LINDBERGH NOW ON HIS JOURNEY NORTH

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Skimming across South American skies on the return half of his 7,000 mile air mail tour, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh brought his trail blazing plane down at Maracaibo, Venezuela, today, three hours and 50 minutes after he had taken off from Port of Spain, Trinidad, 415 miles away.

The colonel lifted his mail and passenger plane from the ground at Port of Spain at 10:35 a. m., and landed at Maracaibo at 2:25 p. m., his companions on the journey again were Mrs. Lindbergh, Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, sponsors of the commercial route which Lindbergh is inaugurating, the latter's wife, and the ship crew.

Taking advantage of the clear weather which he encountered today in contrast to the intermittent squalls of yesterday, the colonel climbed out over the bow of the big amphibian and from the anchor compartment used his camera while the ship was in flight at an altitude of 1,500 feet.

Lindbergh gave his passengers some worry, the radio operator reported, as he calmly continued to make pictures a few feet in front of the bow propeller. Mrs. Lindbergh operated her camera from a seat in the plane.

The colonel responded to a request from President Gomez, of Venezuela, transmitted to him by radio, and circled his plane in greeting as he passed over Caracas, capital city of that nation.

BISHOP REQUESTS DRY ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The hubbub over prohibition conditions in the District of Columbia has prompted Bishop James Cannon, Jr., chairman of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to express the conviction that if additional enforcement legislation is found necessary "the people will expect it to be promptly forthcoming."

This opinion is contained in a report he is sending to the church press concerning the work of the several international religious conferences which he attended recently as an official delegate. The report reads in part:

"The impression which President Hoover made upon these European leaders was the thing which struck me most forcibly in my contacts with them in the great social and religious gatherings. Their conviction that there is a constructive mind of the first order, highly developed by study and experience. With such ability joined to his high conception of duty and patriotic purpose they expect him to make one of our greatest presidents. They think that his impact upon national and international questions in the short space of six months has been tremendous and unparalleled."

Farm Relief Act Will Be Boon to Farmers States Vice-Chairman of Board

By RAYMOND Z. HENLE Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The opinion that the farm relief act, intelligently administered to develop a comprehensive cooperative marketing system, will prove a boon to the farmers was expressed before the senate agriculture committee today by James C. Stone of Kentucky, vice-chairman of the farm board.

It may be too much to expect, he said, that all the farmers of the country will participate in the cooperative movement. He believes that enough of them will come to appreciate its great benefits, however, and be eager to share in the larger profits it seems to him bound to bring.

Stone, who represents tobacco on the board, answered an avalanche of questions designed to elicit information on his ability with a view of reporting to the senate regarding his confirmation.

At the conclusion of his examination several committee members expressed pleasure at the fashion in which he had submitted his testimony.

Like Chairman Legge, the board's vice-chairman said he did not favor governmental participation in stabilization operations. The board's hope was, he added, that great cooperative marketing corporations could be set up to carry on these activities should they be found desirable.

A program to "prosperize" tobacco was said by the witness to be in process of formation, with discussions already started on the possibility of setting up an advisory council for this commodity.

The only flurry during Stone's examination was provided by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, who read from testimony presented by John L. Buckley, once a business partner of Stone, in the Sapiro-Ford libel case dealing with a transaction with the Burley Tobacco Growers association, of which Stone was president until appointed to the farm board.

The testimony as read said Stone went into the Burley association for private gain and speculated that he sold some warehouse property, which he had purchased for $165,000 in 1916, to the association for $225,000 in 1921.

Stone told the committee the association was in need of warehouses and that he had disposed of it as a purely business proposition. He said the property was appraised by officials of the association at $282,000, but that he offered it to the agency for $250,000 and subsequently cut the price down to $225,000.

"There was nothing that was not open and above-board about the deal," Stone said. "It was done with the full knowledge of the board of directors."

The vice-chairman was questioned closely regarding details of the transaction by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, but after the explanation was given the subject was dropped and Senator Wheeler said there seemed to him at this time to be nothing irregular about the deal.

Senator Brookhart reserved comment on Stone's testimony but intimated he might pursue the subject when the vice-chairman's appointment comes up on the senate floor for confirmation.

Tomorrow's session of the committee will be devoted to an examination of Carl Williams of Oklahoma, who represents cotton on the board.
