Community News Proves a Welcome Feature of Paper; Service to be Regular One

NO single feature of The Statesman has proved more popular in recent months than the page of community news introduced as a feature of last Sunday's paper. So many expressions of appreciation have been sent to the publishers that the page is being increased to two pages this week with the view of providing as many communities as possible representation in the Sunday Statesman.

Mrs. Madeline Calkin, a member of The Statesman staff, has been active for the past fortnight in developing the news from the different communities in and around Salem and her efforts are reflected in the news published today.

ROSES NOW GORGEOUS Mrs. Stephens Keeps Up Her Flower Work FORD NOT TRACTABLE

EDITOR'S NOTE All about the valley are interesting tales of people who are doing things; raising flowers, making gardens, helping in community clubs, and a thousand and one other things which make life interesting.

Mrs. Madeline Calkin, a member of The Statesman staff, this Sunday starts a series of little stories of people met on her journeys through the valley.

Roses—golden yellow and copper roses; not the pink and white varieties that one notices in the average garden but those metallic colors that remind one of bright new pennies and of cloth of gold.

These bronze and golden roses are the first thing that one notices in the garden of Mrs. Harold Stevens, near Hopewell. This is on the old Smith Stevens place, so well known to many people in the Willamette valley.

Harold Stevens is a son of the late S. Smith Stevens and with his wife and two sons, Clifford and a d. Vernon, resides on the old home place.

My faith was justified for in a few minutes he was there and in less time than it takes to tell it that bulky old lady from Detroit who she enjoyed the climb.

It was only a mile to the Purvine place and one of these days I am going to tell you about this, one of the most attractive farm houses in Marion county.

After a pleasant visit with Mrs. Purvine and the acceptance of an invitation to "Come back when the cherries are ripe," I went on to Zena and called at the W. N. Crawford home.

Daughters Bake Cookies I found Mrs. Crawford setting out cabbage plants and her two small daughters baking cookies.

The Crawford home is a bower of flowers now and an examination of the soil in which Mrs. Crawford was planting the cabbages convinced one that almost anything will grow there.

The Ford hummed along down the hills in great style and I returned to Salem vowing that before very long I would make another visit to this attractive district where the people are so hospitable that one always hates to leave.

These are beautiful Leaving the Stevens home, I Street Methodist church. Mrs. Beardsley visited also with school girl friends in Molino, Mrs. Carrie Tyson, and with Mrs. Nora Crites of Mackburg returning home Tuesday evening.

The S. S. of the Methodist church of Keizer have planned a picnic dinner after the S. S. hour in Pool's grove by the river. A service will be held in the afternoon, Rev. George Cole, the Pastor in charge.

Spring Valley SPRING VALLEY, June 15.—Mrs. Rose Smith of Pendleton was a visitor this week at the home of relatives and friends. Mrs. Smith made her home in this community the greater part of her life. For the past few years she has lived in Pendleton to be near her daughter, Mrs. Jason Frissell.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eberly received their son from their Eiden telling of the injury he received while working in a logging camp at Carson, Wash. Eiden has been in a Portland hospital for the past two weeks, suffering with an injured and crushed hand, one finger being taken off.

Tom Garner is erecting a new chicken house addition in which he will place his fine flock of White Leghorn pullets.

Miss Irene Windsor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Windsor was the only student from this neighborhood who was a member of the graduating class of Salem high school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Childers were Sunday caller at the W. E. Hobbs home in Salem where Mrs. Childers' aunt Mrs. E. J. Pratt of McMinnville is convalescing from a recent serious illness. They also called at the home of J. F. Allison who suffered a paralytic stroke Saturday night and is in a serious condition. Mr. Allison is Mrs. Childers' uncle.

No We do not let the matter of cost determine the quality of the service we render. It is our aim to serve all alike.

The wagon train containing the Gabriel Brown family, with which Reuben Lewis came to Oregon, was guided over the practically unknown route by F. X. Matthieu.

The captain of the train was Dr. White, and this caravan, according to the best available early records, was the only one to undertake this weary and perilous journey in the year 1842.
