struck Harrison, Miss., two negroes killed in another or twister near America, Ga., and a boy reported drowned in White Creek, near Rockwood, Tenn.

Middleboro, Ky., isolated by flood waters for a portion of the day, reported this afternoon by telephone that the Cumberland river was receding there and the town would be cleared of water tomorrow.

Extensive Damage Is Declared Done
Five hundred people were affected there, and many homes were destroyed. Pineville, Harlan and smaller communities in southeast Kentucky preparations had been made for the flood sweeping down the almost gorge like valley of the Cumberland river. The Kentucky river valley was rocky also was in a state of flood.

Through east Tennessee meagre reports told of streams rising rapidly and cutting off half a dozen or more towns from outside communication. Railway officials at Chattanooga, said no trains had moved in the vicinity of Wicketts, Tenn., since 4 a. m., today, when rising waters of Emory river submerged the tracks. Kingston and Crossville also were isolated with furious flood conditions there.

The weather bureau at Chattanooga predicted it from 34 to 37 feet on the Tennessee river there by tomorrow but added this would not be the crest. Flood stage at Chattanooga is 33 feet.

Two tornadoes whipped across the south, one struck Harrison, killing three negro children and wrecking several dwellings, then dropped to earth again at Millport, Ala., near the Mississippi line, where two white youths were injured, probably fatally, their home was destroyed.

The second twister struck in South Georgia, causing considerable damage to farms in the vicinity of Blakely and killed a negro woman, at Plains, near Americus.

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., Mar. 23.—(AP)—With the parents of three and a number of other men standing helpless on the bank, two Boy Scouts and their master found their last adventure in the flood waters of White Creek near here today, and rescuers feared five of their fellows had died with them in the stream.

Jim T. Wright, the scoutmaster, J. C. Hill and Ed Burnett, were drowned after a sudden cloud-burst sent the creek over its banks and swept the cabin housing Wright's troop of 21 boys from a rock bluff into the swirling waters.

Thirteen of the boys, who ranged from 12 to 16 years old, had been rescued tonight.

HOOPER DIRECTS HIS ATTENTION TO STATE

is anxious to build the South American service up to a high point of efficiency. Changes in several high positions in the state department are looked for also.

The last week has seen the president issue a proclamation that the national origins quota provision will be applied to immigration after July 1, although Mr. Hoover is personally opposed to this course, and an order decommissioning the presidential yacht Mayflower so that an annual yacht race of $500,000 may be effected.

Rebel Contingent Huris Full Strength Against Strong Federal Defense

has used in the past to designate so-called Catholic rebels. Five thousand cavalrymen from Torreon are participating in this new expedition. They were sent by General Calles' orders into the states of Guanajuato and Jalisco, where the "fanatics" have been active for several years.

General Calles announced that General Almazan was preparing an overland advance against the Escobar forces at Jimenez which have wrecked about 100 miles of railway track between Torreon and Chihuahua City. Trucks and automobiles commandeered at Torreon will be utilized.

JUAREZ, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Insurgents leaders reported today that their campaign of "tactical" warfare to route the government command of General P. Elias Calles had been carried south of Torreon by detachments of rebel forces sent from their base at Jimenez to harass federal military movements.

Torreon important industrial center of Coahuila and a strategic point of fortification, is the objective of a rebel counter drive, launched yesterday with the concentration of several thousand soldiers which revolutionary heads declared were prepared for an attack at Bermejillo, only 50 miles north of the city.

Revolutionary movements in the zone embracing Coahuila, Durango and Zacatecas, as described in

GOOD OLD DAYS OF CIRCUS RECALLED

Milton Sills in Feature Role at Elsinore Bill Now on Two More Days
The good old days when circus men were circus men and every man could fight for his own rights are vividly recalled in "The Barker" now on at the Elsinore. Milton Sills takes the lead as a gentleman of fortune whose delight it is to cry the attractions of the tented wonders inhabiting the meandering circus of yesterday. And Milton does a good job, both as "barker" and pugilist as anyone who has witnessed the very realistic fight staged in the picture, testify. Add to the thrilling action, a mighty good plot and mix with the ingredients of the picture of the talkies and a corking good show is provided for the theatre-goer.

With the featured picture are several short talkies which complete the bill.

Religious Study Of Oregon Will Next School Fad

EUGENE, Ore., Mar. 23.—(AP)—A comprehensive survey to determine the status of religion in Oregon was worked out as the major project of the religious education section of the commonwealth conference held on the University of Oregon campus this week under the direction of the University Extension division.

A plan was issued by C. A. Howard, state superintendent of instruction, that a specific program be arranged for the work of religious instruction in Oregon and a careful supervision of the work instituted.

BRITISH DIPLOMAT HINTS AT TROUBLE

estimated to be 500 miles off the proper course of a vessel making for the Bermudas from her starting point.

The pursuit was begun and the Walcott radioed for assistance, the British boat being one of the faster vessels engaged in the trade. The Washington headquarters took a hand and ordered the coast guard district at Mobile to send every available cutter to sea on the chase. The Dexter, which joined in the hunt hailed the Imalone and after she refused to stop, sank her.

Admiral Billard said that the Imalone had been under surveillance of guard forces at various points around the Atlantic coast before her operations began in the Gulf of Mexico and that her record as a rum runner was known to all participants in the coast guard's efforts to stamp the liquor traffic. The failure of her skipper to stop his boat was entire justification, in view of the coast-guard commander, for the drastic action taken.

A full report of the events prior to the sinking of the Imalone will be made by mail.
