HOSPITAL DAY SLATED MAY 12

History and Development of Institutions in This Country Cited

National Hospital day, May 12, sponsored by the American Hospital association furnishes the opportunity for everybody to become acquainted with the inside of his local hospital.

The first hospital in the American colonies was founded 177 years ago. Hospital growth was slow at first. One hundred twenty-seven years later there were only 149 hospitals in the United States with a total bed capacity of 34,000, and this was only 50 years ago. Today, the United States has approximately 7,800 hospitals with about 1,000,000 beds, growth in Canada has been about equal with 700 hospitals at this time. This enormous development in hospitalization has mostly been realized during the past 15 or 20 years. In spite of all this there is a great indifference in most communities on the part of a majority of the people concerning hospitals in general and their own hospital in particular.

Great Support Asked—A statement issued by the local hospital board this week is: "Perhaps you think you are not interested in any hospital but just as surely as you are interested in your own life and in your own personal health and that of the members of your own family, you will some day be interested in some hospital. Make this the occasion when you will take the time to visit your hospital and learn as much as possible concerning it."

It is just possible that you will become so thoroughly impressed that you will eventually be a earnest friend of your hospital, and it must be borne in mind that hospitals need the good will of all citizens residing within a large radius surrounding it. Hospitals furnishing service on a standardized basis must be well petronized in order to carry their legitimate operating expenses unless they happen to be fortunate enough to have an endowment."

Arguments to be Made Before Circuit Judge Kelly Wednesday

Arguments of attorneys in the suit brought by W. A. Jones and others to restrain members of the 1929 legislature from collecting $5 per day expense money, will be heard by Judge L. H. McMahon of the Marion county circuit court Wednesday.

The expense money was authorized under a resolution adopted during the closing days of the last legislature. Before copies of the resolution were delivered to the secretary of state the restraining order was issued and placed in the hands of the sheriff. Service was made on both the secretary of state and state treasurer.

Attorneys for Mr. Jones will argue that the constitution limits the compensation of legislators to $120 for any regular session. It was said that Mr. Jones filed the suit at the request of the executive committee of the state senate.

Hold Expense Not Set—The legislators will be represented by L. T. Harris of Eugene, ex-member of the state supreme court, and W. Lair Thompson of Portland. It will be contended by these attorneys that the constitution merely fixes the compensation of legislators, but is silent as to any expenses that may be incurred in the conduct of the legislature.

Authorities will be submitted to the court by Mr. Jones's attorneys citing similar cases in the states of Washington and Kansas. In both of these cases the courts held that the legislators were not entitled to expense money as the constitutions of the states fixed the compensation.

BALLOT TITLE FOR INITIATIVE READY

Ballot title for the proposed initiative measure which provides that the voters shall approve or reject the licensing of certain life insurance companies and fraternal organizations to transact business in Oregon, was completed by the attorney general here Saturday.

A vote of the electorate would be necessary in the following cases: Where premium rates were increased contrary to agreement within six years heretofore.

Where the company uses, or within six years heretofore, has used its funds to start another organization and premium rates on existing policies increased.

Where policy or certificate within six years heretofore or subsequently lapsed after increase without refund or premium.

Where premium rates increased, policy or certificates lapsed, death occurs not over one third of time between policy date and increase, and insurance is not paid.

In case sufficient signatures are obtained the initiative bill will go before the voters at the general election in November of next year.

Court Will Open Again On Monday

Resumption of jury trials in circuit court will be made Monday, May 13 at 10 o'clock when Judge Percy R. Kelly takes the bench to hear the case of the New York Life Insurance Co. vs. Goodwin, a suit involving the foreclosure of property by the plaintiff wherein the defendant has offered resistance.

Goodwin, alleges the plaintiff, will not withdraw from the property although ordered to do so by the court.

The case of Cooley vs. Noland has also been set for the same date. Cooley traded a ranch on the Santiam for property in Umatilla county. Subsequently he ascertained that liens, not set out in the deal, were pending against his eastern Oregon property and he brought suit to collect damages from Noland. The latter in his answer, alleges that the Santiam ranch traded by Cooley turned out to be of much less value than represented.

Judge Kelly will be in Salem on Friday and Saturday to hear arguments on motions and demurrers now pending before the court.

DENTAL MEETING IS STAGED AT DALLAS

The largest attendance for the year marked the last business meeting until fall of the Tri-County Dental association, held recently at Dallas, attended by some 30 Salem dentists and their wives. The meeting was held at Dallas in honor of Dr. Mark Hayter's birthday, the honor guest being the principal speaker of the evening and reminiscing on dentistry as it was practiced 40 years ago.

Further plans were made for the mid-winter clinic to be held in Salem next winter, the first similar event undertaken in Oregon. Dr. D. B. Hill was appointed general chairman and Dr. Estill Brunk was named to negotiate with some of the leading eastern dentists to participate in the clinic.
