APPEAL IS LOST BY BOOTLEGGER

Illicit Liquor Business Held Bar to Recovery of Property

N. L. Smith, who admitted that he was at one time engaged in the illicit sale of liquor in Portland, was denied the right to recover possession of a one-half interest in certain Portland property located on Eleventh street, in an opinion handed down by the state supreme court here Tuesday.

The opinion was written by Justice Rosenman, and modified the decree of Judge D. R. Parker of the Multnomah county circuit court.

The record in the case showed that Smith and Mrs. Mattie M. Barnes, appellant, bought the property together. The cost was $16,500, of which amount Smith and Mrs. Barnes each paid half. Title to the property was placed in Mrs. Barnes' name, with the understanding that she would hold Smith's half in trust.

When Mrs. Barnes refused to transfer the Eleventh street property to Smith he brought suit in the circuit court against the woman. Smith asked that one-half of the Eleventh street property be turned over to him, and that he be declared the sole owner of other property located on Twelfth street. The Twelfth street property also was placed in Mrs. Barnes' name, with an agreement that she would turn it over to Smith on request.

The supreme court refused to grant Smith any part of the 11th street property because it declined to be a party to any deal involving the illicit manufacture or sale of liquor. There was evidence to show that the basement of the Eleventh street property had been used as a store for liquors in violation of law.

The court found that the Twelfth street property never was used for bootlegging purposes, and ordered the title placed in Smith's name. The evidence showed that Mrs. Barnes and her daughter assisted Smith in his liquor ventures.

Salem Man and Woman Seeking Large Damages

Grace Burns, of Salem, widow of Carl Burns, deceased, and H. P. Gustafson, of Salem, who was riding with Burns in a fatal accident near Bandon in January, have both filed suit in the Coquille circuit court asking damages from the Coast Auto Lines, a subsidiary of Oregon Stages, Inc. Mrs. Burns asks $7500 and Gustafson $8000.

The suits allege that the automobile in which Gustafson and Burns were riding was crowded off the highway by one of the stages of the auto line.

Guernsey Cattle Club Schedules Its Annual Sale

The Clackamas county Guernsey Cattle club has set May 3 as the date for its annual sale, which will be held at the fairgrounds at Canby, and E. A. Rhoten of Salem has been engaged as manager. About 50 head of registered Guernseys will be sold.

This is as much a demonstration of the county's Guernsey industry as it is a sale, and special events are planned each year by the sale committee. Although it has but a few years since the first purebred Guernseys were introduced into Clackamas counties, the herds have increased until now a big sale is held each year with only reducing the stock appreciably.

FOUR GIRLS PICKED FOR TYPING EVENT

Four girls will represent the Salem high school in the annual state typing contest to be held on the Oregon State college campus at Corvallis Saturday, April 27, according to the team announced Tuesday by Miss Muriel Wilson, typing instructor. They are: Edna Faxon and Dorothy Kloeping, novices; Dorothy McCracken and Lougie Bratzke, amateurs. Besides Miss Wilson, several members of the commercial faculty will accompany the team to Corvallis, including Merritt Davis, head of the department, and Miss Elizabeth Hogg.

2 of 6 Youngest Pupils are Boys

Of the six youngest students in the Salem high school senior class, only two are boys, Principal J. C. Nelson said yesterday. The two boys are Maxey Langford, who will be 18 years and three months when the class finishes June 7, who ranks third from the top, and Merrick Metcalf, who ties with Vivian Marrs for fifth place, Margaret Purvine is the youngest, Helen Burk second and two months older than Margaret, and Dorothy Harlan is fourth youngest. The average age of the entire class is just a few days over 18 years. Two students are 24; one each 22 and 23 years old, five 21 years; 20, 20 years; 46 will be 19 and 110 18.

PRUNE OUTLOOK AS YET IS UNCERTAIN

Growers Must Not Put Out Prices Too Early Is Jenk's Opinion

Delay in the blooming season will help prune growers rather than prove a barrier to a good crop in the opinion of W. T. Jenks, prune grower and buyer here. The annual blooming has been held materially by weather conditions this year and it will be fully a week before the trees are in bloom, Jenks believes, but he is hopeful that good weather will accompany the blooming period and assure a good set of fruit.

Mr. Jenks gave the opinion Tuesday that growers were making a mistake in quoting prices for fall delivery of the 1929 crop. "No one can foretell the outlook just now," he said, "and the quotations already made are purely guess work." Jenks said that 8 1/2¢ had been quoted on 30's, 6 1/2¢ on 40's and 5 1/2¢ on 50's in the New York market.

There is practically no carry-over of the 1928 crop and it is questionable if California's crop will be large, said Jenks, although there is little available information about the latter situation as yet. Reports from the south indicate that apricots and peaches have been badly hurt by late frosts in California but this situation has effected the prune crop slightly.

It was reported in Salem that week that frosts at Chico, Calif., had damaged the prunes but this report was not authentic.

Large Birthday Cake to be Cut For Anniversary

A huge birthday cake like the one of which has seldom been seen in Salem, will be cut Friday by Miller's department store in celebration of that institution's ninth year in Salem. The cake will be on display in the windows of the store Wednesday and Thursday but at 10 o'clock Friday morning the public will be invited to partake of the delicacy.

Thirty dozen eggs, 20 pounds of butter, one half a sack of sugar and a barrel of flour went into the cake which was made by the Bakerite bakery.

Miller's anniversary is also to be commemorated by a store-wide sale which begins Thursday.

SEWER PROJECT IS NEAR COMPLETION

Costs of the various sewers built in connection with the program started two years ago, were listed by the engineers who designed the drains and supervised construction in a report read at the city council meeting Monday night, in which it was pointed out that the $300,000 received from the first bond sale has all been spent, together with the premium. Projects completed or nearly so include:

Spruce street drain, $63,240.10; Gaines street, $33,716.15; Norway street, $38,103.75; Trade street drain, $13,918; Hoyt street, $3,978; Oxford street, $2,765;

Nebraska street, $12,306.30; Mission street, $5,293. In addition, $17,293 was spent on flood control improvements.

Local Postoffice Handles 10,000 Pieces Each Day

An average of nearly 10,000 pieces of mail is handled daily on the nine routes served by the Salem postoffice, according to figures compiled following the annual check made from April 1 to 13 by C. H. Glenn, foreman of the local office. In the 13 working days represented by the count, exactly 118,717 pieces of mail were handled. The count was not made in an especially busy time of the year, so it is probable the average the year round would better this figure.

7 1/2%

Seems like a pretty high rate of interest these days. . . .

When bonds which once carried 7 and 8 per cent now carry 4 1/2 and 5. . . . Is it too high a rate to be safe?

That depends on what backs it up. . . .

In the case of our 7 1/2 per cent preferred stock, there is behind the promise to pay this rate of interest tangible property. . . .

In a key industry. . . .

In addition to the competent men in charge of our mill we have unusual natural advantages which insure low operating costs and give brilliant promise of high earnings. . . .

We would like an opportunity to tell you about this unusual investment opportunity. . . .
