Girls' League Cabinet Meets—The girls' league of the senior high school will hold a general assembly every second Monday and the other two Mondays of the month—the league cabinet will meet, it was decided at a cabinet meeting held Monday. Program for the first semester was partially outlined and the girls also decided to gather together all old middies, have them cleaned and offer them to girls, if any, who are unable to purchase same. At a later date, a "lost and found auction" may be held to rid the building of umbrellas, shoes, pens and other articles left by students in past years. The cabinet also plans to invite Mrs. Wright, Eastern, dean of women at the University of Oregon, to speak before the league this semester.

JUDGING TEAM OF COUNTY RATES HIGH

Marion county may stand a pretty good chance of making a mark in the Pacific International livestock exposition in Portland October 28 to November 1 if the showing made by three of the members in a tour Saturday and Sunday is any indication. Fred Rorden with 730 points, Kenneth Dahl with 740 and Earl Gibson with 728, made 2245 points out of a possible 2700, reports William V. Fox, county club leader. Palmer Torvold will be the other member of the four-man team which Marion county will enter in the livestock boys' and girls' judging contest. All four boys are from Silverton.

The judging tour Saturday and Sunday was made in company with boys' and girls' judging teams from Linn, Lane, Tillamook, Polk, Clatsop and Clackamas counties and was organized by Richard Kuehner, assistant state club leader from Corvallis.

Itinerary of the amateur judges Saturday included: state fairgrounds where the work was with the herd of short horns from the Blackhawk farm in California; Hogg Brothers farm in Polk county, where Poland China pigs and Hampshire sheep were judged. Sunday trips were made to the Frank Darbin farm, where three classes of Holsteins were judged; and to the Cass Nichols farm, where Poland China hogs and Chester White pigs were judged; and the James Linn farm, where three classes of Jerseys were viewed.

Cow Found With Gold In Mouth

SPOKANE, Oct. 14.—(AP)—This is the story of a cow with gold plated teeth.

Scores of prospectors sought her "dentist" today at Coiville, 80 miles from here, hoping to find more gold in the pasture where hoarse obtained here. She died without disclosing where the valuable bridge work came from, for the butchers who slaughtered her for beef and hide had completed their work before her glittering teeth were noticed.

Then the chagrined butchers found that the hoarse, roaming the hills and meadows, had nibbled grasses close to the earth and picked up particles of gold from some unknown deposit. They brought the cow in with a herd and did not know which pasture she frequented most.

A horse of prospectors are searching for a "field of gold."

Two Additions To West Salem Are Considered

WEST SALEM, Oct. 14.—(Special)—A committee of three men, Mr. Goffrier, Fred Gibson, and George Steward, was appointed Monday evening at the council, for the purpose of thoroughly looking over the property and dwellings of Kingwood, Helmsing and Fair Oaks to consider annexing these places to West Salem.

Oregon is one of the few states where the composite condition of crops on September 1 was equal to the 10-year average, all other Pacific coast and Pacific north-west states being below average. The Oregon extension service, Crop production in the United States is expected to be 9 per cent less than last year, and 6 per cent below average.

Linen Maker Warns Against Too Rapid Expansion Of Industry

Henry Crawford, president of the Miles Linen Company, spoke before the Chamber of Commerce Monday, urging the body to go slow in promoting the expansion of the linen industry in the valley. He drew from his own experience, showing the dangers that attend poor financing and unjustified promotion. The West Salem cannery, the Salem Fruit Growers Union, the King Food Products company, were referred to as graves for many fortunes and losses for many in the Salem community.

"I can name on my fingers the men in the valley who are competing to handle retting and scutching of flax. Too rapid expansion of the flax industry might wind up in disaster like that which happened to these other concerns. The Miles Linen mills cannot obtain sufficient high quality flax locally to maintain their output. They must import to maintain production."

"The chamber of commerce has sponsored the two linen mills operating here, and we should all get behind them to make them successful. Undoubtedly we should have independent plants in the valley in addition to the state plant; but to get government money and go into growing and co-operative marketing on a vast scale might be a calamity."

C. P. Bishop arose and speaking from his intimate acquaintance with western manufacturing over a long period, approved Mr. Crawford's remarks. The trouble, he declared, was lack of market for western made goods. It is easy enough to step up production. The problem is marketing.

Reports were received on the new member drive. Fred Thielson, vice president, presided at the meeting.

HENDRICKS READY TO TAKE CENSUS

His certificate of appointment as supervisor of the census for the second supervisor's district of Oregon was yesterday received by R. J. Hendricks, whose office will be established in the Salem postoffice building.

The appointment is subject to taking the oath of office, which was mailed yesterday, and soon thereafter instructions about office and storage quarters, enumeration districts, enumerators' applications, etc., will follow from Washington, and the preparations for the work of taking the 15th decennial census of the United States will be put under way.

In the meantime, however, there will be no work started, and will correspond to be applied with applicants for work in any department of the undertaking till authority shall have been received for the appointment of office help and official stationery shall have been received. However, these matters will not doubt have attention soon—perhaps in time to open the office and begin work by the first of November, or soon thereafter.

WRIT OF REVIEW IS ISSUED BY JUDGE

Judge McMahan issued a writ of review on petition of R. E. Brown who alleges that in a recent case in the court of H. Overton, Woodburn justice of the peace, he thought and was informed that he was charged with drunkenness and plead guilty on such a charge; but later learned that the charge was that of driving a motor vehicle on a highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. A review of the case in the effort to have the conviction on such a charge set aside.

In the case of S. C. Potter vs. Salem Navigation Co., defendants filed answer asserting that the plaintiff, who seeks damages because of injuries, is responsible for his own injury through his own negligence.

Defendant filed demurrer in the case of Meade Durant vs. Ray F. Durant.

Action has been filed by F. C.
