

SCHOOL ANNUAL READY MAY 3RD

1929 Wallulah Has Motif Which Patterns Age of Chivalry

Every assurance has been given that the 1929 Wallulah, Willamette university annual, will be ready for distribution on May Day. Printing of the book was completed over a week ago and the major portion of the binding was complete at the end of last week. George Poor and Frank Van Dyke, editor and manager respectively, are happy over the completion of the book.

Distribution of the annuals will be a feature of the May Day celebration of Willamette university. Printing out of these will be made at the offices of the Wallulah in the basement of Waller hall at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Students will present their student body tickets and sign the attached coupons to receive their books.

Craftsmanship is Good

The Wallulah this year is a fine piece of annual craftsmanship. The motif carried out through the production is the age of chivalry in England. On the beautiful blue cover is embossed the figure of a knight in full armor. In the center, toward the top, is embossed a representation of an old English fortress with its moat; this is done in cardinal and gold, the university colors.

The borders of the pages carry the castle in their design. Pages separating the larger divisions of the book have pictures of interesting phases of court life; pages introducing smaller sections have the uniform design of crossed battle axes and a shield bearing the name of the section of the book.

The new Wallulah carries many new features which mark it as representative of the latest and best in annual planning. Members of the schools of liberal arts, law and music appear together as a unit instead of three units, as in previous editions. The dean of each school has a separate page bearing his picture and a sketch of the work of his department. This same unification was carried out with members of the student body, with the exception of the members of the freshman law class. Many of them have had at least two years in the college of liberal arts and separate classification was deemed necessary.

One of the interesting art features is the use of tallpieces at the ends of divisions of the book. These pictures are excellent reproductions of the paintings presented to the university by the graduating class last year. They depict the development of bookmaking. The last picture in the book is that of Sir Galahad, the greatest of English knights.

The feature which probably will be most welcomed by students is the student index. This index lists all students, and shows what pages of the book bear their photographs. This feature is used in nearly all of the annuals of the larger schools of the country.

The book is printed with black ink on ivory stock paper. The page borders are in light blue to harmonize with the cover. Individual pages are well balanced, and facing pages are well balanced with each other.

CUPID AGAIN DOES BIG BUSINESS HERE

Return of good weather brought back considerable business to County Clerk Boyer Monday when three marriage licenses were issued in short order to Marion county couples who desired to plight their troth.

Charles G. Henderson, 330 S. 14th street, and Nancy Emily Cook, 2310 Lee street, were the first to apply for a license. Both stated that their marriage would be their second venture on matrimonial seas.

M. W. Tunnell, of Bayfield, Colorado, obtained a license to wed Rose Turner of Mill City.

Dr. Gerald Smith of Woodburn was given a permit to wed Myrtle Carolyn Nelson of Woodburn.

State Officials Will Put Speed Into Consideration Of School Merger Lawsuit

VanWinkle Soon to Have Answer Ready to Charges Made by L. B. Smith; Case Bound to go to Higher Court

No time will be lost by state officials in disposing of the suit filed recently by L. B. Smith of Portland, attacking the constitutionality of the 1929 legislative act creating the state board of higher education. This was announced here today by Attorney General Van Winkle and other state officials.

The time for replying to the complaint expires next Wednesday night. Before that time the attorney general will file either an answer or demurrer to the complaint. As soon as the reply is completed and filed, the trial judge will be asked to set the date for arguments. The arguments will not require more than a few hours. The attorneys indicated that the case would be appealed to the supreme court for Marion county.

The principal contention of the plaintiff is that the law creating the board of higher education attempts to delegate to the board powers to allocate and distribute all funds received from taxation and other sources, under the terms of the law, to the various institutions of higher learning which now exist or may exist, and to other purposes and uses which the board may deem expedient.

It further was contended that the law attempts to levy a tax of approximately $1,500,000 of 1.03 mills in excess of the constitutional limitation. Plaintiffs alleged that such a tax would be in conflict with the constitution and make the law inoperative.

The complaint urges a decree of the court declaring the law unconstitutional and setting aside the board of higher education and other state officials from putting the law in operation.

Defendants named in the suit include Governor Patterson, State Treasurer Kay, Secretary of State Hoes; Earl Fisher, state tax commissioner, and the members of the board of higher education. Members of the board are C. C. Colt, E. F. Irvine, C. L. Starr, E. C. Sammons, Albert Burch, C. C. Pease, F. E. Callister, Aubrey Watzek and Herman Oliver. The law creating the state board of higher education was introduced at the last legislative session by Senators Schumacher and Bell. It received favorable consideration in both houses and was signed by Governor Patterson. The bill provided that the members of the board shall be appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation by the senate. The terms of the members range from one to nine years.

In case the law is held to be constitutional, the members of the board will be called into conference here late in May for organization purposes. The act, under which the board was created, becomes effective June 4. Members of the board serve without pay.

Institutions over which the board will have jurisdiction include the University of Oregon, Oregon state college and the three state normal schools. Boards of regents which formerly had charge of these institutions are abolished under the new act.

Although no definite plan of action has been worked out, officials said the board probably would elect a paid secretary at its first conference. These officials will have an office in the statehouse, and will receive a salary to be fixed by the board.

STUDENTS ASSIGNED TO BUSINESS JOBS

A partial list of the positions held by members of the 1929 graduating class of the commerce department of the senior high school has just been compiled by Merritt Davis, head of the department. Besides helping the last year's students to positions, placements of former students were also made.

Following is Mr. Davis' list: John Wierdeck, Portland Electric Power company; Leonard E. Chadwick, Montgomery Ward and company; Melvin Millett, S. P. Motor transportation company; Duane Griffith, Salem Bank of Commerce; Harlan Judd, county clerk's office; W. ### MOTHER MACHREE STIRS BIG AUDIENCE

Poignant drama, whimsical humor, a superlative cast and scenes from old Ireland that intrigue the imagination, mark the Fox version of "Mother Machree," which had its first showing at Bligh's Capitol theatre Sunday.

Just as the scene has stirred the hearts of the world for a score of years so, too, the picture bids fair to become as well loved as the great lyric.

PIONEERS ARE PRAISED HERE

Old Timers Feted at Dinner of Salem Chamber of Commerce Monday

Lauding the pioneers as men and women who went into untried paths to prepare the way for others to follow, Rufus C. Holman of Portland brought a message of commendation to a group of chamber of commerce guests who have resided in Salem or Marion county for more than 70 years.

"They was not an easy lot," he told the guests and members of the chamber Monday. "Yet they were not sons and daughters alone of toll; they were lovers of mental achievements and in the forested lands of the western country they found a fitting place for their work."

Holman commended the 12 men who from their personal funds pioneered the purchase of property at Champeoz which he said was destined to become as much a shrine for the west coast as Plymouth Rock is to the people of the eastern part of the United States.

Judge Peter H. D'Arcy of Salem himself a pioneer of 1852, introduced the guests who had lived here 70 years or more. They were: Teresa E. D'Arcy, 655 North Church; Ida M. Babcock, 749 North Commercial; Abbie Hatch Farrar, 250 North Liberty; Mary Haas, 895 North Front; Sarah E. Woodinton, 850 Saginaw; Mrs. A. N. Gilbert, 266 Chemeketa; J. W. Harritt and Mrs. Harritt, 605 Union; Mrs. Lizzie W. Smith, 657 Center; Ruth E. Sayre; M. E. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Lewis, 1525 State; H. F. Herren, 1553 State; Jessie Ralnes Cannon, 1515 South Commercial; Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Hobson, 180 West Owens and A. N. Moores, 355 Chemeketa. Other pioneers guests of members of the chamber of commerce, were M. L. Jones, Brooks; S. F. Parker, Gervais; J. U. Smith, Yamhill county; Thomas W. Brunk, Route 2 and Jos. Groshong, Albany.

Dr. F. K. Power was introduced as a new member of the chamber. The membership committee announced for this week by President Brown Sisson includes Jora Warner, Victor Riemand, W. J. Braun, Dr. Benjamin Blatchford.
