SHIFFER FARM IS GOOD HARD WORK IS BIG KEY

As my work takes me here and there about the Salem district I am impressed by the contrast in the appearance of farms and gardens. Some look so thin and starved, with struggling plants of a sickly green color, while others fairly radiate health and prosperity.

Among the latter I have seen no better example than that to be found at the Fred Shiffer farm in the Cloverdale district. Mr. and Mrs. Shiffer have the best looking vegetable garden that I have seen this season. Their hay and grain fields are marvels of luxuriant growth and every thing about the place shows careful attention. Even the house is being made over and newly painted.

was taken to Pacific Christian hospital in Eugene, where he was found to have skull and leg fractures and pelvic injuries. One foot was amputated and he remains in a critical condition, with hope of recovery.

Mills was practically without money, so Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Graham, and other citizens, aided by the local Lions club, have raised $140 in his behalf; and relief sources from Independence, where the young man's father lives, have been asked to contribute. Although a number of persons witnessed the accident in its various stages, no one secured the auto driver's license, and his name was unlearned. He offered no aid to the injured boy, and made his getaway immediately.

DALLAS LODGE HAS DIAMOND JUBILEE

DALLAS, June 17.—Jennings lodge No. 9, A. F. & A. M., celebrated their 70th anniversary with a diamond jubilee Saturday evening in the Masonic temple. A banquet was served at 8:30 p. m. to 130 members and visitors. Older lodges of the state represented were those from Oregon

It was the unusually fine vegetable garden which first attracted my attention and I was indeed surprised when Mrs. Shiffer told me that only six years ago, when they first came to the place, the ground where the garden now is was a mass of evergreen blackberry vines. The soil is a red loam that seems to be particularly fertile and everything about the place shows the constant care that is given to it.

The garden is thoroughly cultivated once each week and if one doubts that such frequent working pays, he only needs to look at that garden to be convinced that Mr. and Mrs. Shiffer "know how."

There are 60 acres on the farm, all but three which are in pasture, being under cultivation. In addition to the care of this Fred Shiffer and his brother J. W. Shiffer farm their father's farm which adjoins. They report good crops of all kinds on the farms and that the late season has helped rather than harmed their fields.

City, Portland, Lafayette, Salem, and McMinnville. A member from each of these gave a brief history of their lodge, and Mr. C. A. McGilchrist of Salem entertained with a vocal solo.

Following the banquet lodge was opened at which time George McBee, Andrew Muir, and Dave McDonald were presented with life memberships having been members of Jennings lodge for more than 50 consecutive years. The presentation was made by Oscar Hayter who also gave a brief history of Jennings lodge.

The Grand Master of Oregon, Mr. Milton Meyers of Salem was among the distinguished guests, and spoke to the assembly. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. W. S. Grimm of Gladstone a member of Multnomah lodge No. 1 of Oregon City.
