WHEAT MARKET
GOES UP, DOWN

Local Soft White Price is
$1.01 1/2 Thursday;
Crop Outlook Good

The wheat market stood at $1.01 1/2 on soft white and 98 1/2 cents on western red Thursday following more than a week marked by a series of advances and declines, the sharpest of which was an increase of four cents a week ago today. The price was attributed to poor crop conditions in this country and portions of Canada, but advances were practically offset by large offerings from the Argentine, Thursday's market standing a half-cent higher than last Friday.

Local grain dealers report further conditions of the market as follows:
Oklahoma estimate of 75,000,000 bushels will probably not stand on account of great shrinkage caused by dry weather. Two million acres will not pay for harvesting. Six days of high winds in Kansas caused plants to open prematurely, causing loss of about two bushels to the acre, with the estimate running 150,000,000 bushels. The combined loss in Oklahoma and Kansas will run thirty million bushels. In Kansas the harvest will begin the first week in July, rather early for that state.

North Dakota Crop Fair
North Dakota will have a fair crop if rain comes soon. Tentative estimate of the world's wheat crop indicates a five per cent reduction, suggesting a crop of 2,525,000,000 bushels exclusive of Russia and China. The reduction will be more than offset by carry over from the 1928-29 crop. The department of agriculture has made a forecast of 15 to 16 bushels per acre for the Canadian wheat and on basis of 24,500,000 acres the estimate will reach 380,000,000 bushels, as compared with the official estimate of 534,000,000 bushels for the 1928 crop.

Northwest conditions are good, but immediate rainfall is needed. Locally, the wheat looks fine and a good crop should be cut if hot winds will hold off. Some water oats were winter killed in the hills, but on the lowlands the crop looks considerably better. Some varieties of spring oats appear to be making a heavy stand. Prospects are also fine for a good crop of barley.

Clover Hay is Short
Clover hay and alfalfa promise to be short all over the country, which means that farmers will pull down around $29 at the start of the season. Usually the price opens around $12 a ton.

State Tax Group Organized With Work Apportioned

Members of the new state tax commission, created under an act of the 1929 legislature, held an all day conference in Salem on Thursday in connection with tax matters.

Earle Fisher will deal with local assessments, John Carlin will collect all tax revenue, and supervice the secretarial duties of the commission. Today's conference had to do principally with a discussion of the tangles and excise tax laws enacted at the 1929 legislative assembly. The state income tax law has been held up by referendum.

"Y'S" Men to Ask
To Join Parent
Group, Decision

Members of the Y's men club of the Salem Y. M. C. A. will apply to the parent organization for official connection with International Y's Men. The group of young business men meets every Thursday morning for breakfast an exercise.

The committee chosen Thursday morning to prepare the application is Ross Miles, Mike Panek and Tinkham Gilbert. Gilbert covered several phases of speculation in his talk Thursday morning.

Lewis' Bail Set
At $250; Charge
In Court Denied

Dr. M. F. Davis entered a plea of not guilty in the justice court here Thursday on a charge of practicing medicine without a license. His bail was fixed at $250. The complaint was signed by A. H. Davis, investigator for the state medical association.

Apricots, Prunes as Well
As Cantaloupes Featured
On Current Salem Market

Arrival of California apricots and plums, a half-cent raise on bananas and increase in cantaloupe prices were the main features of the market trend. Both apricots and plums are good, considering they are the vanguard of the crop; the wholesale quotation is $2.50 a crate.

With weather conditions and demand both good on cantaloupes, shipments are short, which has brought a 75 cent wholesale raise in the large size cans, now at $5.50 a crate. These retail at between 15 and 20 cents each. The same increase holds for the standards, now quoted at 5.25; pears are $3.75 and flats $1.90 wholesale. Present demand disposes of a carload here in four or five days, a good turnover for this season.

Watermelons 4c Pound
Watermelons are quoted at four cents a pound now, with demand only fair and fruit good. Asparagus is down 25 cents to $1.25, the small demand accounting for the lower price.

Green beans, locals, are offered, and some wax beans also. Thirteen cents is the wholesale figure on the green ones. Old potatoes are up 25 cents, to $3.25. They are scarce.

Lettuce Best in Weeks
Local lettuce, the best that has been offered for weeks, continues to be in plentiful, but is selling at ridiculously low prices; as cheap as five cents for a good size head. The price condition is due to the fact that other valley centers are raising enough lettuce to meet their own needs, which means that right now local consumption is about the only demand for the Lahish crop.

Celery is little better than last week and continues at 15 cents a bunch. No other changes in fruit and vegetable prices were noted during the week. Lemons continue at the highest price since last season, $8.50 per crate.

TRANSCONTINENTAL DRIVE HERE TODAY

Ab Jenkins Crosses U. S. in 77 Hours and 44
Minutes

Ab Jenkins, famous transcontinental driver who twice broke the record for the fastest dash across the country, will be in this city this morning, Wallace Bonesteel learned Thursday. Jenkins, who has been breaking road records for the past four or five years, will be the guest of Marion garage, local Studebaker-Erskine dealers. He is driving a President Eight roadster which recently traveled 30,000 miles in 26,329 consecutive minutes on the Atlantic City speedway; one of four Studebaker Presidents which covered the distance in less than 20,000 minutes. These records have never been equaled in the history of transportation.

Makes Transcontinental Mark
Jenkins first sprang into national prominence back in 1926 when he drove a stock Studebaker Sheriff model from New York to San Francisco in 84 hours 20 minutes, beating the time of the fastest train by more than six hours, and the former automobile record by an even greater margin. This feat, achieved under the most adverse weather conditions, stamped Jenkins as an intrepid road pilot. Later he crossed the country in 77 hours 40 minutes, breaking the standing record by more than two hours.

Uniontown Hill at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, has long been recognized as one of the most severe tests of a car's climbing ability. Last spring in a Studebaker Commander sedan with one passenger in addition to himself, Jenkins dashed over the summit at 60 miles an hour. The best previous record for the climb under similar conditions was 54 miles per hour.

JENKINS TELLS OF CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

Visitor of Wallace Bonesteel
Has More Records Than Fingers and Toes

What it means to the motoring public when an automobile travels 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 minutes was explained to local drivers when Ab Jenkins, famous transcontinental road driver and holder of many hill climbing and endurance records, visited the showrooms of Wallace Bonesteel, local Studebaker-Erskine dealer.

Jenkins holds more speed records than he has fingers and toes. He is now driving the identical Studebaker President Eight sport roadster which covered 30,000 miles in 26,329 minutes elapsed time at the Atlantic City speedway between July 21 and August 9.

Like three other President Eight models which completed the run at average speeds ranging from 64 to 68 miles per hour, Jenkins' roadster is a strictly stock model. "Many people are curious to know why the 30,000 mile run was made," said Jenkins. "Others want to know what it means to the average owner driver."

"Studebaker fully realizes that the automobile owner does not want to drive his car 30,000 miles in less than 30,000 minutes. In fact, the average speed during the lifetime of the average automobile is probably not greater than 20 or 25 miles an hour. But it stands to reason that an automobile capable of maintaining speeds ranging from 64 to 68 miles an hour for 19 consecutive days and 29 consecutive nights will give more satisfaction under ordinary driving conditions than a car not able to equal such tests as those just completed by the President Eight," said Jenkins. "That is the real significance of the 30,000 mile run has for the automobile owner."

Acquainted With Speed
"Studebaker was fully acquainted with the speed, power and stamina of The President, due to the experiments of Studebaker engineers in their research laboratories and on Studebaker's million dollar proving ground. But Studebaker wanted to prove this performance in the most convincing manner possible. It would have been quite simple to hire a corps of timers, rent a speedway and drive the President Eight to new records. But we wanted our test to have the authenticity of official sanction. We wanted to prove beyond all doubt and we wanted proof that everybody would believe."

"So we went to the highest court of motordom, the American Automobile association, and asked for their official sanction of our impending test. Our request was granted. Official representatives of the A. A. A. appeared in our Detroit factories and selected four President Eight motors and four chassis at random from the assembling lines. Studebaker had nothing to do with the selection of the four cars that made the run—it was a matter entirely in the hands of unbiased A. A. A. representatives."

with very few exceptions, there has been a convention on Review Sunday of each quarter. Mathew Holbert of Hayesville and Silas Jones of Brooks were the committee to arrange the first program and the first public program was at Parkersville in last Sunday in December, 1895. Activities of the organization have attracted interest and increasing numbers of people have attended each quarterly meeting.
