Before Waggoner was sentenced to 15 years in Atlanta penitentiary yesterday for mail fraud, his lawyer had said he obtained $500,-000 from six New York banks by false credits only to pay obligations to needy creditors. Government counsel today, however, disclosed data indicating that he caused a girl clerk in his bank at Telluride, Colo., unwittingly to become a forger, had carried bogus receivable accounts on his books, and had mulcted $40,000 from a $150,000 estate.
