

ROAD PROGRAM TO BE PUSHED

"Completion of Routes Now on State Map is First Job" -- Sawyer

Completion of all the roads officially placed on the state highway map before undertaking any new projects has been set as a policy of the state highway commission, Robert W. Sawyer, member of the commission, told the Salem chamber of commerce Monday noon in explaining the road map of Oregon as it was being developed by the highway commission.

Widened Roads Needed

Mr. Sawyer said that the road program of Oregon could never be considered closed due not alone to the constant demand for new roads but also to the fact that present roads would need to be widened, straightened and the grades improved.

Oregon as a pioneer in road development had suffered, the speaker showed, from too rapid development of its program in early days before present traffic requirements made their demands.

The speaker went into detail to explain the sources of revenue for the $12,000,000 annual receipts of the state highway commission. Of this amount, $4,750,000 comes annually from the 3-cent gas tax, $1,185,000 from federal aid road funds and $550,000 from "forest funds" appropriated by the United States government for the construction of roads and trails through public lands in Oregon.

Bond Issues Go Down

The speaker said Oregon's expenditure for its roads had amounted to $120,000,000 of which more than $41,000,000 had been provided for by bond issues. Of these issues, slightly more than $30,000,000 are outstanding with the maximum retirement charges to be reached next year when $3,343,000 will be required to meet bond retirement charges and interest.

The judge was asked by Governor Patterson, who introduced him to explain the desert type of highway proving popular in eastern Oregon. Mr. Sawyer described this as a type of road which was very efficiently and steadily constructed in eastern Oregon due to the excellent climatic conditions there prevailing as well as the easy grading possibilities. Such a road can be constructed for $2000 to $2500 a mile, the speaker said.

Roy Klein, secretary of the state highway commission and other members of the road highway staff at the statehouse, attended the meeting.

DENVER GOLFER IS 6 BELOW PAR MARK

OMAHA, Neb., June 25.—(AP)—A comparative nonentity of amateur golf, Nathan Grimes of Denver, Monday handed old man par one of the worst drubbings he has ever received on tough Omaha field club course to top a large and brilliant field at the half was juncture in the trans-Mississippi championship qualifying test. A master of putting and the some steadiness with his woods and irons, the bespectacled youth of 21 years literally burned up the 6,400 yard stretch, snaring a 67 which is six better than par and which equalled the course record established by Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former trans-Mississippi champion, two weeks ago in the national open trials. The score was four strokes better than his closest competitor, J. A. Kennedy of Tulsa, whose performance also was surprising.
