

Curt's Comments

By CURTIS

Whether or not the Doc had accepted the Salem Golf club's invitation to dine, wasn't reported late Tuesday afternoon, but it is understood that he is willing.

Doc Russell, "trainer of the Rotary golfers," said his team won on strokes but lost on strategy. The cogwheel driver diggers made a lower combined medal score than did the victorious Kewlans (by just one stroke) but were away behind on points.

This man's town has gone golf crazy. There's no other topic of discussion at luncheons, business men's "conferences," in stores, pool halls and on the streets.

And we notice that the higher a man's score, the more words he uses to describe his game.

"I was getting some pretty good drives before I took those lessons," is heard on every side. Yes, ignorance of one's faults is bliss.

It appears to be driving some of them nutty, but as we may have remarked before, there are worse forms of insanity. Business can't be too terrible, when men's chief concern is their golf score.

Eugene papers are making a big fuss over Oregon's "quarter of tacks," George Christensen and Austin Colbert. Sure enough, they're really that big, but our recollection is that Christensen is a "sit down" tackle and Colbert a trifle too reckless to be dependable, and just why all of the burrah chorus we can't imagine. If that pair of tackles is all Cap McEwan has to count on, he's likely to be out of luck.

We pick Teddy Fox.

Another great wartime institution is to be revived. American Legion posts in Linn county are organizing pushball teams to compete at the county fair. That's a man's game, sure enough. We played it at the Presidio 11 years ago this month, but aren't hankering to try a comeback.

The annual postponement of the deer season is at hand. A delegation of blacktails will call on the governor Friday afternoon to express the appreciation of their organization.

The Ducks may be on the skids, as our gasoline pumping friend predicted. But we notice every downtown radio is shouting out the story of the game these afternoons.

"Strike two on Hornsby. Oh, I beg your pardon, it was a ball, and English is batting, not Hornsby. Ah, he hit it! It looks like a home run! No, it's a foul ball. No, the umpire called it fair. It's going into the bleachers in right center. No, it's falling short. Wright is after it—no, it's Haas. He missed it—no, he caught it, and the side is out. Oh, I forgot, that makes only the first out. English was the first man up. Wilson is coming to bat—no, it's Hornsby. Yes, the old Rajah himself. Well, fans of radioland, this is a great October day and the stands are full of rabid fans. It's a colorful crowd. You ought to be here to see it. Ball one on Hornsby. Maybe they're trying to walk him. Though why they should, with two out and nobody on—I mean one out and nobody on—there, that one was right through the center. Cuyler is swinging three bats in front of the dugout—no, it's Wilson, he's up next, and he's got only two bats."

You get the idea. Graham McNamee is going to broadcast the world series again this year.

Fox and Akers to Put on Torrid Bout Here Tonight

LOCAL ARMORY SCENE OF MIX

Southpaw Regarded as Dark Horse in Encounter With Salemite

TONIGHT'S FIGHT CARD
Main event—Ted Fox, Salem, 130, vs. Art Akers, Salem, 138; ten rounds.
Semi final—Ted Rogoway, Portland, 155, vs. Soldier Baker, Vancouver, Wash., 155; six rounds.
Special—Moyd Ambrose, Salem, 118, vs. Jackie Wattenberg, Independence, 118; four rounds.
Special—Danny Moore, Independence, 155, vs. Russell Greene, Salem, 156; four rounds.
Preliminary—Jack Wetzel, Jefferson, 190, vs. Bob Magan, Salem, 190.
Curtain raiser—Principals to be announced from ringside.

Almost anything may happen in tonight's main event at the armory, featuring Ted Fox, local champion, and Art Akers, southpaw who is a comparative newcomer. The possibilities are considerably wider in scope than those that attended Fox's recent scrap with Willie Gordon.

The fans knew practically all there was to know about that fight in advance; but they don't know a thing concerning what Fox may do to Akers, or what Akers may accomplish at Teddy's expense.

Akers Carries Good
Wallop Says Gordon
Gordon, who did some sparring with Akers before his recent fight here, says the portside is cleverer than the fans here realize, and it's his opinion that Akers will cause Fox a lot of worry before the ten rounds are over. Akers has a lot to gain and not so much to lose and it's certain he will put everything he has into it.

Doubled barreled interest was injected into tonight's card Wednesday when Matchmaker Harry Plant announced Soldier Baker of Vancouver Barracks as the opponent of Ted Rogoway in the six round bout. Baker recently knocked out Bobby Vernon in a scheduled six round fight in Portland; Vernon is good enough to have been given several main event calls in that city. The soldiers at Vancouver are strong for Baker, and a number of them are expected to accompany him here tonight. Rogoway is well known as Portland's ranking middleweight.

Wetzel and Hagan To Do Their Stuff
Another fight that is billed as a preliminary but may steal a lot of thunder from the major events, is the heavyweight scrap between Jack Wetzel of Jefferson and Hagan of Salem. Wetzel is the boy who swings like a blacksmith, and floored a couple of big bruisers in fights here last winter. Hagan was listed to meet Bob Kelly on the last card, but Kelly got a look at him and didn't show up.
Danny Moore, active 136 pounder from Independence, will make his second career appearance against Russ Greene, Lloyd Ambrose, who has been letting his twin brother Floyd do most of the family's fighting for the last couple of months, will re-enter the arena against the lad that both of the twins have been hammering at for months; Jackie Wattenberger.
That completes the regular card, but Matchmaker Plant has a couple of middleweights up his sleeve, whom he will shove into the ring for an extra bout to warm up the hall. One lives in Salem and the other in Independence, and each is seeking a reputation, so they ought to mix at a great rate.

FRENCH TURNS OUT FOR BEARCAT TEAM

Curtis French, light but fast and scrappy halfback who will be starting his fourth season, reported for football practice on Sweetland field Wednesday, thus swelling Williamette's visible supply of lettermen to four. French has been on a trip into Washington and was unable to return until Wednesday.

At the same time, two more lettermen who had been counted upon, were definitely eliminated from the list of prospects. Bob RHills, guard who was mentioned for all-Northwest conference honors last season, will not return to school, and John Versteeg, three year letterman at tackle, will not turn out on account of a leg injury which has refused to heal.

A promising freshman candidate appeared in the person of Walter Erickson of Camas, Wash., who showed a world of speed in his first workout. Bert Gillet, a brother of Orlo Gillet who played baseball at Williamette several years ago, reported Wednesday. Another arrival was Roy Benjamin, who played a part of last season on the varsity basketball team, having entered Williamette the second semester.

NET VETERANS WIN MATCHES

Big Bill Tilden Well on Way To Another National Championship

By TED YOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The old guard of American tennis has yet to be stopped in the drive for the national singles championship. When a thrilling series of fourth round matches ended at the west side stadium late today, those seasoned contenders Bill Tilden, Frank Hunter and Richard N. Williams, shared places in the final round of eight with four young Americans and a youthful invader from England.

Big Bill, now well on the way to his seventh national crown, coasted into the quarter-final without the necessity of removing his sweater, defeating Henry Cully of Harvard 6-3, 7-5, 8-6. Many in the gallery of 4,000 deserted the stadium to watch his match on an outside court.

Williams Comes From Behind to Win
Arrayed against Arnold W. Jones of Providence, R. I., Williams, holder of the national championship in 1914 and 1916, came from behind after losing the first two sets and took the match.

In the quarter-final round tomorrow Williams meets another member of the old guard—Hunter, at 2 p. m.; while Tilden tackles Johnny Van Ryn, youthful member of the American Davis cup team, at 4 p. m.; Bunny Austin, the lone remaining English youngster, at 6-3, 6-4, 6-1. The national veterans' singles championship also reached the quarter-finals with H. H. Bassford of Scarsdale, N. Y., defending champion, winning from Dr. Louis Schwartz of New York, 6-4, 6-1.

C. M. Charest, Baltimore, defeated Captain W. S. Anderson, U. S. N., 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, in a third-round match.

J. B. Adoue, Jr., Dallas, Texas, defeated Fred C. Baggis, New York, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Hunter had his troubles today in a thrilling duel with Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., 16-year-old Kansas City youngster who is Tilden's favorite protégé.
Young Coen Shows Well Rounded Game
Driving and serving beautifully and playing a well-rounded all-court game that seemed to justify Tilden's prediction that some day he will win the national championship, Coen won the first set from Hunter and made a great fight for the second. Here the immature youngster weakened, however, and Hunter's superior stamina and match-play experience carried him to victory at 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4.

Like Williams and Hunter, Austin too was forced to come from behind to win from Ed Felleman, former Harvard player, at 2-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Allison, Doeg, and Van Ryn each dropped a set but were in no real danger. Allison trimmed Elmer J. Griffin of New York, 4-6,
