Realtors See Growth Here—Salem realtors are still talking about the appraisal demonstration held Friday morning as a feature of the northwest realtors' convention which came to a close Friday. The visiting realtors, practically to a man, opined at the demonstration that Salem is due to a good steady growth. Some asserted that the city will grow eastward in a few years instead of continuing the present northern trend. The realtors all found the host city exceedingly attractive, commenting freely on the beauty of the town and particularly the flowers, the latter despite the fact that the season is just "in-between" for flowers.

HOP GROWERS EXPECT CROWD

State Organization Will be Perfected at Meeting Here This Week

A crowd is assured for the first meeting of the Hop Growers' association of Oregon to be held here Saturday in the opinion of F. E. Needham who is sponsoring the gathering with the view of obtaining more cooperation from hop growers throughout the state, not only in the marketing of their product but in furthering the legislative interests of hop growers by appeals to representatives in congress at the proper times.

Mr. Needham said a hearty response had been made by growers to his invitation to the meeting with the result that the problem now before him was to secure sufficient seating accommodations at the chamber of commerce to handle all the crowd.

While Needham could not predict what the group will do since the meeting is an initial one, he is of the belief that the Oregon group may affiliate with the American Hop Growers' association which now has opportunity to participate in the farm relief legislation recently enacted by congress. Just how this association, which is active now in California, operates will be one of the points explained at the meeting.

Needham's first purpose in effect an organization which would cooperate can be the summing up of the growers has been greatest single factor in advancing the interests of hop growers. He expects a large percentage of the growers in the state to come to the meeting.

Election of officers will take place Saturday.

This trip, which will take nearly 185 students on a picturesque tour of the north, will occupy two weeks, and third will be spent on the campus. During the post session the campus is exceptionally quiet and many students take advantage of this opportunity to do intensive work.

STEUSSLOFF MARKET IN CITY DISPOSED OF

As forecast in a news report in The Statesman last week, the Steussloff market at Liberty and Court streets is to change hands under a lease, effective August 1. William H. Steussloff representing the Steussloff Brothers corporation, announced Saturday that the market and building had been leased to J. H. Moyer and E. J. Donnell who will continue the business under the name of Steussloff market.

The lease will be for the retirement of the Steussloff interests from the active control of the market which was founded in 1892 by the late F. W. Steussloff who came to Salem from Pendleton and opened a market on North Commercial street near the Fry drug store. He was in partnership with McCrow for six years, when W. H. Steussloff, a brother, came out.

from Omaha and bought McCrow's interest. In 1906 the corner at Court and Liberty was purchased and the building erected which has continued to house the market for over a quarter century. E. W. died three years ago. In June John P. Lucke, who has been the active manager, passed away. W. MANY JOBS FOUND BY LABORERS HERE

While there is considerable labor unemployed in the Salem district, as a whole the unemployment situation has been well taken care of as regards local workers, according to Sim Phillips, manager of the Y. M. C. A. labor bureau here. Worthy workers whose homes are in Salem have been virtually all taken care of by seasonal employment in the last few weeks.

Mr. Phillips said many men applied for jobs but because the applicants were transients, people did not feel it was their duty to place them in positions of some trust.

The Salem Y free employment office had last week 154 men and 37 women applying for work, and about 111 of the men and 33 of the women. The men sent out all went to farm jobs, excepting one out to three painters who applied, and three salesmen—all of those who applied, with a demand for two more which could not be filled. The same was true of the women, excepting two clerks and a housekeeper and two housekeepers—all who applied for that kind of work, excepting one cook. There was a demand for one housekeeper which could not be filled.

Under the direction and with the help of Mrs. Irene Love, of the regular force of the public library, assisted by two able bodied and industrious young men and E. H. Palmer, janitor of the institution, 30,000 books were moved in one day last week, in order to accommodate the workmen who were kalsomining and painting on the inside, and generally cleaning up. The work of renovation went on for three days, and during that time 800 books were circulated—and, remarkable as the statement may sound, not a portion who called had any kalsomine or paint

POLICE FIND AUTO WITHIN SHORT TIME

How is this for police efficiency? Friday night a weary little Ford roadster sat before Frank Bligh's Capitol theatre waiting for its owner to come out of the preview which Archie Holt was staging. Previews mean late hours and at 1 o'clock the Ford still sat with fenders drooping like dejected weanlings, drooping not from weariness it is true, but from too many obstacles vaulted, jumped and crawled during its span of life dating back in 1927 some time.

At a still later hour the owner of said Ford came out of the theatre. Not knowing that his trusty Ford had been left waiting for him by a thoughtful friend who had been using it during the evening, the owner went home and then the unhappy Ford sat on till some human, ambitious for ownership and not particular whose property he owned, took the little Ford by the steering wheel and drove it on and on into the night and finally, for some queer reason, left it to sit and wait over on 12th and Center street, Saturday morning the owner discovered that it had strayed and at exactly 8:20 o'clock reported to the Salem police department such fact. Sergeant George Edwards left in pursuit, and at exactly 10:15 o'clock the Ford was back in the hands of its owner only and except for the loss of its key not a whit worse for its escapade.

From 9:20 o'clock to 10:15 o'clock it sat such a long time to get the wheels of the law in motion and stopped again. People have waited very nearly that long for a beefsteak order.

HIGH PRODUCTION COST IS DEcriED

The great difficulty for all farmers is that the cost of production is too high, stated L. H. Metzger of Wenatchee, Washington, in speaking before the Salem Grange No. 17 on Saturday.

Mr. Metzger discussed the subject of co-operative marketing, particularly as applied to the apple vending machines which are supplied by the Wenatchee apple growers.

Following Mr. Metzger, the grange members discussed the farm relief and debenture plans. The grange is making a particular study of the debenture plan and a lively discussion was held. Speaking on the subject were S. H. Van Trump, A. Zimmerman, A. Slaughter and C. H. Taylor. Literature on the subject had been provided for the grange members and much interest was manifest during the discussion.

WORK BEING DONE UPON CITY LIBRARY

Under the direction and with the help of Mrs. Irene Love, of the regular force of the public library, assisted by two able bodied and industrious young men and E. H. Palmer, janitor of the institution, 30,000 books were moved in one day last week, in order to accommodate the workmen who were kalsomining and painting on the inside, and generally cleaning up. The work of renovation went on for three days, and during that time 800 books were circulated—and, remarkable as the statement may sound, not a portion who called had any kalsomine or paint dropped down his or her neck—though there was much apprehension along that score.

Be it known to the patronizing public that the work is over now, and there is no longer any danger in that respect. The painting and kalsomining was done by the Hutcheon concern, and the workmen took a good deal of pride in being able to get it over without bespattering either any of the books or the readers of them.

Miss Florence St. Pierre of Kingwood Heights is making a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Robert Adams on Glen Creek road.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wetzel motored to Oregon City Saturday morning and returned late in the evening.

Jack Murphy, who was severely injured while working on the state highway near McMinnville, is now able to walk without aid of either crutches or cane and intends to go back to work this next week.
