Roberts Studio is Scene of Lovely Wedding

MISS Georgia Sneed will become the bride of Roman Guenther this afternoon in one of the many attractive weddings of the season. The hour set for the wedding is 3 o'clock, which makes the same hour on the same day of the month and the same day of the week that was Prof. and Mrs. T. S. Roberts' wedding date. Mrs. Roberts is acting as matron of honor for Miss Sneed, while Prof. Roberts is playing the organ numbers. Miss Sneed has been an assistant in the department of music with the Roberts' for the past six years.

The ceremony will be performed in the studio of the Roberts' home. This lovely long room will be arranged as a chapel with ferns and banks of palms and roses and ocean spray. Chapel candles will be used at the improvised altar near the organ. Long white tapers in these as well as in many other candelabra about the room will shed a soft light over the whole setting.

Reverend F. C. Taylor of the First Methodist church will officiate. Prof. T. S. Roberts will begin the ceremony with "Benediction Nuptial" played on the Guenther organ. Mrs. Malcolm Rump will then sing "All for You," and following this Prof. Roberts will play the wedding march of Lohegrin and the bride will enter. She will be attended by Mrs. Roberts as matron of honor and by Miss Olga Kettelson of Portland, and Miss Nellie Rowe as bridesmaids.

The best man is to be Prof. Lauren B. Sykes, director of music in the Honson Memorial church in Portland. Wee Barbara Jean Wells of Portland will be flower girl.

At the close of the ceremony Prof. Roberts will play Mendelssohn's wedding march and will follow this with other appropriate selections while a reception is in progress in the drawing rooms downstairs.

Miss Sneed will be gowned in white satin with lace beaded over skirt, a long veil falling from a lace cap caught back with orange blossoms. She will carry a colonial bouquet.

The matron of honor will wear coral pink chiffon and carry a bouquet of sweetpeas in pastel shades. One of the bridesmaids will be gowned in soft pink and the other in pale green, and each will carry an arm bouquet of sweetpeas.

The reception rooms will be decorated in sweetpeas in pastel shades. The serving table will be centered with the bride's cake and a low basket of sweet peas. Tall tapers in pastel shades will add the last graceful note to the serving table where Mrs. W. H. Sneed of Raymond, Washington, mother of Miss Sneed, and Mrs. C. T. Hoover, aunt of the bride-to-be, will cut loaves. The bridesmaids will serve and Mrs. Viola Burson, and Mrs. Fanny Wretts will assist Mrs. Roberts in meeting guests.

It is expected that 100 guests will be received during the ceremony and reception.

Immediately following the reception the young folk will leave for the south for an indefinite trip. They will make their return to Oregon. Mr. Guenther is president of the Guenther Organ company in Portland.
