ARCHITECT DREAMS OF FLOATING FAIR

PARIS—(AP)—A floating exposition building, a dozen times the size of any ocean liner is proposed as a means of spreading France's fame abroad.

Marcel Chappey, architect and artist, winner of a score of national competitions and now in the United States, designed the great sea-going palace because he felt France's efforts to show her art and tell of her ideas by means of small traveling art shows, and spasmodic excursions of lectures, were too diffuse.

He planned a sort of city-at-sea, able to navigate at 10 knots an hour, anchor in the great ports of the world and present in a fitting atmosphere the varied manifestations of French intellect and handicraft.

The great steel ship, looking much like an enormous battleship hull, would be more than seven

State Park System Urged As Means of Beautifying Oregon's Main Highways

Acquiring for the people of Oregon a state park system and perpetuation of the timbered strips on the borders of state highways, rivers and streams and other resources which contribute to the natural beauty of the state, were discussed at a meeting of the newly created state park commission held in the executive department Wednesday.

At the outset of the meeting Governor Patterson said there was urgent demand for protection because many timbered strips along the state highways were being destroyed for commercial purposes. He urged that options be obtained on these strips of timber pending some action by the legislature at its next session.

H. B. VanDuser, chairman of the state highway commission, said that while the state was not in a position to make a large investment in timber lands along the highways at the present time, he considered that the time had arrived for action. It was the consensus of opinion that the timber strips should be at least 300 feet in depth.

It was voted to take up with the forest service the matter of protecting the national forest timber along state highways and to secure the development of further recreational areas.

Among other recommendations were the following:

Taking up with the United States interior department the matter of acquiring public lands suitable for park and recreational purposes.

Making arrangements with private owners for the acquisition of timbered strips along the highways and at the rear the stern would slope down to make a sandy beach with the stern extending on both sides so there would be shelter for seaplanes and small boats.

It is Chappey's idea that French architecture could show itself in the deck-buildings and gardens. French art in decoration, pictures and furnishings, French intelligence in lectures and French commerce in all sorts of displays.

The originality of the exposition boat, he thinks, would insure it much attention wherever it went, gaining instantly good audiences.

The plan for the great boat was awarded first prize in the 1929 Chenevard competition and models and drawings of it were displayed in Paris for some time.

It's a Mystery

The rest of this young lady's sports outfit... that is, it's a mystery to the uninitiated; but we've seen the advanced fall styles and we know... a young woman in such a splendid sweater would choose one of only two kinds of skirts... either she is wearing a knit skirt of the same design or one of the cute little "tuck-ins." (This time it's the blouse not the skirt that tucks in) in flannel, serge, or other fall material.

Whichever it is she has chosen wisely for she will wear it this summer to beach or mountain resort, boating, golfing, driving, or hiking... and it will be one of the most fashionable things on the campus this fall.

The first of our fall stocks are arriving and they are favored for summer sports wear... the little knitted sports suit (2 or 3 pieces) guaranteed not to stretch out of shape, and the smart yoked and pleated "tuck-ins" with their matching tailored blouses in cottons and silk... colored or white.

WHOLESUME DIET AID TO HEALTH

A Little Sugar Helps Us Enjoy the Foods We Need

The public should know the truths about food and diet as they are related to health.

The latest medical opinion emphasizes that we need varied foods and balanced foods, including milk, cereals, vegetables, fruits and meats. It isn't enough to eat one or two kinds of foods, and it isn't wise to eliminate any important food from the diet.

As every woman responsible for feeding a household knows, taste is the controlling factor in getting women, children or men to eat foods that are sufficiently varied. This is exactly where sugar comes into the picture, for, as has been pointed out, sugar is the greatest condimental food in the world. A little sugar develops the flavors of healthful cereals. A sprinkling of sugar makes currants, blackberries and other fresh fruits highly enjoyable.

A group of women cooking experts recently uncovered the old secret that a dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking brings out new and enjoyable flavors. Good cooks know how to use a little sugar to develop the flavors of roasts and other delectable meat dishes. Correct amounts of sugar used in milk desserts help children and adults eat enough milk. The most enjoyable meal is the one that is topped off with stewed fruit, ice cream, cake or candy desserts.

Help adults and children to eat varied foods. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.
