done on the South Santiam. The road has been constructed to the ranger station and the county has $70,000 to be used this year on a basis of 25 per cent road premises as much more next year.
The estimated cost of completing this highway is $2,500,000 of which the state and government would pay 75 per cent, according to Lane county's proposal.
Lane County Gets Road Along Siuslaw
Lane county asked for three more miles of work on the Willamette highway, but no action was taken, inasmuch as the commission is committed to a heavy sum for another road in Lane county this year and next, the Siuslaw.
Baker county court, invited to attend the meeting today, was reminded that it owes a balance of $58,900. However, as the county has contributed to largely to the Baker-Cornucopia road project and state cooperation, the commission cancelled the debt.
The commission proposed to the Josephine county delegation that if they would contribute $5,000, the state would match it so that the widening of the road to Oregon Caves will be continued.
Benton county requested that three more market roads be added to the map. The request was granted.
The desert type road costs about $2,500 a mile and a mile can be constructed in a week.
On the Harper section, in Malheur county, the contractors are grading and moving 20,000 cubic yards a week. The work is proceeding so rapidly that the 15 miles may be ordered surfaced during the summer.
A project ordered advertised for the next meeting, April 19, is the new Pine creek section of the Fernwood highway between Lakeview and California line. It will be a section of the proposed Yellowstone cut-off. The job is six miles of grading.

CORPSE OF MISSING GIRL MAY BE FOUND

mysteriously disappeared on January 13, 1925.
The body was discovered by dredge workmen who were dredging the river for a fellow-worker who had fallen to his death several days ago.
Description: Checks With That of Frances
Chief Henderson, after checking the body closely with descriptions of Miss Smith tallied in several details, and that a fragrant odor of the dress was of orange color, the same as the student wore on the day she disappeared from the college at Northampton.
Springfield police were notified and they called Major Thomas J. Hammond of Northampton, attorney for St. John Smith of New York, father of the girl. Attorney Hammond has been in charge of the search, which has extended over a year.
Medical examiner Frederick Jones of Springfield said the body had been in the water for about a year. The protruding forehead corresponded with the description of Miss Smith, he said.
Corpses Not That of Alice Corbett
Chief Henderson said he did not think the body was that of Alice Corbett of Utica, N. Y., another Smith college student who also disappeared from Northampton on November 13, 1925. He pointed out that the body had been in the river only for about a year.
Miss Smith was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. St. John Smith of New York City. A reward of $10,000 was offered for information leading to a search for her was conducted for more than a month.
Alice Corbett was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Corbett of Utica, N. Y., she disappeared leaving a note addressed to her parents indicating that she contemplated suicide.

BRITISH COMMENT ON SINKING OF SHIP

LONDON, March 29.—(AP)—Intentional British workmen today commented on the international problem arising from the sinking of the Canadian schooner "Im Alone" by a United States coast-guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico.
The New Statesman said editorially: "The American victory over an unarmed sloop flying the British flag and carrying in her hold, must of course be closely investigated. But it is unlikely that it will form the basis of a very serious international incident."
The weekly reviews in general accord the "Im Alone" incident the most prominent position in their columns.
BELIEVE British Honduras, Mar. 29.—(AP)—The big international problem arising from the sinking of the schooner "Im Alone" by the United States coast guard, which caused special police protection to be given Consul G. Russell Taggart yesterday was calmer today pending results of the inquiry into the case.
Government authorities declined to discuss the matter.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP)—The coast guard announced today that it had received information from the responsible officials at New Orleans not belonging to its own service roboring its original position, that the Canadian runner, "Im Alone," had been legally pursued and sunk.

The names of the officials referred to were not disclosed in the coast guard statement, which said there was no doubt that the "Im Alone" was within 12 miles off the coast and under American statutes. The coast guard has jurisdiction over these waters. Further, it was added, there was no doubt that a hot and continuous pursuit existed from the time the vessel first was sighted until she was sunk by gun fire. Both Points Are Considered Important

These are two of the most important points to be determined. The statement was today forwarded to the Canadian government a copy of the coast guard report of the sinking of the "Im Alone."

The department of justice today started an independent investigation of the case with a view to the possibility that it might have to prosecute the members of the "Im Alone" crew who were landed at New Orleans. The department of justice is expected to devote special attention to the investigation of the four points upon which the Canadian case, if pressed to the point of a protest, probably would be predicated.

Whether the "Im Alone" was within the one-hour sailing limit of the shore when first hailed, whether pursuit of suspected vessel is permitted outside of this imaginary line;

Whether the pursuit was "hot, continuous and unbroken" in this case, since the "Im Alone" was sunk by another vessel than the one which started the chase; and whether such cases justify violence to the extent of sinking a ship and causing loss of life.

France, if she presses the case of the drowning of the French sailor on board the "Im Alone," is expected by diplomatic circles to demand moral reparations in addition to material reparations.

The question of moral reparations probably would involve an apology or expression of regret by the American government to France for the loss of life. The matter of material reparations would depend largely, it was said today, upon whether the dead seaman has relatives who desire the matter pressed for settlement and just what type of contract the seaman had with the ship owners.

Both the Canadian legation and the French embassy still are without instructions from their governments. It is believed possible, however, that reports from their own consuls at New Orleans and those from the state department would be examined and transmitted to Ottawa and Paris before any formal action is taken.

'REDSKIN' FILMED LARGELY IN COLOR

A contract calling for the greatest footage of natural color film made for the screen was arranged for Richard Dix's latest screen masterpiece, "Redskin," which will open at the Elsinore tomorrow.
Paramount studio officials and Andrew J. Callahan of the Technicolor corporation, arranged the details and signed the contract. "Redskin" is about two-thirds in color.
Callahan, speaking for the Technicolor company, which has been conducting intricate experiments with the reproduction of color on the screen, predicted that "Redskin" will establish motion picture history. Newly improved natural color photographic processes were employed which give true color value to all shades of red, something seldom accomplished on the screen previously.
Practically the entire picture was filmed against the natural background of the Pacific southwest, within the great "scenic" circle around Gallup, New Mexico. A full synchronization of music and effects adds to the beauty and majesty of the production.
In addition to the main feature, the eight Victor Artists will be seen and heard on the screen in a number of new novelty singing numbers. Also Marion Harris in songs together with the Fats Domino quartet will make up the best program presented in some time.

HOOVER HALTS HUGE WALKOUT

Strike of 4000 Employees Is Suspended for 30 Days as Board Created

an emergency investigating committee appointed by President Hoover late today. The decision does not mean that the 4,000 employees have dropped their grievance, the leaders asserted.

The strike order was issued by four big railroad brotherhoods. The trouble, dating back about six months, came to an impasse today when eight leaders of the four brotherhoods, locomotive firemen and engineers, engineers, trainmen and conductors, failed to agree with J. A. Somerville, vice president of the Texas and Pacific and other T. and P. executives.

Removal of Yards Cause of Disagreement
The discussion was said to have grown largely from the railroad's removal of its yards from Longview and Marshall to Mincola and Shreveport, with other dispatches creeping at the matter was brought under discussion.

Many of the railroad employees had purchased homes at Longview and Marshall on time payments. When moved to the new division points they asked the Texas and Pacific to reimburse them for their property losses. This the road declined to do.

The strike vote was taken by employees last week. The result, said to have been almost 100 per cent in favor of the walkout, was issued by brotherhood spokesmen here Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.—(AP)—President Hoover took action late today to avert the threatened strike by employees of the Texas and Pacific railway by issuing a proclamation creating an emergency board of inquiry to investigate the dispute and report on its findings. This report will be made to the president.

Under the rail labor act, both the railway management and the workers are restrained from taking any further action until the expiration of the thirty-day period.

The members of the board, five in all, have not yet been appointed.

The president affixed his signature to the proclamation after Chairman Winslow of the board of mediation had called at the White House, and the instrument set forth that the chief executive had been advised that the strike threatened a serious interruption of interstate commerce.

SCIENTISTS DIG UP ANCIENT SKELETON

LONDON, Mar. 28.—(AP)—The skeleton of a man who was supposed to have lived about 2,000 B. C. has been discovered by the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania in excavations on the site of the Chaldees.

The human relic was found in the last grave of an ancient cemetery. The grave is described as the richest of its period yet brought to light.

The skeleton was thought to be that of a man because of the number of copper weapons placed at the head and along the side of the wooden coffin in which lay the crumbling bones. Among the weapons were three of the largest spears that the cemetery has produced. A number of copper vessels, a copper tray made to imitate basketwork and piled with bowls and vases of novel forms were heaped nearby.

The ancient skeleton was richly adorned, six gold fillets crowned the head. Around the neck were three strings of beads of gold, colored stone, agate, carnelian, jasper, chalcedony, and sapphires which are rarely found before the time of Sargon of Akkad, early Babylonian king.

On the wrists were four heavy gold bangles and four bangles of silver. Gold rings adorned the fingers. From one of the strings of beads hung a gold amulet in the form of a standing goat, exquisitely modeled, a real gem of miniature sculpture.

United States Attorneys To be Investigated Fully By Order of Mr. Hoover

(AP)—President Hoover's announced intention for more effective law enforcement during his administration was carried a step further today with the issuance of orders by Attorney General Mitchell for an investigation of the work of United States attorneys throughout the country.

The order was issued at the request of the president himself and the inquiry was looked upon as supplemental to the work to be done by the commission to be appointed to investigate law enforcement in general. Mr. Mitchell emphasized that no one district attorney's office was being given special surveillance and that he hoped to ascertain how effectively the district attorneys were performing their duties.

Criminal Cases Pile Up
At the end of the fiscal year 1928 the justice department reported a total of 30,375 criminal cases pending. Of this number 13,259 were criminal prohibition cases. During recent years a number of members of congress have called attention to the additional work the prohibition laws have placed upon the prosecuting officers of the government and the federal judiciary.

While no mention was made of this in today's announcement, Mr. Mitchell did say that if it were found that more assistant district attorneys were needed, he would recommend that they be provided for.

Cases Increase Rapidly
The 1928 departmental report disclosed that during the year 490 prohibition cases had been handed to decision while 56,729 new criminal prohibition cases had been instituted. This represented an increase of 15,089 cases over the 1927 fiscal year.
At the end of 1928, a total of 147,142 cases were pending on the dockets of the United States courts, a decrease of only 2,150 from the preceding year. Of the total number pending, however, 29,000 were cases in which the United States was not interested.

Courts Congested
At the start of 1928 it was said that approximately 21,000 prohibition cases were pending, an increase of approximately 3,000 in six months. Prohibition officials said that congestion in the courts was delaying trial of many prohibited persons charged with violating the prohibition law.

In addition to the criminal prohibition cases the government prosecutors last year handled 5,617 civil prohibition cases, in which judgments totaling $382,853, were obtained and other civil cases which benefited the government by $50,590, were settled without court action.

Mr. Mitchell said he wished to know just what was required to bring about an improvement in the handling of the government's law business and just how far behind each prosecutor was in his work. Upon completion of the survey, he added, a report would be made to President Hoover.

MACHINERY OF LAW IS MOVING AT LAST

Long Awaited Action Against U. S. Congressman Begun As Status Learned

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league issued a statement tonight saying Representative Michaelson of Illinois, had not been endorsed either in the last general election or primary by the anti-saloon league of Illinois or the national organization.

CHICAGO, Mar. 29.—(AP)—A month is not long to delay issuing a warrant for the arrest of a congressman if his case is one of 3,000 on file, the United States district attorney's office declared today in taking action against Representative M. A. Michaelson of Chicago, charged with dry law violation.

Arroused by the assertion of department of justice officials in Washington that he had delayed arresting the congressman in order not to embarrass him while congress was in session, George E. O. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, issued a written statement of explanation.

Representative Michaelson, it developed, was indicted in Jacksonville, Fla., last October after two trucks he was bringing back from Havana, were found in the railroad station, leaking. A policeman made the discovery and turned the matter over to the federal authorities.

News of the indictment did not reach the general public until nearly five months later and the announcement was followed immediately by the issuance of the warrant today by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Mr. Johnson said he had no communication with Washington officials on the matter and did not understand the reference in Washington dispatches to the Jacksonville attorneys' writing in regard to failure of the Chicago attorney to issue the warrant.

Meanwhile Congressman Michaelson, who voted for the dramatic Jones dry law at the last session, was believed to be somewhere in the state, but just where no one knew. Repeated calls to his home brought no answer. His home was set at $2,000 and it was believed he would surrender within 24 hours. If he does not, it was indicated, a deputy United States marshal will be sent out after him. Mr. Michaelson, who was first chosen to represent the seventh Illinois district in 1920, received the backing of the anti-saloon league for re-election last fall.

He was born in Norway in 1878 and came to this country at the age of seven.

Libel Suit Again Filed Against Big Bill 'The Builder'

CHICAGO, Mar. 29.—(AP)—William McAndrew, former superintendent of public schools today refilled his $250,000 libel suit against Mayor William Hale Thompson, the answer to the mayor's pre-election charge that McAndrew was a British propagandist.

The suit was called in the superior court last week and dismissed for want of prosecution. When McAndrew's attorneys, busy in other courts, failed to appear,

Paris Avenue to Be Named After Famed Marshal

PARIS, Mar. 29.—(AP)—One of the finest avenues in Paris, the Avenue de Bois de Boulogne, has been named after Marshal Foch. The Paris municipal council today decided to call this avenue the "Avenue de Marechal Foch."

A statue of Foch will be erected at the end of the avenue at the entrance to the great park of the Bois de Boulogne.
ILLNESS REDUCED
The scarlet fever situation in Douglas county is reported to be considerably improved. Only one new case, at Dillard, has been reported. Five cases are under quarantine at Roseburg.
