Robert Littler Writes Book On Hawaiian Affairs

"The Governance of Hawaii" is the title of a book just off the Stanford University Press, written by Robert M. C. Littler, a graduate in the Stanford Law school this year and a former student at Willamette university. Littler's parents resided for years in Salem and his aunt, Mrs. A. A. Underhill, is now a resident of this city.

Littler's book is the outgrowth of a year of teaching in the University of Hawaii where he was called to take a chair of political science. He speedily discovered that printed material on the governmental system of Hawaii was virtually non-existent and to fill the need of such a work Littler undertook the compilation of facts and their suitable interpretation for a textbook for university use. The result was a book clearly portraying the field of governmental activities in Hawaii and a volume of lasting benefit to students of government everywhere, as well as to those whose business takes them in contact with affairs of Hawaii.

Dr. E. S. Hammond of the Kimball school of theology will speak at the Ford Memorial church on Sunday morning. In the evening the pastor, Rev. M. A. Groves, will speak, his subject being, "The Home." There will be special music in the evening, consisting of a violin solo by Mrs. B. A. Hanks, a duet by Ervin and Mildred Simmons, solo by Miss Hope Raymond, and a quartette given by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gosser, Mrs. Ralph Sebern and Waldo Baker. Mrs. John Hamby will sing at the morning service.

The West Salem cannery, under the management of Reid-Murdoch & Co., has been running the past week with about 12 women employed. They have carried a few stemmed Marshall berries and expect to start sometime this week with a full force of workers provided the weather permits or the berries ripening in a quantity sufficient to warrant them in doing so. It will take a few days of sunshine to ripen in quantity.

Harterson and Ferguson, local cement contractors, are putting in walks at the George Chapman home on Third street. They recently did the concrete work on the new houses being built by Messrs. Freisen, Johnson, Jordan, Butler and Brung, of this city, and have many orders ahead for concrete work. Their latest order is for several blocks of sidewalk in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Curtis who left West Salem for Eugene last July have returned and are at present living in the Froese apartments. Mr. Curtis is looking about for a location for a second hand store, which he expects to establish here.

Dallas Auxiliary Installs Leaders

DALLAS, June 8.—The last meeting of the American Legion auxiliary for the season was held Thursday evening in the clubroom, with a large number in attendance. Officers for the coming year elected and installed by Mrs. Alta Corney, department publicity chairman, were Mrs. Jack Eakin, president, Mrs. Robert Kreson, first vice president; Mrs. Ralph Beck and vice president Mrs. Earle Richardson, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Blanche Eakin chaplain, and Mrs. Earl Hibbard, sergeant at arms. Mrs. Van Muys, past president, was presented with a pin, Mrs. Corney making the presentation.

Delegates elected to the department convention were Mrs. Jack Eakin and Mrs. Earle Richardson. Plans for July 5 celebration were outlined and Mrs. Richard Domachosky and Mrs. Clifford Helgeson will act as chairmen of the day for the auxiliary.

It was reported that the poppy sale had been a success under the able guidance of the chairman, Mrs. Fred Stinnett. Mrs. White, president of Capital unit and about 30 members from Salem were guests of the unit, and were boosting for the big convention to be held in Salem in August. The Salem club and quartet entertained the Legion post and auxiliary following the business meetings.
