DESERTION ALLEGED BY HUSBAND IN SUIT

W. M. McDonald has brought suit for divorce from Edna M. McDonald on grounds of desertion. They were married at Seattle March 3, 1925.

In the divorce suit of Agnes E. Pearson vs. Shurl R. Pearson plaintiff has filed motion asking $35 for suit money and from $100 to $150 attorney's fees.

The defendant has filed an answer and cross complaint in the case of Ira Leitch vs. Hazel Leitch in which she alleges that she performed her portion of the marriage contract as a dutiful wife, but that the plaintiff subjected her to many indignities and cruelties for which she asks for a divorce, also $100 attorney fees and $50 suit money.

Order of default and decree quieting title to real estate in the plaintiff was entered in the case of Augusta Hofer vs. Fred Kirchner, et al.

A motion seeking the trial of the cause of H. L. Price for W. H. Paulus, et al., during the October term was filed by attorney for defendants.

INDEPENDENCE FOLK SEEK RIVER GRAVEL

A delegation of Independence citizens appeared before the state land board Monday and requested permission to take sand and gravel from the Willamette river abutting the city, and sell the same to the Southern Pacific company.

It was alleged that the town was threatened by the changing channel in the river, and that it was necessary to remove the sand and gravel as a safety precaution. The request was referred to the attorney general for legal opinion. Members of the delegation said the Southern Pacific does not pay anything for gravel taken from the river for use on its roadbed, and that the state would not lose any royalty in case the request was granted.

Turner Justice Of Peace Quits

Donald S. Riches has resigned as justice of the peace for Turner precinct. He gave as his reason a change of occupation which would prevent his serving. The county court on Monday filed an order declaring the office vacant on November 1.

CITIES LEAGUE TO SEEK FUNDS

Proportion of State Highway Money Demanded By Organization

Legislation which will require the highway commission to expend a proportionate share of its funds on the highways within cities, even though they have a population greater than 2500, will be sought at the next legislative session by the Oregon League of Municipalities. It was announced Monday by Chris Schuebel, city attorney of Oregon City and president of the state organization.

The announcement was made in the course of an address at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon. Mr. Schuebel unflinched his categorical guns for an attack on Oregon's spirit, which he characterized as one of disinterested insofar as the state as a whole was concerned, each community being jealous of its neighbor.

At the last session of the legislature, said the speaker, many bills inimical to the cities' interests were brought up, including one which would have prevented them from levying a more parking. The state is sadly handicapped by the six per cent limitation law, which prevents the raising by taxation of sinking funds so that communities might "pay as they go" and avoid paying double for improvements financed by sale of

Miss Taylor Tells About Earthquake

Miss Naomi Taylor, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Fred C. Taylor of the First Methodist church, who is teaching in the Mid-Pacific institute, in Honolulu, has written to her parents an interesting report of the earthquake which visited that city on Saturday night, October 5. The tremor lasted for three to four minutes, severely shook the building of the school and caused great excitement everywhere. Pandemonium broke loose in all of the dormitories where the students were housed. The quake came at 9:35 p. m. and all of the students in the boys dormitory rushed out of their rooms, fearing that the walls of the building would fall and kill them. The tremor moved the beds and pictures from their places. In the girls dormitory it was even worse for the lights were out and all of the students had retired for the night. They ran from their rooms screaming and crying and seeking the stairways. The teachers had a time quieting them and getting them to return to their rooms. No damage was done but old-timers stated that it was the worst shock that had been felt there in fifteen years. Miss Taylor stated that the terrible shock was preceded by a quivering of everything around her. Then the building sounded as if it were being torn apart. She expected to see the roof and walls fall and kill them. Walking in the hall was like walking on shipboard at sea. It was a thrilling experience, never to be forgotten.

Miss Taylor was one of the instructors in the English department in the Salem high school for four years before going to Honolulu last August. The Mid-Pacific institute in which she is now teaching is a Christian institution under the Congregation church and has a large enrollment of Oriental boys and girls in the high school grades.

JAP FARMER DIES OF GUNSHOT WOUND

Hirosaki Kusachi, 23, Japanese farmer at Dee, Ore., died in a hospital here Monday as the result of gunshot wounds suffered Sunday while he and his father were hunting pheasants in the Kelszer Bottom district.

Police said that Kusachi was alighted from an automobile, when his shotgun discharged accidentally. The charge of shot tore off his right arm and entered his right side. He was taken to a hospital for treatment. Kusachi formerly lived at Kelszer Bottom and recently arrived there from Dee to visit his parents. He leaves a widow.

Remains will be forwarded to Portland where services will be held at the Buddhist church and the remains cremated at the Portland crematorium.

COOKE ARRIVES AT STATE PRISON HERE

James P. Cooke, ex-president of the defunct Overbeck and Cooke bond house in Portland, arrived at the state penitentiary here Monday afternoon to begin serving a seven year term for embezzlement of funds of a client.

Dr. Ralph Fisher, B. Heitkamp and Mr. Cooke's two sons accompanied him on the automobile trip from Portland to Salem. After being "dressed in" Cooke was assigned to one of the "fish cells" where he will remain until tomorrow when he will be photographed and advised of the prison rules.

Officials said that Cooke probably would be assigned to work in the prison flax plant until such time as there is an opening in the bookkeeping department. Cooke refused to make any statement upon his arrival at the prison, and appeared on the verge of a nervous breakdown. There were no visitors in the turnkeys office while he was being dressed in.

Assuming that Cooke received credit for what is known as "good time," he will be eligible to apply for a parole after he has served 23 months.

Cooke will be known as prisoner No. 10,842.
