HIGH SCHOOL HURT BY TACTICS, VIEW
Two Principals Pick Fault in Letters Replying to Liljequist
The entire Salem high school is suffering because of the unportsmanlike conduct of a certain element in the school, and inasmuch as Medford teams have been booted and booted consistently while in Salem that student body is considering discontinuing athletic relations until an improvement in spirit is seen, B. H. Conkle, Medford high principal, said in substance in a letter received by William Liljequist. The letter is in answer to a frank inquiry by Liljequist, Salem high student, as to the where and why of the local school's unpopularity over the state.
Principal Harry Lindahl of Tillamook, in answer to the same query, condemned the prevalence of smoking among Salem high boys as he had noticed it when Salem rosters were in Corvallis, where he was principal two years until this year. Lindahl wrote that as a large school Salem should be particularly careful in placing itself open for criticism and pointed to the fallacy of substituting force for reason.
Several other schools which participated in the recent tournament, have replied to Liljequist's letter in much the same tenor with the exception of McLoughlin which took a neutral ground.
