With no issue, at least on the surface, confronting the voters, the enormous vote that was cast served as a source of surprise to those who gathered about the counting board. At 5 o'clock, some 500 votes had gone into the ballot box, and when the polls closed at 8 o'clock, 200 more had had their say in the directorship. The polls were held open an hour longer than the stipulated time, due to conflicting reports of the closing time.
