NO SHORT CUT TO HELP SEEN

Cooperative Marketing Development Held Best Farm Relief

By RAYMOND Z. HENLE Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Through two hours of fiery questioning and banging of fists upon the table, Carl Williams of Oklahoma, representing cotton on the federal farm board, insisted before the senate agriculture committee today that there is no short cut to farm relief and that the surest way lies in cooperative marketing development.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, led the questioning by southern democratic senators. He assailed the board's failure to take any action calculated to boost the price of cotton this summer. Williams insisted, however, that permanent adequate return would be realized only by a coordinated cooperative marketing program. It would be of little permanent value, the Oklahoman contended for the board to issue statements threatening to buy up the cotton crop unless it actually planned to do so.

COSHOW WILL TELL OF SUPREME COURT

GRAND JURY WILL MEET HERE TODAY

With the state supreme court preparing to convene next Tuesday, the Zonta club was particularly interested in the address on "Modus Operandi of the Supreme Court" given at the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday noon by Judge O. P. Coshaw.

Pointing out that the work of the supreme court of the state touches the affairs of every individual in some way and at some time, the justice outlined in general the procedure in the court, in which, with exceptions of habeas corpus, quo warranto and mandamus, only cases on appeal from the supreme court are heard.

When a supreme court case actually comes before the justices, the presentation or trial is really a debating battle between the opposing attorneys, Judge Coshaw told the Zontians, to determine who is right in the matter of law. He outlined in brief steps of both appellant and respondent following filing of notice of appeal and preliminary to actual docketing of the case. Each case, when it comes in order on the docket, may be argued a half hour by the opposing sides, when the justices go in conference, a preliminary vote is taken and the case assigned for further consideration to one of the justices, usually in routine, who writes it down and makes final decision. The court will hear 12 cases a

MAXINE MAXWELL BACK FROM EUGENE

GRAND JURY WILL MEET HERE TODAY

Whether Miss Maxine Maxwell, neeess, will accept the proposal of University of Oregon officials that she live in an apartment near the campus instead of in Susan Campbell hall, has not yet been decided, according to announcement made by Charles Maxwell, father of the girl. It was alleged that a room in Susan Campbell hall was refused Miss Maxwell because of her color. Miss Maxwell arrived in Salem Wednesday from Eugene to confer with her parents regarding the action of university officials.

"We are not trying to raise any race question," said Maxwell today. "We are simply trying to protect the health and welfare of our daughter. The apartment they want her to live in is located 10 blocks from the campus and is without proper heat."

Mrs. Maxwell Tuesday conferred with Governor Patterson in connection with the treatment accorded her daughter at the university. Governor Patterson informed Mrs. Maxwell that he has no jurisdiction over the university, and advised her to file her complaint with the state board of higher education.

Reports from Eugene indicated that the university officials had refused to comment on the proposed investigation by the board of higher education.

WOMAN SOLICITOR IS DECLARED FAKE

Postmaster J. H. Farrar has received warning from the postoffice inspector at Houston, Tex., that a fake solicitor using the names of Ruth Jones and Mrs. George C. Jones has obtained thousands of dollars from people in Texas, Louisiana and Missouri towns through a hosiery selling scheme, and that a United States marshal in Houston has a warrant for her arrest. The local postoffice is asked to be on the lookout for her.

The woman is described as about 38 years old, five feet three or four inches in height, 135 pounds in weight; with long, wavy hair, brown eyes with a dark spot in one of them, long nose, small mouth, dark freckles, slightly stooped, small and well manicured hands. She usually dresses well and has a preference for dark clothing; she smokes "Lucky Strikes", wears a Masonic
