

PRISON BOARD DENIES CHARGE

No Plot Formed to Do Away With "Count" Sichofsky, is Claim

The warden's statement was as follows:

"When Mr. Jennings applied for reinstatement in the service at Folsom prison I went into the matter of his previous dismissal by former Warden J. J. Smith and found the following to be the facts:

Some Facts Bear Out Smith Charge

"The count was sick and was going to the hospital for treatment and there was a will made and drawn and handed Jennings after its completion for the purpose of taking an acknowledgment of the witnesses, the signature of Sichofsky and the two witnesses necessary. Jennings knew nothing of this until it was handed to him for acknowledgment.

"He went to the hospital after Sichofsky had been placed there for treatment, had the will with him, and told Sichofsky that before there could be any signature of his signing of the document that it must be approved by Warden J. J. Smith, and in a few minutes went home taking the will with him. In the morning he went down to see the warden about ten o'clock and met him at the foot of the steps leading into administration building. Count Given Credit for Proposing Signature

"He told the warden that he had a will that the count wished to sign and that he wanted two witnesses. Warden J. J. Smith said 'All right, bring the count down and the two witnesses to my office.' They then went up to his office in the ward, where afterwards he was phoned to bring the will to the warden's office, and that is the last he saw of it."

Woodworth said he received the money and that upon Emmanuel's order he paid $15,000 to the Wells Fargo company, assigned to the Metropolitan Building company of Seattle for rent due from Emmanuel. The balance, Woodworth said, was assigned by Emmanuel as attorney's fees and to other creditors.

J. H. Sapero, San Francisco attorney, was credited with receiving sums totaling $1395.70. Other lawyers naming Mr. J. J. Welch and A. D. Duncan of Sacramento. $300 is Paid for Two Costumes

The sum of $300 for two costumes, one a "frog" suit and the other lights was included on the list. Warden Smith said Sichofsky was a contortionist and that he performed in these suits at prison shows. The statement was divided into two periods, the first extending from the time Sichofsky was received at the prison in 1924 to the end of 1926 when Governor Young's administration took control. The second period extended from January 14, 1927, to June 14, 1929. No moneys were paid attorneys during the second period.

Payments totaling $317.79 were credited to Z. Sycovsky, a brother in Germany. The total of $1163.70 was listed as prison commissary expenditures.

The statement showed that during the first period Sichofsky spent $22,775.62 and during the second period $881.40. Sichofsky claimed in the charge filed with federal officials that he had been "rashed" from Folsom prison to Ellis Island regardless of his efforts to be held in California temporarily so that he might attempt to regain some of the money he claimed mysteriously disappeared.

WAGGONER HAS BUT $400 IN POSSESSION

Chase National bank in New York, he refused to give information and referred questions to his Denver attorney.

Waggoner said today he rested last night following his arrest, better than he had for weeks. Prior to the transaction he worried because assets of the Telluride bank had decreased from $1,750,000 to less than $500,000. He said a crash was inevitable and that he took the only possible method to protect his depositors. Waggoner said if the money placed to the credit of his bank was properly handled the depositors would be paid in full. He also said if the government would give him ten months time he would return to Telluride and clean his slate.

Waggoner was arrested yesterday at the Camberia Park casino, a tourist park, after he had registered there under the name of H. M. Barnett, of Minturn, Ohio.

DENVER, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Denver Post prints a copyrighted statement today from D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride dictated over the telephone from the jail in Newcastle, Wyo., in which he explained details of his disposition of the $700,000 certified checks, which he obtained from banks in New York on the strength of suspicious telegrams sent from Denver.

Going into details of how he disposed of the $495,000 certified checks from the Chase National bank in New York he said: "I drew one check for $270,000, the Chase National certificate. I took the check to the Central Hanover bank and I paid off four notes. One of them was $100,000 obligation of the Bank of Telluride. Two notes of $50,000 each were obligations of the Norwood Cattle Loan company. There was a $15,000 note of my own.

employed. Prunes will be taken on at the former plant and pumpkins at the latter when they are ready. The Hunt cannery has about 500 people at work on pears and evergreens, and prunes are expected to begin coming the first of the week.

The Northwest cannery is running on evergreens and pears, with about 350 people, and will get onto pears for a large run when they come.

Reid, Murdoch and Co., at the West Salem cannery, are working on pears and evergreens, with about 300 people, and will take on prunes for a capacity run. Cooperative Plans to Work on Prunes Soon

The Producers' cooperative plant is working on evergreens and pears from local growers, and will get busy on prunes as soon as they arrive in canning volume; working now about 850 people.

The Paulus plant has a force of over 250, of which 75 are men, working on pears and evergreens. They expect to run on pears for at least two weeks after the present week, and they look for a run of about three weeks on prunes; as long as any come from the orchards. Robert Paulus says evergreen blackberries will come till frost or heavy rain stops them. Then there will be a run of about three weeks at this plant on carrots.

Evergreen Blackberries Put in Cold Storage

Baker, Kelley and MacLaughlin, exclusive cold pack are working at their North Front street plant a small force of men on evergreen blackberries, going to the trade largely in orders that were not expected in any such volume or number at the beginning of the season.

The list above shows over 2650 workers in the Salem cannery and packing house forces. Counting the clerical help, the extra handlers of fruit being shipped in, the unusual forces that are necessary in the cold storage houses, the extra freight switching outfits for the railroads, and the additional trucking forces that are necessary in this peak load season, and others that are employed directly on account of the canning and packing rush, it is not too much to say that over 3000 people are now employed in this city on account of the activities of her canneries and packing houses.

However, the opposition to this move on the governor's part was not so bitter as it has been on previous occasions when similar action has been taken by the state's chief executive.

One reason for this is the fact that several serious forest fires in Marion county have impressed upon the public generally, the seriousness of the fire menace.

Another and probably more significant factor is the general closing of national forests to all campers and picknickers. Opposition on the part of deer hunters in the past has been largely based on the discrimination which they felt was exercised against them, in barring hunting without barring other activities in the forest.

Members of the county court and Roadmaster Frank Johnson were well satisfied with the progress of work on the mountain road above Elkhor, they reported Wednesday after a trip into that district earlier in the week. The road beyond Elkhor leads into a mining district and is being widened to permit two-way traffic. At the present time in some places the road is suitable for only one way traffic and does not permit passing of cars without tarrnouts.

Salem Woman is First Graduate Under Dunning

A Salem woman, Miss Elma Weller, was the first Oregon music teacher to be graduated under Mrs. Carrie Louise Dunning, internationally known musician and teacher who died in New York Sunday last. Dunning was originator of the system of piano teaching which bears her name, and it was from this system which Miss Weller was graduated. Miss Weller studied under her at Berkeley, Calif., 22 years ago and has been teaching the system since then.

Mrs. Dunning was well known in Portland music circles and will also be remembered by a number of the Salem lovers of the art. Jean Warren Carrick of Portland was the first normal teacher to finish in the Dunning system. After introducing the system, Mrs. Dunning gave her time almost exclusively to normal classes.

Bootlegger's Confession Involves Another Officer in L. A.

Donald, his partner in a Turkish bath house, and two John Does were indicted last week on charges of bribery conspiracy. Warrants were issued against them but have not been served.

Westman is held in jail on a charge of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws, the conspiracy warrant being withheld temporarily.

Frank Dewar, chief of the sheriff's criminal investigation detail was given the new warrants for immediate service. The names of those indicated were withheld pending arrest.

By taking printing out of the competitive field we have the worst form of state socialism," Howard said, "and a form just as vicious as the contract labor system."

Formal opposition to the practice was scheduled to be brought before the convention by the executive council tomorrow in its annual report. Consideration of the five day week and the question of apprentices were other matters to be considered tomorrow.

In consequence of the unemployment problem in the printing trades, opposition stating that "it would be the part of wisdom if the energies of pupils desiring to become printers would be directed to acquire some knowledge in the newer industries, such as aviation, television, radio, electrical engineering, etc."

HUNTERS SADDENED AS SEASON PUT OFF

Considerable disappointment at the postponement of the deer hunting season, announced Wednesday by Governor Patterson, has been expressed by local men who had everything arranged to start for the mountains Saturday night in search of the shy game animals.

However, the opposition to this move on the governor's part was not so bitter as it has been on previous occasions when similar action has been taken by the state's chief executive.

One reason for this is the fact that several serious forest fires in Marion county have impressed upon the public generally, the seriousness of the fire menace.

PRINTERS OPPOSE TEACHING SUBJECT

SEATTLE, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Vigorous opposition to providing printing instruction in public and private schools was voiced here today by Charles F. Howard, president of the International Typographical union, in convention here.

FIRE SITUATION MORE SERIOUS

350 Men Fight Conflagration Upon One Three Mile Front Near Coast

Two fires which started yesterday were reported burning over large areas in the Siskiyou national forest tonight.

In Lane county, burned telephone poles out of communication with the Silver Falls Lumber Co., near which a large fire was burning. A special logging train with a crew of section hands was dispatched to the scene of the blaze in an effort to prevent further destruction of logging railroad trestles and other property.

Fifty additional men were reported to have been sent to the Eastern & Western Lumber company mill near Molalla, where a blaze has spread over 500 acres of timber.

Government forest officials reported only one new fire in Washington today. That is on the Sloucon Ridge on the upper Lewis river in the Columbia national forest. At the southwest corner of the Columbia workers were felling snags and carrying pumps to location, preparatory to starting a backfire in case the Duke fire in the upper Little Washouck district creeps closer to the boundary of the reserve.

The Dollar mountain fire in the Colville national forest was so well under control, officials here said, that several more men were allowed to leave the line.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Washington's forest fire hazard is worse than it has been for 27 years, supervisor of forestry, George C. Joy, said today. Earlier in the day Governor Hartley closed the hunting season in Kittitas county because of the danger of fire and issued another proclamation exhorting citizens to use the greatest possible care in preventing fires.

Western Washington forest, thoroughly dried by a long hot summer, are in an exceedingly precarious condition with the present dangerous fire weather, Joy said. More desirable weather and a favorable wind have left eastern Washington in a much less serious position.
