PRATUM FARMER KEEN OLD WELL TO BE CONVERTED INTO WATER SUPPLY OLD HISTORY RECALLED

K. PRATUM, April 25.—Twenty years ago last fall several men who claimed to know a lot about oil and oil wells leased a considerable quantity of land in this neighborhood for the right to drill for oil on a percentage basis. What was to be the first well was sunk about 60 rods west of Pratum. An oil well derrick was erected, powerful machinery was installed, and a lot of stock was sold, but drilling went slowly, probably to give more time to sell stock.

For the same reason it is supposed that some one poured in some kerosene or gasoline at various times to keep up the excitement which was running high at that time, but when finally stock would not sell any more, work ceased at the well and finally totally abandoned.

Later the machinery was removed, the derrick taken down and no more attempt was made to drill for oil since, and no one knows till this day if Pratum is
