

Local News Briefs

Teachers Return—Miss Mabel Robertson, dean of girls at the Salem high school, was elected secretary of the deans' division of secondary and higher schools held in Spokane last week. It became known when the five delegates from the Salem school returned Sunday afternoon. Representatives of the local teachers' association were, besides Miss Robertson, Miss Gretchen Kraemer, supervisor of music in the grades; Miss Naomi Taylor of the high school English department; Miss Dorothy Taylor, Lincoln and McKinley principals; and E. E. Bergman, director of the machine shop. The group returned north, making their return trip by way of Lewiston, Walla Walla and Pendleton.

Four Generations Together—Four generations gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Glover near Amity Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Russell of Salem and Mr. Russell's mother and sister, Mrs. M. J. Russell and sister Miss Blanche L. Russell of Monmouth motored there to visit Mr. and Mrs. Van Lawson and two children. Mrs. Lawson is a daughter of Mrs. Glover, who is a daughter of Mrs. M. J. Russell.

Get Class Credit—Twenty-two Salem teachers will receive reading circle credit for attendance at Miss Carlotta Crowley's class in improvement of Reading and 28 teachers will get credit from her class in Health Education, according to the lists sent Monday to the state superintendent. While credit was given to this number, 75 were enrolled in the improvement of Reading class and 38 in the other courses.

Leamers Make Drive—Professor and Mrs. Frank Leamer made a trip with friends to Portland on Sunday. It was their first view of the west side of the Willamette valley as Professor Leamer came here from Iowa this year to take charge of the department of physics at Willamette university. They were much impressed by the beautiful country they saw.

Mazama Chief to Come—John Scott, president of the Mazama club of Portland, will be a guest and speaker at the meeting of the Chemeketa April 23 at the Y. M. C. A. Experiences while camping in Jefferson park will be told by Mr. Scott. The Chemeketa will hold their annual outing in the park July 13 to 21.

Going South—Mr. and Mrs. Al Krause, who have been spending the last few days with friends in Portland, expect soon to leave for the southern part of California where they will enjoy an extended vacation. Mr. Krause, who owns the National Clothiers store here, has been hard at work for a number of years with practically no vacation.

Leaves on Vacation—Miss Estella Kaylor, clerk in the mail or register department at the Salem postoffice, left Monday morning for coast points, where she will spend a ten-day vacation in company with her sister, Mrs. Ike Conklin of Marion. They will visit at Newport, Waldport and Florence. Miss Kaylor will be away from the office for 15 days.

Dwelling Planned—J. B. Peters took out a permit Monday to build a dwelling at 1709 South 20th street at a cost of $2000. Mrs. Katie Hilliker obtained a permit to make repairs on a dwelling at 540 Mission street at a cost of $100.

Complaint Filed—Complaint was filed Monday in circuit court for the collection of $1500 and costs by G. L. Bowman and Alida Bowman against John Williamson, et al, who are said to be obligated by a mortgage for the above amount.

REALTOR MEET FOUND BENEFIT

Coming Event is Expected to Cause Fine Results in Local Situation

Belief that the Northwest Real Estate convention, which will be held in Salem July 24 to 26, will be one of the most valuable events of the kind which Salem will entertain in many years, has been expressed by members of the Salem Realty board, in connection with their program started this week of preparing for the meeting and enlisting local interest in its success.

"The best way to advertise a city and its immediate vicinity is to bring men to the city who are selling real estate, and that is just what members of the Salem Realty board had in mind last summer at Victoria, B. C., where they invited the association to hold its 1929 convention here," a member of the board said Monday.

"It wasn't the fine summer weather in the Willamette valley that attracted the attention of real estate men. It was the samples of flax distribution by the Salem delegation."

"The Salem delegates found unusual interest in the fertile Willamette valley among the real estate men at Victoria. They wanted to know more about it, and that was the reason Salem was able to get the convention."

"Delegates from cities in Oregon, Washington and Idaho all recognized the great advertising value to a city in having several hundred leading real estate men present for several days. And it is for this reason that members of the Salem Realty board feel that they did good work in bringing the Northwest real estate convention to Salem next July."

Prohibition and Saloon Days Are Shown in Relief

The prohibition film, "The Transgressor," which has been shown to large audiences in all parts of the state and nation will be shown in the high school auditorium at Rickreall on Wednesday evening, April 17 at 8:00 o'clock. R. T. Cookingham, former sheriff of Umatilla county, will deliver an interesting address in connection with the showing of the film.

"The Transgressor" is the life story of two men whose experiences are strangely interwoven from their chummy boyhood days. Everyone is invited to attend the meeting. There will be no admission charged.

Falls to Stop—G. C. Borland, 550 North Summer street, was arrested Sunday on a charge of falling to stop at a through street intersection.

Hunt Club to Meet—The Salem Hunt club will meet Wednesday night at the chamber of commerce auditorium. About 125 members are expected to attend.

Seriously Ill—Mrs. J. K. Holt, wife of the local insurance man, is quite seriously ill at the home, 1920 North 4th street.

Return From Portland—Mrs. Arthur E. Gibbard and family were week-end visitors in Portland.

Goodwins to Portland—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Goodwin visited friends in Portland over the week-end.

Political Pot is Simmering Upon Campus at Willamette

"Who's going to run?" is the all-absorbing question on the Willamette university campus this week. The running is for student body offices, however, not in track sports. Petitions nominating students for the several offices must be filed with the executive committee by Saturday.

William Mumford, president of the Junior class looms as a strong candidate for president. He has participated in various student body activities and is well-known. Equally well-known is Paul Geddes, who is being groomed to oppose him. Geddes was editor of the Wallulah, the university annual, of last year and was manager of the men's glee club this year.

Editorship of the Collegian, the college weekly, is at present a free-for-all position, and no petitions were circulated Monday. A petition nominating Robert McGilvra for editor of the Wallulah was made, and it is understood that McGilvra will accept the nomination.

Dark hints but no petitions went about concerning possible nominations for the two vice-presidential positions. By today, however, it is practically certain that petitions nominating students for these offices will be started. Several strong candidates in the Junior class are eyeing these positions, and it is only a question of fraternity and sorority choice so far as the manner of dividing them is concerned.

Rumors of varying character were reported about the possible activity of Daleth Teth Gimmel, recently organized group of independent women. Some held that the organization would not participate, as a group, in the nominations and election, while others hinted at a complete women's slate for all offices from the presidency down.
