

ARTILLERY TO ENTRAIN TODAY

Two Salem Units Are Among Those Heading For Puget Sound

The 249th Coast Artillery, Oregon National Guard has been ordered by the war department to participate in the Minor Joint Army and Navy exercises and the battle practice with the regular coast artillery troops at Fort Worden, Washington beginning July 17, 1929.

The 249th Coast Artillery is composed of headquarters, headquarters battery, including band, and five firing batteries located in the state as follows:

Regimental headquarters and band, Marshfield; headquarters battery, Salem; Battery "A", Albany; Battery "B", Ashland; Battery "C", Marshfield; Battery "D", Klamath Falls; Battery "E", Cottage Grove; Medical detachment, Salem.

Beginning July 9, the various organizations will entrain at their home stations and upon arrival in Portland on the morning of July 10 a special train will convey the regiment intact to Seattle, there detouring at the Colman Dock and embark on a Puget Sound Navigation boat for Forts Worden and Casey. Upon arrival at these posts the regiment will commence training on the 6" and 10" guns and 12" mortars in preparation for the maneuvers and the battle practice. The navy plans to have five battleships, 12 destroyers and a number of auxiliary ships in the northern waters by July 16. The army and navy maneuvers will be in the nature of an attack and defense problem in which the navy will conduct certain tactical problems for attack on the defenses of the Puget Sound and the harbor defense troops will man the fortifications in defense of an attacking enemy fleet.

No doubt full advantage will be taken by the Navy of the use of darkness, fog and smoke screens during the operations. Blank ammunition and smoke balls will be used to stimulate actual firing of service ammunition by both sides. Following the maneuvers the harbor defenses will conduct battle practice using service ammunition. Targets towed by tugs representing enemy naval ships will be towed on various courses in the Straits and anywhere from one to 12 batteries manning 6", 10" and 12" guns and mortars will fire on the targets using projectiles weighing as much as 1000 pounds with a propelling charge of powder weighing 275 pounds. Upon conclusion of the tactical problems the fleet will pass through the Straits in formation and rendezvous at Port Townsend, Seattle and the Puget Sound Navy Yard. On July 24th the 249th Coast Artillery will break camp and return to their home stations.

SALEM HUNT CLUB NOW IN NEW HOME

The Salem Hunt club found itself at home in its summer quarters on the Glen L. Adams 5 acre tract in West Salem late Saturday evening and is well adjusted already to the new location where instruction will be continued without a break and riders will take their customary jaunts now over the West Salem hills.

The new quarters provide adequate care in every way and an open track which is especially desirable for summer riding and the much-sought ultra-violet rays. Additional stables are already under construction. James Emmons and the same telephone number—551—remain with the academy.

To reach the Hunt club summer quarters follow the Wallace road past the railroad track and take the first turn to the left which leads directly to the new site, happily located as it is in a lovely spot in the wooded hills.

REEVES, MARSHAL OF JEFFERSON, DIES

JEFFERSON, July 8.—Edward Elsworth Reeves was born in Lincoln, Placer county, California, August 9, 1861. At the age of 11 years he came to Oregon with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Bartley Reeves resided on a farm three miles north of Jefferson, where he spent the greater part of his life. For a number of years he conducted a photograph gallery. For seven years he was employed by the forest service as fire warden in southern Oregon.

At the time of his death he was city marshal and water superintendent of Jefferson. Only January 6, 1921, he was united in marriage to Miss Nettie Klampe. Besides his widow he leaves to mourn his death three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. J. H. George Lynes, Mrs. A. J. Shumaker and Frank Reeves, of Salem. He was a member of the I. O. O. F., and son of a pioneer family.

1800 CHICKENS ARE STOLEN BY BURGLAR

Theft of 1800 chickens from his farm on Route 2, near Silverton, was reported in Salem Monday by Jess W. Miller, the owner of the chickens. He said they were stolen on the night of July 5. Miller had been away in Portland for two days arranging for a place to sell the flock which ranged in size from two to three pounds. Miller estimated the value of the chickens at $1200.

No clue to the thief had been found thus far by Miller.

'STARK MAD' FOUND THRILLING PICTURE

Hairy hands reaching around sacrificial altars, the laughing of a maniac and the distant howling of hounds caused many shivers to run up and down the spines of those who saw the first showings of "Stark Mad" at the Capitol theatre Sunday.

The maidenly stenographer, Louise Fazenda, with her hopes that she would live to see a report of the expedition into the jungles of Central America in print, brought the laughs at just the instant to relieve the strain of the horror and anxiety for the safety of the fiancée of the last man the party was searching for. The roaring ape and the arrows shot at members of the party added new fears to the party as it searched through the old Inca temple.

But only a touch of the horror and danger of the expedition remained after it was over. Successful in unravelling a long hidden mystery and in bringing a native superstition, it ended without regrets.

LEILA ARMSTRONG WEDS STANLEY FAGG

AUBURN, July 8.—Leila Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Armstrong, became the bride of Stanley Fagg, eldest son of Aras Fagg, at a pretty home wedding Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, with the Rev. E. A. Fogg officiating. The impressive ring ceremony was used. Twenty-four immediate relatives were present.

The bride was beautiful in an ensemble of white and dainty pink floral flat crepe. The room was adorned with Madonna lilies and fern, with toter flowers. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Spokane, Wash., and other points. Upon their return they will reside in Eugene, where the groom is a foreman under the employ of the telephone company in the construction of conduit forms.

The bride has just completed her fourth year in the state college mobile department and has been well known in church circles and Sunday school work, having served as secretary-treasurer for the Hayesville Sunday school district for several years.

She enjoys the highest esteem and love of a multitude of friends.

CITY'S BILLS MUST BE SENT IN EARLY

Persons to whom the city of Salem owes money—other than regular wages or salary—will have to get their bills in more promptly in the future.

Recorder Mark Poulsen has issued a notice that these bills must be in his hands five days before the council meeting if they are to be approved at that meeting, which means that they must reach order phone 500.

the city hall by 5 o'clock on the preceding Wednesday. And that goes for next Monday night's meeting.

This provision has been on the books for some time, but it has been generally disregarded, recently, and bills have continued arriving up to the time of the meeting.

But from now on bills coming in late cannot be acted upon until a succeeding meeting, for the council has required that typed lists of these claims be furnished to each alderman, and preparation of these lists takes time.

AVIATOR KILLED
BERLING, N. J., July 8.—(AP)—An unidentified aviator was killed tonight when his plane fell and was wrecked near here. The plane caught fire and the pilot was severely burned before taken from the wreckage.

The Oregon Statesman and The Portland Telegram, two great dailies for 60 cents per month. To which means that they must reach order phone 500.

READERS OF PAPER TO GET NEW STORY

Thrilling Serial Hit to Appear in Statesman in Near-Future

"Blue Blood and Red," a thrilling story of New York's underworld and Virginia aristocracy, will start soon in the Statesman. This is the latest serial hit from the pen of Robert Terry Shannon, popular author of "The Taxi Dancer," "Ladies Must Love" and an imposing number of other successes.

Some idea of the source of conflict in "Blue Blood and Red" may be gleaned from the title. The story concerns the adventures and misadventures of Ed- die Regan, a likeable New York youth, who gets in with a gang and is about to engineer a big silk robbery when his conscience stops him.
