Try This New Recipe by a Famous Woman Cooking Expert

Cut tomatoes in halves—as many as you wish to bake. Arrange on a greased pie plate. Sprinkle each tomato with minced onion, salt and pepper. Dot with butter and sprin-kle with sugar. Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) about 15 minutes, until brown on top.

Notice the "sprinkle with sugar." It has been rediscovered that a dash of sugar is the secret of delicious vegetable cookery. This old secret was lost until four cooking experts rediscovered it recently. Cook vegetables in little water and add a dash of sugar while they are cooking. It does not make the vegetables taste sweet. But it makes them taste better than any vegetable foods you probably have ever tasted. A dash of sugar develops and builds up the delicate enjoyable vegetable flavors. The results will surprise you.

See that the children and adults in your family eat enough milk, vegetables and fruits. These are rated by scientists as the three basic foods. Use a little sugar to make delicious milk desserts, and milk drinks such as milk shake and egg-nog. Sprinkle sugar on corn flakes. Use sugar in stewed fruits, Convince yourself now of the wonders of sugar in cooking vegetables.

Hundreds of thousands of children—many doubtless in prosperous families—are suffering from under-nourishment. Use sugar flavor to promote enjoyable, healthful eating. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.
