MILL MILLER HERE IN BEHALF OF PARK

Here Friday to confer with Senator McNary, Congressman Hawley and Governor Patterson was Milton A. Miller, former state senator, who for years has been a staunch advocate for improvements for Champoeg park. The senator discussed with both members of congress a bill introducing in the last session providing $125,000 in federal monies for a permanent building at the park to be matched by a like appropriation from the state.

Senator McNary's bill passed the senate and Congressman Hawley's bill was reported favorably out of committee, but due to the fact that an objection was made to hearing the bill on unanimous consent, Hawley's measure did not get through the house at the last session.

Mr. Hawley expressed himself Friday as assured that some suitable appropriation could be secured from Congress for the building which he thought should be of a permanent type, suitable to represent the historic interest which Champoeg holds.

Republican Finance Group In Senate Finishes Work Of Rewriting Tariff Scale

By D. HAROLD OLIVER Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. —

(AP)—The senate finance committee republicans today completed rewriting of the house tariff bill's rate sections by approving a reduction of 2.20 cents a pound in the house levy of 2.40 cents on Cuban raw sugar.

The 2.20 cent rate, adopted by a vote of 7 to 4, represents an increase of forty-four hundredths of a cent over the existing duty of 1.76 cents against Cuban sugar, but a decrease of twenty hundredths of a cent from that proposed by the house.

A proposal to restrict the duty-free importation of sugar from the Philippines was rejected. The vote on this was not announced, but it was reported as around 9 to 2.

The vote on the sugar rates came after a motion by Senator Shortridge of California to adopt the house rates was turned down, 9 to 2. Senator Bingham of Connecticut, voting with the California senator for the higher house duties.

The sugar tariff against other countries, or what is known as the world rate, was fixed at 2.75 cents a pound as against three cents in the bill and 2.20 cents under existing law. Cuba is allowed a 20 per cent reduction in duty by treaty, so the finance group's Cuban duty, if finally enacted, would be the same as the present world rate on raw sugar.

After approving some increases and one reduction in other items of the house sugar schedule, the republican committee rejected a dozen or more of amendments which senators had announced an intention to offer on the floor, including the Norris export debenture proposal in the gas stock sale tax amendment.

Strenuous efforts, however, are expected to be made on the floor for both the debenture and stock tax proposals, the former being designed to make the tariff effective on surplus agricultural commodities and the latter being aimed at stock gambling.

The senate twice voted the debenture into the farm relief bill by a margin of three votes over President Hoover's protest, but an overwhelming rejection of the proposal by the house led to its ultimate defeat.

The explanation for its disappearance today by the republican committee was that it had no place in a tariff bill. The same explanation was given for the turning down of the stock tax amendment.

Alleged Leader in Fatal Arson Plot Commits Suicide in Room

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16. — Dady M. Carey, indicted for first degree murder as director of an alleged arson plot which killed three firemen and mentioned in connection with other property destruction, today took his own life with a revolver.

The indictment, by a special county grand jury, followed the appearance before that body of Charles J. Frederick, a city detective. In a signed statement, Frederick charged Carey was responsible for the alleged arson blast August 5, for which he was indicted for an explosion in June, 1925 which destroyed the Gillis theatre and killed six persons, and for other alleged arson acts.

Carey inflicted the fatal wound in a room in a downtown hotel a few minutes before the three indictments were returned.

Late today two alleged companions of Carey in the most recent arson plot were arraigned on first degree murder indictments. The men, Arch Glover and D. L. Piggott, previously had been charged in a state warrant with the same crime. They pleaded not guilty and were held for trial August 26.

Quarantine was placed by Dr. Douglas when other members of the family refused vaccination, preferring to remain isolated during the quarantine period. No contacts have been made by the family, ordinary precautions having been taken by them as they feared the disease was contagious, and the health officer considers there is absolutely no danger of an epidemic.

Alleged Leader in Fatal Arson Plot Commits Suicide in Room

Bulgaria Only Country Where Girls yet Blush

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Bulgaria—

(AP)—Bulgaria is the only country in Europe where the girls still blush.

This remark was made recently by Charles C. Vickery, prominent American church official, after he had visited every country in Europe and had then made a tour of Bulgaria. He added that he would like to send his daughters to Bulgaria to be brought up.

This opinion of the Bulgarian girls was well founded, for modesty is one of their principal traits. A girl over here is more inclined to hide her beauty than to enhance or display it.

The masses of women and girls in Bulgaria have remained uncontaminated by the practices of the modern feminine world in the direction of bobbed hair, ultra-short skirts, shaved eye-brows, rouged lips, and other conceits. The Bulgarian girl depends solely upon nature, good health and active outdoor life to impart physical charms and beauty to her person.

From earliest youth the Bulgarian girl is taught that she must not be forward. Restraint and fidelity are always expected of her. As a baby, if she is of peasant parents, she is carried to the field on her mother's back and hung in a hammock under a tree.

Later she goes to the field with her mother to tend some baby brother or sister hanging under the tree. Still later she goes with her mother and other girls to hoe and to harvest.

During these years as she is growing up, she does not go walking or riding with boys, but meets them in the fields while at work. Groups of boys and groups of girls sing folk songs back and forth to each other on the field in the form of challenges and responses.

Maidens and youths meet at husking bees, also, under parents' eyes, and on holidays they dance together in the village square. But the dances are just long circular lines of skipping people holding hands, with the boys at one end of the line and the girls at the other.

The one place of real romance is the village fountain or well, where the girls gather to fill their water jugs. The boys also collect there, and if a girl gives a boy her jug to drink from, that means that he's her boy and all the village knows it. That is the ultimate expression of romantic affection. That's as near as the village youth comes to petting.

However, that boy will not "pop" the question to that girl. He will go home and tell his father that he wants Marika, and then his father will see a neighbor, who will go over to see Marika's father and ask what he would think of giving his daughter to a certain boy, and what the dowry would be.

If the response is favorable the two fathers meet and arrange matters, and a day or two later they call in a priest to officiate at the engagement of the young people. And the betrothal is as permanent as a marriage. In this land, where there are few divorces, broken engagements are very rare. Stern fathers and mothers schooled in century-old traditions insist on fidelity.

EPLEY'S OREGON SONG IS SUCCESS

Dr. H. C. Epley, Salem's singing dentist, is meeting with much cordial reception for his latest song composition, "Oregon, Queen of the West," which he wrote for the special purpose of representing Oregon at the dental convention recently held in Los Angeles. It was sung by Dr. Epley and members of the Oregon delegation with no little success at the convention.

Now Dr. Epley has continued the song in local gatherings. In Portland August 11 he sang this composition before the members of the Spanish war veterans gathered in picnic at Laurelburst park. He also was requested to sing before the Oregon county school superintendents as they were gathered for a banquet given in Salem, during their convention here, by the Northwest School Supply company Friday of last week.

Tuesday and Wednesday of this coming week Dr. Epley will sing "Oregon, Queen of the West," before the Elsinore theatre audience in connection with special scenic pictures which are being shown there on these days, depicting Oregon scenery.

Dr. Epley is now busily at work on a second like composition.

The open road

SUPPOSE you came suddenly upon two roads. One straight, well-trodden . . . the other thin and twisting off into undergrowth. If you didn't want to arrive at any place in particular, you might choose the latter. But not otherwise.

Before you, as buyer, run two roads. One is the road of knowledge of an advertised product. Thousands use it. There's no mystery about it, no doubting, nothing hidden. It leads the way definitely to a fountain pen, a floor wax, a tooth-paste that will give you satisfaction. When you use an advertisement, you use an open road.

When you don't use advertisements, you go the doubtful road. You have only hazy knowledge of the product ahead. No trade-mark or name to depend upon guides you. The result may or may not be worth the effort. You don't know.

Read the advertisements. Anything widely advertised—breakfast food, hammer, hair tonic—has proved itself good by advertising.
