GOVERNORS NOT TO GIVE VIEWS

Annual-Convention Sidesteps Issues Presented by Mr. Wickershams

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 18 (AP)—The 21st annual convention of governors disbanded tonight without a formal expression of opinion on the overhauling issue brought before it by prohibitionists.

Leading those who oppose any further change in enforcement measures and believe modification of what all admitted was a pressing problem, was Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. In the vanguard of those who favored the law and change looking toward better enforcement of it were three southern Democratic governors—Richards and Gardner of South and North Carolina, respectively, and Byrd of Virginia.

Molasses Declared To Spell Defeat—Governor Richards sounded the warning to his party that "if it ever again nominates a man who is against prohibition" it will meet its doom.

The South Carolina governor predicted that President Hoover would go down in history as "the greatest president the United States ever had" because of his "apparent dry attitude."

The prohibition question was brought into the conference Tuesday by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York when he read a letter from George W. Wickershams, head of President Hoover's recently formed law enforcement commission. In the letter Mr. Wickershams urged cooperation between state and federal governments looking toward better enforcement.

Majority Refuses To Express Opinion—Although efforts were made by dry leaders to have the conference pass resolutions approving the reforms suggested by Mr. Wickershams, the majority sided with the executive committee which ruled that was the policy of the conference not to go on record on controversial subjects.

The decision was taken following upon a stormy session around the round table in the course of which Governor Ritchie stated that if state choose not to enforce prohibition statutes "they violate no legal or moral obligation."

There is no crime wave, he said, save that which follows in prohibition's wake and he cited statistics of Baltimore to show that where city and state authorities do not attempt to enforce federal laws, leaving their courts free to handle the more common law accepted definition of criminal cases, crime is on the decrease.

Sharp Exception Is Taken By Richards—To this Governor Richards took sharp exception, saying that "unless prohibition is more stringently enforced this terrible wave of criminality will not be stopped."

The South Carolina governor demanded that the governors "who are at least supposed to defend the morals of the country," make a statement approving the idea of better prohibition enforcement.

Governors Graves of Alabama, Reed of Kansas, Conley of West Virginia and Hammill of Iowa, were among others who spoke in defense of prohibition, although they were not unanimous in the view that a division of authority between state and federal forces would lead to better enforcement.

At the closing session today Governor George H. Dern of Utah was re-elected chairman of the executive committee of the conference. Governor Theodore Christanson of Minnesota was re-elected treasurer and former Gov. Carey Hardee of Florida was re-elected secretary.

The date to be decided later. QUINABY PARK, July 18.—The annual camp meeting of the Marion, Polk county, Holiness association is now in session at Quinaby park.

The leading evangelist, Calvin Choate of Idaho, is an interesting speaker and worth hearing. He is supported by L. D. Smith, pastor of the Salem Nazarene church, as song leader, and Miss Gladys Gilbert, Jason Lee church, as accompanist.

The Sunday afternoon service will be of especial interest in that students from Portland Bible institute will be present to sing; Mr. Bernard Mott, a professor at the school, will also be in attendance.

The meetings will continue all the coming week and can be found by following the camp meeting signs on the Keizer road to Quinaby. Mr. Harrington is the president.

FLYER OFF ON 8460 MILE HOP

Round Trip From New York to Nome to be Tried in Record Time

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., July 18.—(AP)—Starting a day ahead of schedule, Capt. Ross G. Hoyt took off for Alaska today expecting to be back Sunday, the fastest flight of such length ever made.

He had not planned to leave until tomorrow, but weather reports were favorable so he hoped to get a 2:33 Eastern daylight time this afternoon. His course to Nome, Alaska, is 4,230 miles long and he expects to make the 8,460 mile round trip in 75 hours and 40 minutes elapsed time, including eight one hour stops for refueling and a six hour layover at Nome. Actual time in the air is scheduled at 61 hours and 40 minutes, an average of 140 miles an hour.

The Hoyt schedule, in Eastern daylight time: Minneapolis, Minn. 1:30 miles, 10 p. m. Thursday; Edmonton, Alta., 1,110 miles, 7 a. m. Friday; Whitehorse, Yukon, 1,100 miles, 4 p. m. Friday; Fairbanks, Alaska, 500 miles, 8:40 p. m. Friday; Nome, 500 miles, 1 a. m., Saturday.

Captain Hoyt, who had charge of refueling the army endurance plane, Question Mark, planned this flight to test the efficiency of increasing the range of army pursuit flying by stepping up the present horsepower and adding extra gas tanks. His plane, a black and yellow single seater with "U. S. Army" painted on the underside, is capable of 180 miles an hour, but he figured on a certain amount of head winds in arranging his schedule.

At midnight tonight he planned to swoop down over Fargo, N. D., to let that city know of his passing, and some three hours later to make a similar dive above the houseposts of Regina, Sask.

For nourishment he carried three bottles, one of water, one of orange juice and one of eggs and milk.

SCHOOL BUSES USED BY MANY

Acting Superintendent Tavenner Receives Replies to Questionnaire

Assurance that use of the buses provided for bringing students to Salem high school from districts outside the city which have no high schools, will be extensive, has been gained by R. W. Tavenner, acting superintendent, from the replies to questionnaires sent out last week.

To the 406 letters sent, 135 replies have been received, indicating that at least that many students will use the buses, and Mr. Tavenner is confident that within a few days many more replies will come in.

It has been estimated that at least seven routes will be necessary in Marion county, and one in Polk county, with a strong indication that there will be one more in Marion county. This estimate was made in order to give Thomas McClean, who has contracted for the transportation, an idea as to how many buses will be needed.

The routes will be outlined definitely about the middle of August, with a possibility of some adjustment after the program is started at the opening of school in September.
