

Local News Briefs

Sisson C. of C. Speaker—B. E. Sisson, manager of Miller's store, will address the high school commercial students at an assembly during the activity period this morning. His subject is particularly pertinent at this time of the year for those who will graduate and is: "How Not to Write a Letter of Application and Salesmanship." Mr. Sisson's appearance has been arranged by the junior chamber of commerce, as the April event in its program of bringing some business men before the students once a month. John Bostrack is president and Miss Muriel Wilson secretary of the club.

Sees Many Die—"Yes, sir, I have seen many executions," remarked "Daddy" Lamm, guard at the state penitentiary while down town Wednesday on a business trip. "I got my largest experience when I served 14 years in a constabulary in the Philippines. During my life time I have witnessed 857 men hung and four women. I am in charge of the hospital ward at the state penitentiary. Prisoners have been unusually well this year, he reports, only eight men being sick with influenza at any one time. There are five men in the hospital now."

Brunner Still Held—James Brunner, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, drunkenness and liquor possession, was still in the city jail Wednesday morning, having failed to furnish the $500 bail set by Recorder Mark Paulsen. Brunner has engaged Paul Burris as his attorney and is evidently preparing to fight the case. He was arrested after he had pointed an unloaded .45 automatic at Mrs. Marie E. Anderson in the Quick Lunch on Liberty street, according to the police.

Hear Miss Webster—The senior high school Home Economics club listened to a star-enough style talk all its own Wednesday morning when Miss Aneida Elliott Webster, fashion expert from Marshall Field company, Chicago, addressed the girls on various phases of dress and dressing. Webster is spending a few days at Miller's store.

Losses Students—The graduating class of the senior high school has dropped back a potential 277. Principal J. C. Nelson reported Wednesday afternoon. Gwyn Barham, a senior in the college preparatory course, withdrew from school the previous day to enter Washington high school in Portland. The figure is still one ahead of the record class of 1926, when 276 received diplomas.

Tag Sale Slow—Sale of tags for the block "S" to be constructed by the Salem high school student body at Olinger field did not reach the quota set in the drive, Victor Wolfe, committee chairman, reported Wednesday afternoon, and the sale may be continued over today in hopes of reaching the $70 limit. About $55 was realized in the first two days. Construction of the "S" will cost $67.

To Rebekah Convention—Miss Fiedel Fletcher, and Mrs. Clara Shields will motor to Canby today to attend the afternoon and evening sessions of the convention of district number four of the Rebekah lodge there. Other Salem delegates will also attend and the Salem degree staff will put on work at the evening session.

Return From South—Mr. and Mrs. James Smith returned Tuesday afternoon from a three weeks motor trip into California and far south to Tia Juana, where they spent most of their time. Mr. Smith is associated with "Bill" Watkins in the Smith and Watkins service station.

Judgment Granted—A judgment of $56.25 for costs in the case of Ronald E. Jones vs. J. M. Bales was issued in circuit court Wednesday, the court overruling the motion of the defendant asking that costs be not allowed.

Suit Settled—Suit of Lulu E. Borink vs. Gus V. Borink, was filed in circuit court before the April term, was settled out of court by a stipulation agreeable to both parties.

Non-Suit Agreed On—A voluntary non-suit was agreed upon by the parties in the case of R. D. Gray vs. A. E. Bradley which was to have been tried in the April term of court.

Hearing Today—Hearing of the case of Long and Co. vs. McIntyre will be on today in circuit court, Judge Percy R. Kelly presiding. The action is brought for the collection of funds alleged to be due the plaintiff.

Fined for Bad Driving—Guy W. Phillips of Portland was fined $15 by Justice Brazier Small Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to the charge of reckless driving.

Rucker Arrested—George Rucker, 1288 State street, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of driving through a funeral procession.

$225,000 SECURED BY UNIVERSITY HERE

Need of Making Pledges Into Cash Faced To Meet Rockefeller Terms

Endowment pledges secured in the recent campaign as well as well as those rewritten from the campaign of former years, total $225,000 including some estate pledges recently received according to announcement Wednesday by Vice President Oliver. The university is seeking to secure pledges of $20,000 by October 1, 1929, to be used in obtaining $140,000 in cash from the Rockefeller foundation. Oliver said Wednesday that every dollar in cash available would be met by 54¢ in cash from the Rockefeller board although it is possible that the time limit allowed by the foundation may be extended.

Problem Faced—To obtain the Rockefeller money the university faces the problem of converting its pledges into cash. One method suggested has been the securing of a loan backed by the pledges as collateral.

The bequest of $100,000 recently made by Eric V. Houser in his will, will not be counted in the moneys raised by the school inasmuch as the Rockefeller interests bar gifts made in wills from the funds which they agree to match.

Marion Lake Retention is Advocated by Albany Men; Private Interests Opposed

Retention of the Marion lake area for a fish and game refuge and its eventual power development by municipal rather than privately owned interests is advocated by the Santiam Fish and Game commission in an extensive statement issued by A. G. Prill, its president, following a meeting held with J. G. Kelly of Portland, who represents the Northwest Power Co. in an application made to develop certain power rights in the Marion lake and North Santiam river district.

The statement, in part, reads: In reply to the speech of J. G. Kelly of Portland and representative of the Northwest Power company, before the Albany Chamber of Commerce last week, wherein it was charged that the officers and members of the Santiam Fish and Game association and the city council of Albany, were hasty and not fully advised as to the facts, the Santiam Fish and Game association through its officers most emphatically deny the allegation.

L. G. Kelly admitted in his talk before a combined meeting of the chamber of commerce, the city council, members of the county board and representative of the Santiam Fish and Game association held in the committee room of the St. Francis hotel that his first filing was made on or about the year 1906. The original filing was never completed and allowed to lapse. On December 6, 1928, J. G. Kelly, R. O. Young and J. H. Walker revived the project by filing with the Corporation commissioner papers creating a new corporation. The capital stock was given as 500 shares of no par value.

Would Destroy Wilderness—Surrounding the lake and streams named including White-water creek, and situated within the Santiam National forest, is to be found a natural wilderness area abounding in game and fish. Here lies one of the few remaining wilderness areas to be found in the state of Oregon. The development of hydro-electric power will forever destroy this wilderness area.

The development as outlined will result in the absolute destruction of Marion and Linn Falls Goch Falls, Canyon Creek falls and four miles of Marion river. It is the contention of the objectors that the area to be developed for recreation purposes both for the residents of the state power from privately owned plants. And finally, the growth of industry in the valley may be promoted by cheaper power than can be obtained elsewhere. Show to industry that cheaper power is available in the cities of the valley and industry will come. Industry seeking locations in Oregon have located in Tacoma and the wonderful resource on the North Fork of the Santiam?

Why Barter Away Power? Public owned and municipally owned utilities may be needed in Oregon and if so why dissipate and barter away the wonderful resource on the North Fork of the Santiam?

To make the statement that J. G. Kelly and associates are financially able to finance the project is not sufficient; to make the further statement that the proposed development has the backing of some of the mightiest men in the electric world is also open to question unless it can be followed and backed by a statement of fact and detail sufficiently strong to be accepted as final.

This we do know—powerful financial interests invest money only when a satisfactory return can be expected. The wildest flight of the imagination cannot see anything anywhere that will bring a return that will justify the expenditure of from four to sixteen millions of dollars. According to press reports and quoting Mr. Kelly, in Albany it was said the development would require an expenditure of four millions, in Salem the sum has been boosted to sixteen.

Nothing to Lose As a section of Oregon we lose nothing if the application is denied. Show to capital that industry is awaiting a development of the character proposed and that the demand is sufficient to justify the expenditure of every penny involved it can very easily be put under way.

The big idea is that if time permitted the entire public, with possibly a small exception, could be educated to the thought that the development when made shall be public owned and never permitted to become the owner in fee simple, in perpetuity forever of any private individual, concern or corporation.

May we not guard it as a jewel?
