

AGED SCANDAL AIRED IN PARIS

Clemenceau's Effort to Put Pershing Into Discard Told in Newspaper

mand and sacrificed Pershing. Marshal Foch told M. Recouly, "If after that incident, with which he would naturally have been acquainted, General Pershing had been kept at his post he would without doubt have been more stubborn than ever."
Newness of Successor
Favored By Foch
"Even supposing he had been replaced, his successor would have needed time to get in touch with everything. He would have gained nothing by the change and it is quite possible that he would have lost something. That was my opinion."
"I was convinced," M. Recouly quotes Marshal Foch as saying, "that my method of commanding, based upon persuasion much more than on severity, was a good one, the only good one and I remained resolved to carry it out to the end."

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Word from Paris that interviews with the late Marshal Foch, soon to be published, would show that the allied generalissimo had refused during the war to request that General Pershing be relieved of command of the American expeditionary forces was received without comment by Washington officials.
Army officers who were attached to Pershing's staff recalled his vigorous and successful championship of the policy of creating an independent American army under command of American officers and with its own staff system. This, they indicated, had run counter to the desires of some of the allied civil as well as military leaders. General Pershing was under strong pressure from the time he reached France in 1917 to recommend that American troops be employed as replacements in British and French armies to make up for the war waste in man power in those forces.
These officers expressed complete confidence, however, that at no time had either President Wilson or his secretary of war, Newton D. Baker, been in a frame of mind to have accepted a foreign suggestion that Pershing be relieved, even if one had been received.

BARTHELMESS NOW IS HEARD IN TALKIE

Richard Barthelmess is now heard as well as seen. The star of two-score features, the "Tol-able David," and his "Patent Leather Kid," is now being heard for the first time in "Weary River," his newest picture at the Elsinore today.
In "Weary River," Barthelmess not only talks but plays the piano. A Vitaphone test proved his voice of excellent quality for talking pictures and advance notices predict unprecedented success for the initial Barthelmess talkie.
On the stage, a new policy will be established today with the opening of Fanchon and Marco's "Varieties." With its many well known artists, Fanchon and Marco in the future will be at the Elsinore from Friday until Monday.

POWER FIRM'S MAN INTERVIEWS COURT

ment in the Santiam territory.
Kelley explained to the court that his interests proposed to impound the waters of the lake in a manner to take the water through a pipe line down a 1500 foot fall to the location of a power plant several miles below the lake. The water would then be carried north to a second power plant a number of miles north of the lake.
Kelley's contention is that the city could retain its rights for water use using the water after it had been brought from the lake and through the two power projects. His statement was supported by local engineers who maintained that the city would actually be benefited by the power project inasmuch as water would be brought nearer to the city.
Kelley was in Albany Thursday night meeting there with the city council, county court, chamber of commerce and the Lin county game and protective association, to ask that these organizations withdraw all protest to the development of the Marion lake power project.

ROUTE ANNOUNCED FOR BLOSSOM DAY

compensated for by the tulip beds along the Wallace Road.
Blossom Day, originally scheduled for the coming Sunday, has been definitely postponed until Sunday, April 28. This announcement was made late Wednesday afternoon by C. F. Giese, King Bing of the Cherrians, following an inspection trip with a committee of Cherrians.
The men visited the cherry section in Folk north and west of the orchards as far south as Rosedale. Nowhere did they find any indication of prune trees being in full blossom until another ten days or two weeks, and particularly was this evident in the southern section.

Cherry blossoms in Folk will be out pretty good by next Sunday but no prune trees will be ready for the sight-seers until the following Sunday. Most of the cherries now bursting are the early planting in the Orchard Heights district.

The tulip beds and other flowers will present a more attractive appearance to the hundreds who will witness them on the annual blossom trip, as there are only scattering showings of color now.

FIGHTING NAMES IN LINEUP OF LEGION

Some "fighting families" show up in the membership list of Capital Post No. 9, American Legion, but apparently in Uncle Sam's forces during the world war there was no such thing as a "fighting name" excepting some of those which were reproduced in "What Price Glory" but would be out of place in a family newspaper.

The point is that the Smiths and other large families are well represented in the legion post membership, but no uncommon names appear more than twice— with just two exceptions, and they are explained by the fact that three members of the family served in the war. Those two exceptions are Paulus and Wenger. There were other families that did as well but their names are pretty well distributed anyway.

As might be expected, the Smiths lead in representation on the honor roll of Capital Post with 13, and the Johnsons and Millers are tied for second place with ten each. There are seven Oisons, and six each of the Brown Jones, Wood and Williams families.
Names that appear five times include Anderson, Hunt, Nelson and White. Those appearing four times are Bates, Clark, Davis, King, Martin, Moore and Wilson. Three of each of the following names appear: Carson, Gilbert, Gordon, Lee, Long, O'Neil, Page, Paulus, Peterson, Price, Stewart, Thomas, Wenger and Young.
The only satisfaction that the etymologist can get out of this list of names is that there are a lot of Scotchmen, distinguishable by the prefix "Mc."

A continuation of the honor roll follows:
P. D. Quisenberry, M. E. Race, M. E. Ransdell, George I. Ransom, Milo Rasmussen, Roland Rasmussen, R. S. Ratcliffe, Herbert O. Ray, George J. Raymond, Dorsey Reeves, M. E. Reeves, Edwin E. Register.
C. W. Reid, R. W. Remington, James Rentfrow, Arthur W. Rentschlar, Faye B. Rice, C. V. Richardson, D. S. Riches, Merrill D. Richmond, A. F. Richter, Ben R. Rickil, Paul F. Reick, L. T. Rigdon, T. E. Rilea.

Motion Day is Scheduled Today

Saturday morning has been set for motion and demurrer arguments in circuit court here but trial work before a jury will not start again until Tuesday afternoon of next week. The first case to come up then will be Spang vs. Haynes, an action relating to title of property.

METHODS USED AT TRIAL TOLD

Influence by Judge Hardy is Denied by Assistant to District Attorney

been the man and woman who occupied the Carmel cottage during the evangelist's disappearance.
Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento proposed a question to the witness at this point.
"Do you know why the district attorney did not present all of the witnesses to the grand jury?"
"I think I do," Ryan replied.
"Was it because of any influence exerted by Judge Hardy on the district attorney that these material witnesses were not presented?"
"No. His actions were not influenced directly or indirectly by Judge Hardy or any of his agents," Ryan stated.

Witness Denies Knowledge Of Hardy's Methods

"Did you know that Judge Hardy had employed or directed detectives to investigate the Carmel cottage case?" was the next interrogation.
"I don't even know that yet," said Ryan.
One of the articles of impeachment charges Hardy with having directed the activities of private detectives in the investigation, and evidence has been introduced through J. W. Buchanan, manager of a Los Angeles agency, to the effect that he made his reports out to Judge Hardy.

Little resumed cross examination of the witness, asking if Keyes had ever told Ryan he had not been influenced by Hardy in his action of not presenting all witnesses to the grand jury.
"No, I know Keyes better than that," Ryan replied.
"Did Keyes ever discuss with you the reason why he had not presented every available witness in the McPherson case to the grand jury?" Little asked next.
"He did, yes," Ryan answered, but there the line of interrogation was broken and efforts by several senators to elicit the reason were futile. The impeachment court was left in ignorance of what Ryan declared was the true reason why the investigation of the evangelist's alleged kidnaping was dropped.

FINE CONCERT GIVEN BY CHORAL SOCIETY

The Salem Choral society responded at a single instrument to the inspirational direction of Professor R. W. Hans Seltz in the presentation of a classical program from music masters at the Elsinore theater Thursday evening. Mrs. Kenneth Dalton at the piano gave a flawless support throughout the program.
Perhaps the most perfectly executed numbers were "Now the Night in Starlit Splendor," sextet from Lucia, and "I Passed by Your Window," the last without accompaniment, but the magnificent work of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" with its demanding accompaniment, was also fine in presentation.
"Goodnight Beloved," and the "Swan Song," were both presented with delicacy. The march from Tannhauser, by Wagner, was a fitting climax to an evening with the masters of music.—B. M. L.

Dean Hewitt is Presented Gift By "Y" Group

Dean Roy Hewitt of Williamette university was honored by members of the "Y" men club at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday morning when he was presented with a traveling bag for himself and a wicker table for his wife. In the traveling kit was a first-aid set and other equipment essential to the traveler.

Dean Hewitt plans to leave Salem late in June on a tour to the Orient. Dr. Norman K. Tully will be in the party as well as Ronald Hewitt, son of Dean and Mrs. Hewitt.

In making the presentation of the gifts short talks were made by Dr. Edward Lee Russell and Benjamin Rickil.
The address for the gathering was given by Perry B. Arnold, sales counselor, who discussed with the members of the club the value of having a goal in life, of setting forth rigorously to obtain that goal and of meeting and overcoming obstacles to its attainment.

TAPS SOUNDS FOR CIVIL WAR SOLDIER

Taps sounded for another veteran of the Civil War Wednesday night when Horatio Nelson, aged 85 years, succumbed from infirmities of old age at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Seamster, 265 North 24th street. He was ill but four days. The funeral services are announced for today at 1:30 p. m. at Rigdon's with interment in Cityview cemetery. The G. A. R. and W. R. C. will have charge of the services, with the sermon given by Rev. Lyman

Smith of the Nazarene church.
Mr. Nelson was born at Bolivar, Ohio, in 1844. He was a young man when the Civil War broke out and enlisted in Company G, 51st Ohio volunteers. Following his discharge from the army he took up the trade of blacksmith which he followed during his lifetime. He was married in Ohio to Loretta Cuyler, who preceded him in death. To the couple were born the following children who survive him: G. G. Nelson, Mrs. M. E. Neyhart, K. J. Nelson, W. D. Nelson and Mrs. Seamster, all of Salem; Mrs. J. W. Vaughn of Detroit, Mich.; S. T. Nelson, of Palm, Cal. Mr. Nelson had made his home in Salem for the past 20 years.

UNMARRIED WOMEN FAVORED FOR WORK

Unmarried women hereafter will be given preference in employment in the state department, according to a letter issued here today by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state. Copies of the letter were sent to all employees of the state department, motor vehicle division and other activities over which the secretary of state has jurisdiction.

"Under present economic conditions where a great many people are seeking employment, and where actual want exists in a great many homes because of lack of work, I believe it to be to the best interests of the people if preference in employment be given those persons who have no other source of income," read the letter.
