

HOOVER LOSES TILT IN SENATE

Vote is 47 to 42; House of Representatives Will Tackle Problem

(Continued from Page 1.) The tariff commission, after investigating differences in cost of production of foreign and domestic articles shall report to the president and the congress simultaneously, and that congress shall say whether the rates suggested in the commission's reports are to be made effective.

At present, the president proclaims the rates or refuses to act on the commission's findings. Simmons Proposes Amendment of Own Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, proposed the plan as a substitute for an amendment by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, chairman of the committee.

The North Carolina senator had accepted an amendment to his plan suggested by Senator Norris and aimed to meet the objections raised by the president that congress could not legislate on single tariff items without opening up the entire tariff law to change. It would restrict congress to action on the item or items contained in tariff commission reports. The roll call showed 38 republicans and four democrats against the Simmons substitute. The democrats are Senators Bronson, of Kansas; Fitch, of Florida; and Trammell, of Florida. Had he been expected to vote against the minority plan, but was found with the coalition on the final lineup.

Keen Interest is Shown in Ballot Public interest was manifest just before the final vote. All but five of the senate's ninety-five senators were in their seats. One senate seat from Pennsylvania is vacant. Although only 89 voted, another senator was in his seat but was paired. The unusual sight of dozens of senators keeping tabs on the vote with their own rosters indicated the importance attached to the result.

Analyzing the vote, tariff observers found much material for speculation. Some said the opposition now could write any kind of tariff bill it pleased. Others thought this could not happen since many senators have pointed out that they reserved the right to vote for or against individual rates regardless of party affiliation. In some quarters it has been rumored that the president Hoover would veto a bill minus the flexible provisions. The dispute over the clause is not over, however, for the bill must go back to the house for adjustment of differences.

Remors Found Mostly Without Foundation Although the house Republicans are assumed to be prepared to insist on retention of the flexible principle favored by the president, few were in Washington tonight to give any authoritative views.

The Democrats, however, were confident the Simmons proposal would prevail in the end. Representative Garner of Texas, the minority house leader, said the Simmons plan, except for a few minor details, was similar to the recommitment motion he made prior to passage of the bill by the house, and would command united support of house Democrats.

He also predicted it would gain some Republican votes. If the president hopes to win in this contest with congress, indications are that he will have to depend on the house to insist on retention of the flexible provisions, just as he did in the export debenture dispute. The house finally decided that issue in the president's favor.

The senate, by a margin of three votes, had twice overridden the president by placing the debenture in the farm bill.

Y. M. C. A. STARTS WINTER PROGRAM

Nearly 60 persons attended the dinner and program held at the Y. M. C. A. last night to mark the opening of the fall and winter schedule of swimming and gymnasium classes for women. Most of those in attendance were enrolled in the classes.

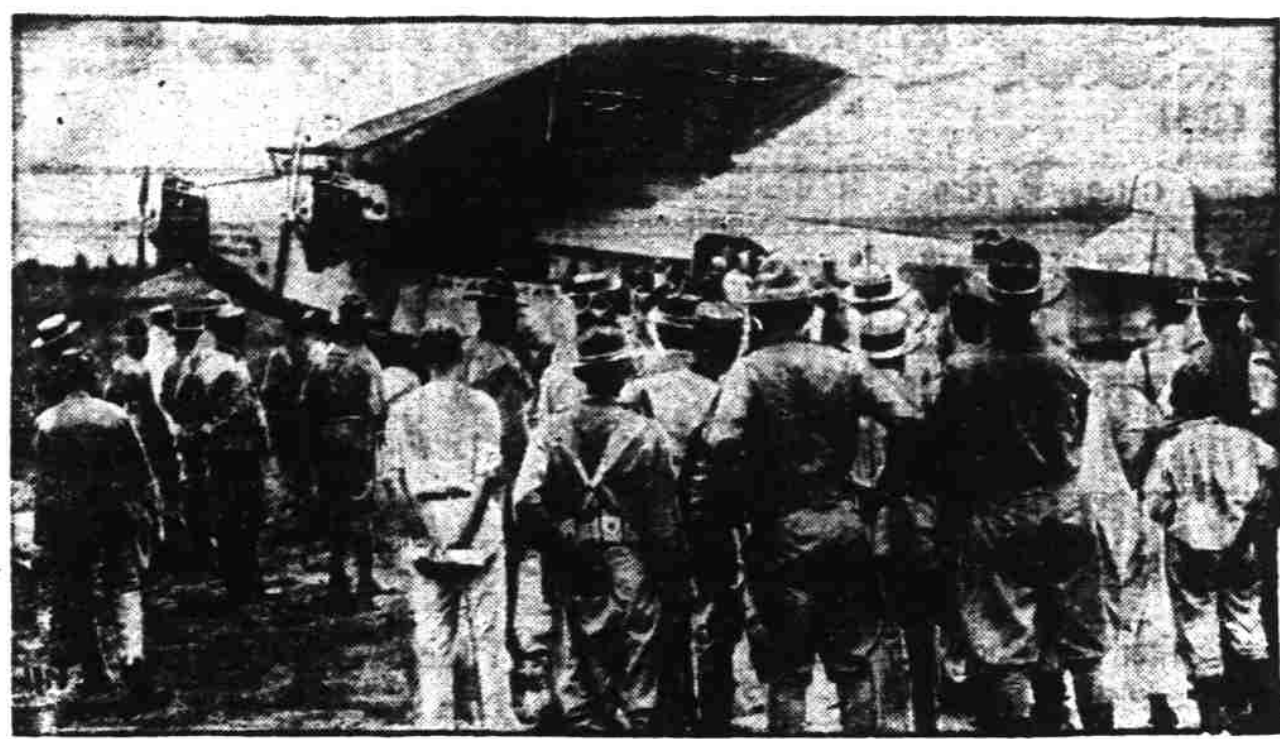

Mrs. P. W. Byrd, chairman of the physical committee of the Y. M. C. A., presided over the banquet, feature talk for which was made by George W. Hug, city school superintendent. Hug, in a talk on health education, stressing the assertion that the individual should be careful not to overdo the health fads which sweep the country from time to time.

The mental health of the country is in an alarming condition, with the mentally ill presenting one of the greatest problems of society, Hug said. Far more is spent on caring for the mentally sick than on education of the mentally sound, he asserted. He also pointed to the excellent health work that is being done in Marion county.

Devotions were led by Miss Nina McNary and Mrs. C. P. Bishop made brief remarks upon the early work of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. in Salem. Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, president of the Y. W. C. A. board; Mrs. E. C. Van Slyke, hostess at the Y. M. C. A., and Mrs. Elizabeth E. Galt, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., were introduced.

New schedule for the women's classes at the Y. M. C. A. was announced by "Bob" Boardman to include: Women—beginners' class Wednesday and Thursday mornings from 8 to 9:30 o'clock; gym class Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9:40 to 10:20 o'clock; girls' classes will be held Wednesday afternoon, with beginning swimmers coming from 3:45 to 4:15; grammar school girls from 4:20 to 5 o'clock; junior high and high school from 5:05 to 5:40 o'clock; and life saving from 5:40 to 6:10 o'clock. Wednesday evening at 7:20 gym classes will be held for business girls and women and a beginners' class for this group is scheduled for 7:15 that evening. A nominal fee attaches to each class, with a maximum of $8 per year for the women's group.

MA KENNEDY PUTS BY STRONG DEFENSE

(Continued from Page 1.) "To drop all matters from a legal standpoint, such as any possible claim or charge or slander, blackmail, extortion or any other claim in regard to the whole unpleasant misunderstanding." Robinson referred to the second document, which Mrs. Kennedy did not sign, as a "blackmail release" for which he was rebuked by Judge J. T. Ronald, but he persisted, declaring "I don't see why we can't call a spade a spade—and this, on its face, is a blackmail release."

Clark replied when questioned about the statement, "It was only one of several solutions possible—if she'd adopted a Christian attitude, I wouldn't have been afraid of blackmail charges even if she didn't sign." Robinson introduced other letters written by Clark to Mrs. Kennedy and her companion, Miss Kay Burdick, shortly before he introduced the "heart balm" suit. One of them, which Clark admitted writing on February 15, said in part "if you are willing (or your daughter either) to loan me a few hundred dollars at this stage of the unhappy affair, I will fade out of the picture."

Madame X Affects Big Show Crowd

Tears slowly forced themselves from many pairs of eyes from love wrung from many hearts for the mother who offered her life that her son might not know to what she had come, that he might still be proud of her and that he might still reverse his father. The whole audience paid silent tribute to the mother portrayed by Ruth Chatterton in Madame X, now showing at the Elsinore.

It was a happy sience that overpowered the audience. A feeling that could not be reasoned with nor explained but only felt with the heart. The business man rubbed close to his eyes with a handkerchief after the closing scene and the girl who would have been a flapper a year ago, carefully wiped away tears. The mother and father of the row ahead looked at each other and seemed to say, "She was a great woman." Lionel Barrymore has created a tribute to all motherhood in his direction of Madame X, the story of a mother who is turned from her home, who is dragged to the depths of mental and spiritual torture, but who is still woman enough to offer her life that her son may still be proud of his family.

Council Will be Asked for Street

Action on the part of the city council to open up 15th street so as to permit a more direct outlet for residents of the recently platted Devers addition, will be sought by J. M. Devers, who is in charge of this development. Mr. Devers and C. F. Breithaupt agree to deed necessary property to the city to create a 60 foot street, but there is an intervening tract belonging to J. H. Carterman. A petition for dedication of this street will be before the city planning and zoning commission at its next meeting.

Rock Point Gets New School Clerk

G. A. Shauborger was Wednesday appointed clerk of the Rock Point school district by County Superintendent Mary L. Fulkerson. Charles Dorst and Ed Doertler, members of the board, appeared before Mrs. Fulkerson yesterday to ask that a clerk be chosen. No clerk was elected at the annual meeting. J. S. Berry held that position last year.

It was to these unfortunate buddies that the Legionnaires devoted most of their time, and they were assured by Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' bureau, that "the problem of the disabled is very near to the heart of President Hoover, and one to which he will give the greatest consideration." General Hines said it was the endeavor of the bureau to simplify the system of relief, and to give the benefit of the doubt to the veteran.

Preparedness For Future Wars is Recommended Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, holder of the congressional medal of honor, and described by General Pershing as "the greatest hero of the American expeditionary forces," saluted his comrades along the platform and talked to them about the need of preparedness against future wars. His uniform already brilliant with emblems of bravery, Sergeant Woodfill stood at attention while Colonel S. Zsahorski, representing Marshal Joseph Pilsudski of Poland, pinned upon his blouse two medals commemorating Polish independence.

Colonel Zsahorski brought greetings to the Legion, as did Commander L. Sable of the French navy, representing the French ambassador.

DEMPESEY PUTS ON REAL BOXING CARD

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, greatest drawing card in the history of boxing, failed to completely pack 'em in, in his first promotional venture in historic coliseum tonight, but the Manassa mauler, who always gave the best he had when in the ring, presented a card of bouts that left the crowd standing on its head.

In the principal event Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, world's welterweight champion, won the verdict over Vince Dundee of Baltimore, brother of the fighter from whom Fields won the title only a few weeks ago in a ten-round bout that was a sizzler from start to finish.

Fields started out as if he would defeat Vince easily as he did his brother Joe, but before the ten rounds were over, Fields was forced to extend himself to the limit to retain the advantage he had gained in the early part of the contest. Knocked to the floor for the count of nine in the sixth round, Dundee picked himself out of the resin, and opened up with a rally that continued until the finish of the eighth. Dundee made his best showing in the seventh, eighth and tenth rounds. He stood toe to toe with the champ and traded punch for punch, while the crowd was in a frenzy of excitement. Fields left the ring with the official verdict, but Dundee won the cheers of the crowd.

STRONG SHOWING URGED FOR PARK

Older sections of the United States do not fully appreciate the historic events surrounding the acquisition of the Oregon country, the only territory acquired by this nation without cost in either money or war and that is the reason Oregon must make a strong showing in order to obtain proper recognition for Champoo park, Milton A. Miller of Portland, told the members of the Salem Rotary club in an address Wednesday noon.

This acquisition of 300,000 square miles of valuable territory, is more deserving of recognition through the building of a memorial, than many other achievements which have been accorded more costly memorials, Mr. Miller said.

The speaker made direct mention of a recent editorial in The Statesman, saying that a museum and an auditorium, suggested in that editorial, were the things proposed to be included in the memorial building. The bill for a federal appropriation of $125,000, to be matched by the state, will be reintroduced in the coming term by Senator McNary and Congressman Hawley, Mr. Miller said. His remarks were supplemented in a talk by Harry G. Starkweather, who praised the "audacity" of the American citizens in Oregon, of whom there were not more than 300 in 1843, in presuming to set up a government over 300,000 square miles of territory, when there was a greater number of British subjects in the territory at the time.

JURORS PICKED FOR PANTAGES

Six Men and Six Women are Agreed Upon by Defense and Prosecution

Miss Pringle, the complainant and state's chief witness, will tell her story on the stand after the return of the court and jury to the court room. All day she and her mother were held in the hall of justice in readiness to appear in the case. Nicholas Duneav, another state's witness, also was present on call. Duneav was the father of the dance skit purchased by Miss Pringle, and in which she had sought a booking when she went to Pantages' office the day of the alleged attack.

After the jury was sworn, two alternates, a man and a woman were selected and court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

When court opened this morning seven women and four men were in the jury box. Shortly shifts brought the balance in favor of the women by an eight to four ratio. Questioning of the jurors throughout the day indicated the defense desired to obtain jurors who did not have sons or daughters of the approximate age of Miss Pringle. The state, to the contrary, found such jurors satisfactory.

Pantages' trio of lawyers delayed the opening of the morning session by a half hour's conference with Judge Charles Fricke, attended by Fitts and one of his prosecution aides, Robert P. Stewart, no court action resulted from the conference and Fitts dismissed the matter with an explanation that it was merely over "technical procedure." Defense attorneys W. I. Gilbert and Joseph Ford insisted that permission had been sought for the calling of certain defense witnesses. These were understood to have been ones whom they had intended calling to attack Miss Pringle's character. These witnesses were barred yesterday as the result of the state obtaining the dismissal of a second count against Pantages, in which forcible attack had been charged by the state. Both Pantages sons, Rodney and Lloyd, accompanied the gray haired and light built man to court. Alongside the sons sat Dr. Lewis Pringle, father of the accusing girl during the afternoon session.

COUNTY FACING SERIOUS CRISIS

(Continued from Page 1.) for increased budgets, the county superintendent's belief that the limitation will be stretched has ample grounds to grow.

Drastic Cuts Preferred To Special Election There is little doubt, from tenor of Judge Siegmund's statements yesterday, that faced with calling a special election or paring moneys asked by other departments, the latter procedure will be taken. The judge expressed himself as decidedly against a special election, which itself costs money. Siegmund recalled that when the county exceeded a six per cent limitation about seven years ago without recourse to a special election, it was later necessary to issue rebates of between $7,000 and $8,000, the amount over the limit. Reduction of tuition, salary of county employees, is out of the question, the judge believes, and likewise thinks it will be impossible to cut on the road appropriations—in fact, he found offhand no place where a slice will be appreciated. Mr. Boyer, county clerk, pointed ed out that the present difficulty which faces Marion county is a strong argument for a change in state laws to prevent the legislature from putting into effect any enactment until after the succeeding budget has been made up by the county. Such a stipulation would give the county a chance to look ahead in shaping new demands on the taxpayers and would avoid such jackpots as Marion county now faces.
