"How to Make Wet Cellars Dry." is the title of a new bulletin just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture.

So Larry Woodall is going to manage the Ducks. We can't think of any more likely choice, as long as Bill Rodgers had to go.

The Chicago Cubs went home with tears in their eyes, and a great cloud of gloom hanging over them.

Hack Wilson, the heaviest hitter of the series, was the gloomiest of the lot, just because he lost sight of a couple of fly balls against the sun.

Over in Calcutta there's a truck gardener who wants to have a life size statue of himself erected in the market place, representing him holding aloft a prize cabbage in one hand and a giant carrot in the other.

Salem and Eugene high students are at it again, much to the profit of the manufacturers of paint and paint removers.

In our opinion the entire fault lies with the Eugene boys, who after dashing up the five-high building, failed to keep a guard posted around their own building.

Seriously speaking, it's bad business. As we remarked once before, it was hostilities of this kind that ruined high school sports on Puget Sound.

Knute Rockne's idea of football with a beanbag is being constructed by several local schools; only the question isn't "Who's got the beanbag?"

We neglected to mention, in discussing Howard Jones' football system, that the same system is being used by Coach Calland at University of Idaho.

Oregon's style is rather inclined toward the Pop Warner system of deception, though it didn't show to much advantage against Pop's team.

Bob Shawkey Appointed Manager of N. Y. Yankees

HUGGINS' PLAN IS CARRIED OUT

Jacob Rupert Abides by Previous Wish of Club's Guiding Light

By WILLIAM J. CHAPMAN Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The plans of Miller Huggins for the Yankees were so far-seeing that the midget manager actually provided, as long as five years ago, a course of action to be followed in the event of his own death.

The veteran pitcher and recent coach of pitchers for the Yanks was second choice of the mighty team to succeed to the managerial mantle.

Baseball Dopsters Completely Surprised The appointment of Shawkey was a surprise to baseball circles as the names of Fletcher, Robert J. Conroy, president of the St. Paul club, and Eddie Collins, the Athletic infielder and coach, had monopolized the speculation regarding the next leader of the club.

Shawkey signed a contract for one year before departing some days since for a hunting camp in Quebec, where he now is with a party of friends.

Pitching Career Begun At Harrisburg in 1911 Shawkey, one of the game's best right-handers in his day, began his career at Harrisburg in the Tri-State league in 1911.

The six round semi-final bout in next Wednesday night's card at the armory, promises to rival the main event as a drawing card.

After all that shrill, high-pitched voice of Dempsey's sounds better in a business office than in the prize ring.

HIGH SCHOOLS TO BE RANKED

Three Divisions Proposed for Various Teams in Marion County

Adoption of a definite system of classifying high schools in three divisions with respect to athletic competition, so that they will be able to organize schedules and decide championships among schools in their own class, will probably be adopted in Marion county this year so that the plan may be carried out in the coming basketball season, it was indicated Thursday.

Fred D. Wolf, principal of the Salem high school, is chairman of the county high school athletic committee, and he stated Thursday that from what he has been able to learn, the plan meets with general favor here.

The plan is the "A-B-C" plan which has been suggested for adoption by the state high school athletic association and will come up for consideration at the annual meeting in Portland next January.

OVERTURES ARE MADE BY ARMY

West Point Head Still Holds Out for Broader Eligibility Rule

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Definite overtures for resumption of the annual football rivalry between the Army and Navy were made today by Superintendent William R. Smith of the United States Military Academy at West Point and for the first time since the service schools broke off athletic relations nearly two years ago an early reconciliation appeared likely.

In a 200-word telegram to Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, General Smith made the outline suggestion "that football games be resumed" and extended an invitation "to meet me, preferably in Washington, where the situation can be discussed in detail and something accomplished toward renewing athletic relations between the two academies."

Concerning the matter of eligibility standards on which the Army and Navy split, General Smith proposed "that any member of either body, who is declared eligible by his academy authorities, will be eligible to play in this game."
