PROPAGANDA TO HAVE NO EFFECT

Interstate Commerce Group
Angered by Hundreds of Resolutions

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27.—(AP)—The Oregonian in a special dispatch from its Washington, D. C. bureau will say tomorrow:

Hundreds of resolutions from civic and municipal organizations in Oregon and California for and against the proposed construction of the Great Northern and Western Pacific into California have so angered the Interstate commerce commission, to which the expressions were addressed, that it notified the presidents of those groups and the Southern Pacific that such "propaganda work" was a waste of time.

296 Groups on Record
It is understood that 296 organizations have gone on record regarding the rail construction program. With 107 backing the Great Northern and Western Pacific, 135 opposing the plan, and 54 taking a neutral position.

The warning that "propaganda" from interested communities would have no weight with the commission was sent to Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern; H. M. Adams of the Western Pacific and Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific by Balathasar Meyer, chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the question of permits for the new lines. It reads in part as follows: "In connection with the application of the Great Northern and the Western Pacific for authority to build a line from Klamath Falls to Patton, many resolutions and communications of various sorts are being received by us. It appears obvious that a great deal of propaganda work is being done both for and against this project. Spontaneity is Lacking."

"It is assumed that you gentlemen know that cases are determined by us in the record and not by consideration of resolutions, communications, newspaper articles, and the like. Of course, we recognize that some of this material may be spontaneous. But experience indicates that a very considerable portion of it is the result of solicitation by opposing interests."

62-YEAR LOVER TAKES STAND

$250,000 Breach of Promise
Battle Goes on With Hardinge Talking

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Franklin S. Hardinge, wealthy manufacturer of oil burners and watch makers' tools, took the stand today in the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Ann Livingston, comely divorcee of Tulsa, Okla.

The 62 year old love defendant was on the stand only long enough to tell how he came to Chicago from Toronto, Canada, at the age of 21 with $150 and a patent, when court adjourned for the day.

Attorneys for Miss Livingston, who claimed she was deserted on her wedding eve when she refused to sign a pre-nuptial agreement limiting her claim on the Hardinge estate to $100,000, rested.

West Salem News

WEST SALEM, June 27.—The last week of the Community Daily Vacation Bible school was a marked success. The enrollment increased to 51. The average attendance for the week was 38, and the average for the two weeks was 36. Friday the pupils, teachers, and parents met at the school house at 10 o'clock. From there they marched to Burk's camp grounds, stopping at the various places of business and giving songs and yells which they had learned at the school. At the camp ground the children played many games, which were enjoyed by all.

The Bible school will hold their closing exercises at the Ford Memorial church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The program will be as follows:
Song by the school—"Brighten the Corner Where You Are."
Prayer song—"Father We Thank Thee."
Prayer.
Bible Drill by the Juniors.
Pageant—"The Baby Moses," by the Primary.
"It Would Be True," by the Juniors.

Their case shortly after the opening of the afternoon session. By stipulation, a statement was placed into evidence showing the net worth of Hardinge to be $652,369.22.

Ann's only witness was herself. Defense attorneys in the closing cross examination, attempted to make her reveal herself as a "gold digger."

Toasts to Sweetheart
"Don't you remember," asked Attorney John Bussan for the defense, "of being at a New Year's party in 1927 where you toasted Charley Nax as 'Here's to my sweetheart'?"

"No," answered Ann demurely. "Well, don't you remember, some one saying 'Why don't you toast the man who's buying your clothes'?"
"No sir, I do not," Ann replied emphatically.
Nax is a St. Louis newspaper man. The defense sought to show that he was Ann's real sweetheart all the time she was waiting to marry Hardinge. She admitted Nax gave her a traveling cloak. Ann had testified that Hardinge bought her dresses, coats, shoes, pajamas, underwear and other things and that he gave her rings from the jewelry store. She gave two of the rings to a lawyer because she had no money to pay him for services, she said in response to questions from Bussan, while a third was taken away from her by Hardinge during a quarrel over a dinner date with another man.

9 ROUTES WILL CONVEY PUPILS

Longest Line to be in Polk County; Contract to be Large One

The longest route to be served by busses for which the Salem school board is now making negotiations is in Polk county and extends 28 miles. R. W. Tavenner, acting superintendent, found in a survey he is making for the board. He mapped out routes Thursday, and believes no less than nine different routes will handle the transportation problem.

Other distances are from 16 to 22 miles, round trip, the shortest being out to the Keizer district. The longest travel in Marion county, 22 miles, will be to the Rosedale and Fairview district, according to his tentative territories.

The Middle Grove district, near Silverton, will have the most students, according to advance registration.

With nine routes in the offing, and one bus for each route, the investment to be made by any hauler who secures the contract is going to run into a considerable sum. Should the board not be able to contract with one man for that many busses, it may be that an effort will be made to get the far man at each route—inasmuch as the routes radiate from Salem like spokes of a wheel—to equip a bus and bring the students along his line in. That suggestion was made yesterday by Mr. Tavenner, and is just one of the plans which may be attempted should present negotiations fail. Such a method would leave the most profit to the hauler, the acting superintendent believes.

Plans made by others, and that "those in first authority" were competent to discuss further plans.

The ambassador reflected his dislike of ceremony by the easy formality of his talk with newspapermen, dressed in light business suit and smoking his underslung pipe, he made himself perfectly comfortable at a flat-topped desk.

He laughed at references to his appearance at court last night minus the silk knee breeches which distinguished the appearances of two of his predecessors at similar formalities, but declined to make a word of comment.

CHICHESTERS PILLS

grocers.

HOOVER TABOOS PROHIBIT BOOKLET

Hurried Summons Made of Woman Who Put Out Pamphlet

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—President Hoover has placed his personal stamp of disapproval by which the federal government would foster a prohibition propaganda campaign in the public schools of the country.

This was disclosed today at the White House with the additional information that upon reading in the newspapers that a pamphlet outlining a course of prohibition study in the schools had been prepared in the prohibition bureau, Mr. Hoover conferred with a responsible official of the treasury.

Treasury Makes Stand
This official disclaimed any intention on the part of the treasury to sanction such a program and the chief executive thereupon suggested that in the light of the newspaper publications on the subject, the position of the treasury should be made to the country.

The action of the president resulted in a hurried summons for Miss Ann B. Sutter, head of the educational division of the prohibition unit, under whose direction the pamphlet was prepared and printed by the government printing office with the expense defrayed out of the $50,000 prohibition educational fund made available by congress.

Miss Sutter was informed by Assistant Secretary Lowman, in charge of prohibition enforcement, that she was without authority to issue the pamphlet without approval of the department head.

Later Commissioner Doran in a statement disclaimed any intention of the approval by the bureau of the circulation of the pamphlets or of using the schools as a place to disseminate prohibition propaganda. Doran also ordered the pamphlet withdrawn from circulation and announced that all copies would be kept under lock until he has reached a decision.
