

Salem Building More Active Now Than Sixty Days Ago

BIG JOBS ARE BEING PUSHED

Work on Numerous Projects Nears Completion as Fall Arrives

Building in Salem is progressing satisfactorily. The big jobs are moving right along. On the fourth floor of the state house the floor has been laid and forms are going up for the walls to support the fifth floor. Work is moving on schedule according to Foreman Nelson. The walls on the first floor have been coated with asphaltum on the exterior as a seal against water. The plaster coat will go on over this.

At the telephone building work is going on in the interior. A technical building like this calls for careful installation of all services which holds up the completion of the work. The interior wood work on this building amounts to very little.

"Building in a more flourishing condition in and around Salem than sixty days ago" was the statement of William Liljequist of Hansen & Liljequist, planning mill operators. "A lot of improvement and building work has been going on in the country. The good crops and the good prices and the favorable fall have encouraged more building than for several years. In town too the building of small houses is going ahead rapidly."

A number of residences have been started in Salem this fall and are being rushed to completion before the winter sets in. The grand total for the building program of Salem this year is probably the largest in its history. The state buildings go a long way toward enlarging the total.

Roberts Men Shoot Passing Deer and Bear From Stump

ROBERTS, Oct. 12.—Sitting on a stump and shooting deer and bear as they came by was the experience of S. C. Davenport, who went on a hunting trip up the Mackenzie the first of the week with George Higgins, Will Pettyjohn and Raymond Higgins. Mr. Davenport, after hunting for a while decided to sit down on a stump to rest. Soon a deer came by and no time was lost in bringing him down.

A short distance farther, Mr. Davenport sat down on another stump and to his surprise a black bear came along. This might sound like the proverbial fish story but Mr. Davenport came home with both the deer and the bear.

Mr. Higgins and son Raymond each were fortunate in shooting a deer, so the party came home in fine spirits.

Several social affairs have been given recently in their honor, including a dinner party followed by bridge at the home of Mayor and Mrs. H. W. Morlan.

The Lorences will be away about 2 months.

Prune harvest is delayed in this section by lack of pickers, since the opening of local schools, and because of cloudy weather and rain it is feared that considerable of the crop can not be saved. CONNIE'S TEAM GETS TEN RUNS

Greatest Onslaught in History of World Series Brings 10-8 Win

Has on an easy fly ball to center that Hack Wilson lost in the sun was the semi climax, running the total of runs up to seven. A rousing double to left by Jimmy Dykes on a drive through Riggs Stephenson got his hands on but could not handle was the grand climax, scoring Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox with the ninth and tenth runs that furnished the deciding margin.

This astonishing counter barrage, this avalanche of destructive hitting by the champions of the American league sent the home crowd of 30,000 into a hysterical frenzy and eclipsed a run scoring record that has stood for eight years. The former record of eight hits and eight runs for a single inning of world's series play, was made by the New York Giants on Oct. 7, 1921 when the seventh inning also was the happy moment and the final score being 13 to 8.

Nothing however, in series history, to ra pure, unadulterated exhibition of slugger, has ever matched the drama of today's "lucky seventh" for the home team.

To make it a perfect ending for the home forces, Robert Moses (lefty) Grove, for the second game in the series, came to the rescue with his blazing southpaw speed to hold the Cubs completely at bay in the eighth and ninth innings. Grove not only held safe the A's winning margin but he fanned four Bruins in a row.

This made a total of 10 Cub strike out victims for the fourth game, a grand total of 44 for the series and equalled the record which the Giants made in the series of 1911 against such famous old pitching stars of the A's as Chief Bender, Eddie Plink and Jack Coombs. The Cubs can claim greater distinction however, if any is attached to this performance, for they have reached the total in four games, whereas it took the Giants six. There seems no way to prevent the Cubs from breaking the record as a matter of fact. The fifth game is scheduled here Monday. The A's can clinch the championship and make it a world's record of four titles for Connie Mack with just one more victory.

Cubs Now Facing Great Disadvantage
The Cubs, to win now, must take three straight to win the series. They need not give up hope entirely, even if their chances now are exceeding slim. The Pirates turned the trick in 1925 after losing three of the first four games to Washington. The Boston Red Sox of 1903 closed with four straight victories to win after also losing three of the first four to Pittsburgh.

The Cubs, as a matter of fact, thought they had today's game won and they had every reason to think so as they dashed gaily into the last half of the seventh with an 8-0 lead and Charley Root pitched just as beautifully as he did for seven innings against the A's in the first game of the series.

There was some enthusiasm for this clout, which rattled off the upper roof of the left field stands, but the big outburst didn't get going until Fox, Miller, Dykes and Boley had singled in rapid succession, scoring two more runs and arousing the hope that the A's after all might do the unprecedented.

Pinch Hitter Clouts Harmless Pop Fly
Old George Burns came to bat in the pinch for Eddie Rommel, the third of the A's pitchers for the day, but there was a lull as he popped out to McMillan. Max Bishop followed with a single that drove in Dykes with the fourth run and drove the disconsolate Root from the box, having yielded six hits out of the seven men to face him.

The Cubs now were fast becoming panicky and the crowd wildly hysterical. Little Art Nehf, veteran southpaw and old Giant Star of the world's series of 1921-24, came out of the bullpen to face George Hanz. This was the crucial point of the rally. If its momentum was not stopped quickly, it would be too late. Nehf twirled carefully and when Haas lifted a fly to center, there seemed nothing to cheer about.

The squat, roly-poly Wilson came raring in. It looked like an easy out but Hack, though he was wearing sun glasses, suddenly lost the ball, half stumbled and it caromed past him, rolling to deep center as Boley, Bishop and Haas galloped around with the fifth, sixth and seventh runs.

Wilson Blamed for Athletics' Victory
This, as it later turned out was the big break, making a goat out of Wilson, whose hitting thus far had been one of the main factors in the Cub comeback.

It upset Nehf so much that he passed Mickey Cochrane, the next man, and was replaced by Sheriff Fred Blake, right hander, who lasted just long enough to pitch to two men. The two happened to be the clouting twins, Simmons and Fox, up for the second time in the inning. Each singled, Simmons lashing into one that bounded sharply over McMillan's head and Fox banging a drive into center that scored Cochrane with the tying run.

Big Pat Malone, the fourth pitcher of the inning, was hustled to the rescue but the Cub craft was fast going down by the bow. Pat was wild and hit Bing Miller, the first man to face him, thereby filling the bases with Mackben. The crowd was wilder but this time as hoarse as the experts in the press box were groggy from trying to keep track of the proceedings.

Riggs Stephenson Lets Ball Slip Through Fingers
Chunky Jimmy Dykes was up, swinging savagely. He caught a fast ball and patted it on a line toward deep left field. Riggs Stephenson dashed madly for it, barely got his fingers on the ball, but was unable to hold it. Simmons and Fox pranced across with the ninth and tenth runs on this two base wallop. The A's were out in front and the ball game was "in."

Twelve out of thirteen successive batters had gotten to base and ten of them had scored. Either the A's were becoming somewhat tazed themselves or else Malone regained his control for he finally struck out Joe Boley and George Burns, pinch hitting for the second time in the inning, to close the inning.
