ally troops, shot in the chest; a civilian slightly injured by a bomb dropped by a rebel plane; and a Mexican woman and child hit by spent bullets.

The war department ordered 18 airplanes to Naco to prevent further bombings. The state department asked that the rebel commander be sharply rebuked. The navy set a destroyer from San Diego to protect Americans in Sinaloa.

For three hours Arizona Naco heard the whine of rifles and machine gun bullets. Citizens had been aroused before daybreak by an explosion which prefaced the attack.

Rebels Shoot From Ambush At Yanks

A four-man patrolman was shot in the chest when his patrol, after uncovering a cache of grenades near the border, was fired upon by Mexicans believed to be rebels.

The federal garrison at Naco beat back a mass attack of rebel tanks, infantry and cavalry. Rebel casualties were greater than those of the federals, though no definite check was available.

A reinforcement of 230 federal troops arrived at Naco, Ariz., by train from El Paso, and joined their comrades in the trenches during the hottest part of the fighting. They were permitted to come by train from El Paso and to cross the border apparently under orders from Washington. It was thought that the rebels with whom American troops had their brush had received news of the federal troop train and were waiting to bomb it.

12 Yank Planes Are Four Combs

Twelve American attack planes and six observation planes were ordered to Naco, Ariz.

The federal army on the west coast occupied Culiacan, capital of the state of Sinaloa, without resistance. General Cardenas reported to Mexico City that the rebels were retreating to San Blas near the Sinaloa-Sonora border.

In the main northern campaign, General Almazan's advance guard occupied Santa Rosalia, about 90 miles south of Chihuahua City, where the rebel forces have been reformed. They also took Parai, a strategic mountain point. General Calles informed the government. There was no fighting in either place.

General Escobar placed rebel dead in the fighting around Jimenez at not more than 200. The federal estimate was 1000.

A strong federal punitive expedition was on its way to combat guerrilla bands of so-called "Cristeros" whose activities have become a serious menace to Jalisco and Guana Juato.

NORRIS WORRIED AT DINNER SEAT ISSUE

"The league of nations, the world court, the maintaining of a big navy, the conducting of a war in Nicaragua, are all important and may affect the peace of the civilized world, but they sink into insignificance and fade into oblivion when compared with the great question that is now agitating the whole world as to where the vice president's sister shall sit at the dinner table.

"I have no personal interest in the decision. I am only interested and I am writing as one of the common, ordinary citizens, who, in a very small way, contributes in the shape of taxes towards the payment and the upkeep of this great mysterious social sham, which towers in importance over questions of national and international import.

Walter Fears People May Discover Sham

"If you delay this decision too long, the common people of America may have their eyes opened and may discover that issues in campaigns, usually fought out along national and international lines, are second in importance to the social functions of our capital city.

"We have just emerged from a campaign where we talked about the tariff; we argued about farm

STORM'S TOLL MOUNTS TO 20

Wisconsin Hardest Hit With 14 Killed; List of Dead Mounting Steadily

accounted for. Of the five dead reported in Minnesota—four were farmers whose homes were demolished by the wind and the fifth was that of a motorist whose car tumbled down onto the road by the storm.

10 Year Old Lad Dies of Injuries

A ten year old son of Mrs. Ida Moyer, died in Barron, Wis., hospital, from injuries suffered when the home of L. Vohl, near Barron, collapsed.

Reports trickled in slowly from the storm-swept sections, adding to the death list hourly as new fatalities were made known. It was feared that when wire communications are fully reestablished the toll may be further increased.

Airplane photographs of some sections of the stricken areas, made 12 hours after the storm struck, revealed many scenes of havoc. In some cases only a few boards marked the spot where farm homes had stood only yesterday. Even most of the debris was carried away by the wind.

Red Cross Workers Start on Survey

Hardly had the flying timbers settled to earth when representatives of the Red Cross started a survey in the Minnesota storm area, to determine whether additional measures would be required and to definitely fix the extent of the damage.

Although the storm was described in some reports as a tornado, the federal weather bureau said it was "a low pressure area" with St. Paul almost in the center. The wind there reached a maximum velocity of only 36 miles an hour but was estimated at almost doubled at some other points. The weather bureau said the low pressure area had moved out over Lake Superior today.

While accurate figures as to the monetary loss must necessarily await a closer survey, preliminary estimates exceed the million dollar mark.

Destruction Covers 100 Square Miles

The bulk of the damage is believed to have been in Wisconsin as the wind beat down or blew apart farm homes and buildings in an area roughly 100 miles square in the northwestern section. Barron, Rush and Sawyer counties were hardest hit and parts of five other counties in that district felt the wrath of the wind.

One estimate from Barron places the damage in that vicinity at $750,000, but it was impossible to check the accuracy of the report. From Glenwood City came an estimate that damage in that district would reach $100,000 and might exceed that figure.

In Minnesota destruction caused in a ten mile stretch through Chicago county, particularly near Lindstrom, was placed at $500,000. While in north Minneapolis, the loss was placed at $100,000.

Indications tonight were that two or more storms joined forces in Minnesota before launching an attack on Wisconsin. Apparently one storm, coming from directly west of Minneapolis, joined another which swept into the state from the southwest but neither caused much damage until they combined near Lake Minnetonka and then fell on north Minneapolis.

TEXAS GUINAN IN NEW CAPITOL SHOW

America's most famous night club hostess, Texas Guinan is to open with her first Vitaphone All-Talking singing super-special at Bilh's Capitol theatre today, and will return on Thursday.

"The Queen of the Night Clubs" Miss Guinan is in an environment that fits her like the proverbial glove. She is shown in her own fashionable club and the story woven into and around it takes on a tragic aura when a pistol shot proclaims a murder within its brilliantly hued confines. The story has its heart twists and turns with ever increasing action.

As the picture is constructed it is full of drama, comedy music of the jazzy kind, and the life of the big city in which its scenes are laid. Vitaphone vaudeville acts, and the Fox Movietone News will complete the program.

and turned on Representative Woods, of New Orleans. Members rushed between them.

Solon's Speech Is Charged With Passion

A few moments before the vote was ordered, Representative De Lesdernier of Plaquemines, ran to the loud speaker microphone in front of the chamber, and in a voice trembling with passion began an address in which he sought to compare the drive against Governor Long with that of the crucifixion upon the cross.

A member sought to stop him on the point of sacrilegious utterances and during the excitement, the Plaquemines representative exclaimed:

"Take my life but spare my privilege!"

He collapsed in a heap at the foot of the microphone, and members rushed to his aid, throwing a glass of water in his face and lifting him to a chair, where he was fanned.

Physician Asserts Pulse Is Normal

A member physician examined him and announced his pulse was normal. He quickly revived and recorded his vote.

At the afternoon session neither the senate nor the house made much headway as recesses followed recess. They did succeed in appropriating $100,000 to defray the cost of impeachment trial.

This morning the Long supporters came forward with a compromise proposition to provide for a public rebuke of the governor because of the Manly incident and an apology from the executive to the publisher, but the attempt to offer such a resolution was howled down and a rule invoked that threw it out.

From early morning the entire capitol was keyed to a high pitch and crowds in which were a large number of women swarmed about the streets and capital.

The action today climaxed a week of investigation into the governor's official acts in which heated accusations were flung from camp to camp, the governor's opinion, while expressed, the belief that many of the 18 other counts, running from abusive language to a plot to commit murder, would be added to the impeachment before the house closes down, another spokesman for the governor, announced he has just begun to fight. They cannot win.

"Sonny Boy" Is New Role Which Davey Lee Plays

Manager Archie Holt of Bilh's Capitol theatre announces that April 21 will be the opening date for "Sonny Boy," Warner Bros. latest Vitaphone's talking picture, and the first starring vehicle for four-year-old Davey Lee, who won this early honor through his marvelous performance in support of Al Johnson in "The Singing Fool."

"Sonny Boy" is a play which has nothing of the tragic character of the role he had in the Johnson play. He is shown as the child of temporarily battling parents, and to keep the child's father from taking Sonny Boy with him, his mother plans to have her sister to kidnap him. It is by his winsome and ingenious doings that things are finally straightened out.

at 11 a. m., when the rebel forces fell reluctantly back after their second charge had melted under vicious machine gun and rifle fire from the Naco breastworks but there has been scarcely a minute of the day that bullets have not snapped and crackled through this battered adobe town.

Federal troops tonight were on the alert for another attack in force by Topete's combined troops. An attack in the dark might put another aspect on the battle. This morning Topete did not get his first charge under way until the sun was high in the sky and the federal riflemen and machine gunners favored by perfect visibility on the rocky terrain in front of them, picked off the advance troops with ease.

The rebels laid themselves open to deadly fire from the trenches on all fronts. Several times rebel tanks approached the federal wire and appeared ready to nose through, with machine gun bullets playing on their armored sides like trip hammers on a wash boiler, when they were forced to fall back for lack of foot troops to follow them in.
