

FARM SURPLUS CONTROL ASKED

Reforestation Program Suggested as Means to Cut Production

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Control of farm surpluses by government withdrawal of unutilizable lands for reforestation was urged today by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Other farm relief measures discussed at a session of the association of land grant colleges and universities devoted to the federal farm board's problems were removal of county extension agents from counties and states influenced opposed to cooperative marketing and an educational campaign to acquaint the farmer with his rights under the agricultural marketing act.

Farm Board Members Speak Before Meeting

Six members of the farm board were present and each addressed the meeting. They were Chairman Alexander Legge, C. S. Wilson, Sam R. McKelvie, James C. Stone, Carl Williams, and C. C. Teague. Secretary Hyde explained that of 955,000,000 acres of American farm land, only 505,000,000 actually were cultivatable while 350,000,000 produce crops.

Too Much Production Decried by Speaker

Over expansion was held by the secretary to be the cause of agricultural ills was brought about, he said, by the eagerness of the government to cultivate every potential farm. He proposed the submarginal lands be taken by the government for reforestation.

"The farmers of the United States are now easily able to produce all the foods and fibers the nation needs and will be able to do so for decades to come," he said. "Our immediate concern is not to stimulate greater production but to avoid it. We need to seek out and make practical application of what we already know, to make researches for new uses of present products."

Task of Federal Farm Board Outlined

"The federal farm board is charged with the task of encouraging and fostering cooperative marketing organizations for agriculture," he said.

"Thus we hope to build up the farmers own organization which can advise the farmer as to markets, supplies and demands; can aid in controlling the surplus by preventing it; can level out the flow of commodities to market; give the farmer a voice in the sale of his products, and extend his arm and influence over his line fences and into the markets of the world.

"We can take the problems of the farm out of the realm of politics and into the domain of economics by collective thinking, stabilization of prices, reduction of waste in the marketing system and the mobilization of the economic power of agriculture."

REAL SURPRISE IN STORE FOR CROWDS

At the Fox Elsinore theatre they are getting ready to spring a real surprise in the way of a stage show Saturday, Sunday and Monday. It is another Fanchon & Marco idea, but from all reports, nothing like it has yet been produced. The title of the idea is "Types"—and in it the famous Fanchon & Marco "Sunkist Beauties" come into their own. Everyone is a star but, being trained as a group, no single member can shine individually. What they do as a group in "Types" is the real surprise.

And there's plenty to tell about the headlines in fun and melody that appear with them.

The Trado twins, with their synchronized act think, sing, talk, dance, laugh, walk and fall alike. Many who have seen the opening of the Trado's efforts believe the act an optical illusion of some sort, created by mirrors or some such something.

Then there is Carlena Diamond who transforms the scene with two golden harps, which she literally makes human with her deft manipulation of melodies both classical and jazz.

Harold Stanton, stage star who created the leading singing role in "The Desert Song," heads the "Types" cast in vocal numbers. Incidentally it is Stanton who opens the show with a melody in song that gives the idea its name.

Evelyn Brent comes to the Fox Elsinore talking screen Saturday and Sunday in her all talking "star" debut in "Darkened Rooms" a picture full of thrills, comedy, intrigue, romance and mystery. Neil Hamilton ably supports Miss Brent. It is every thing a good picture should be.

BILLS STILL PILE UP FOR O'LEARY

prietor of the Royal Court apartments, filed the charge against the restaurant man Thursday. New charges may be filed against the man today, it was predicted yesterday when a representative of the Frigidaire corporation intimated that his company would probably start action against O'Leary for leaving here with a refrigerator which had not yet been paid for.

Quick action on the part of W. S. Pitts, Salem market proprietor, in filing an attachment on the O'Leary fixtures which are stored in Vancouver, Wn., may result in the settlement of a $1177 chattel mortgage which was held by Pitts. It is estimated that the value of the fixtures stored by O'Leary will reach $4,000.

A report from the Marion county tax collector's office reveals the fact that O'Leary is indebted to the county to the extent of about $220 in taxes, this includes a tax account for 1928 and also of this year.

A conservative estimate of O'Leary's liabilities has been set at $5,000 but this figure may reach $10,000 before all the claims are entered.

ROBBERS GET LARGE FORTUNE IN JEWELS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Eighteen socially prominent men and women were held up and robbed of seven armed bandits at the home of John L. Carson, Jr., in Snyder, a fashionable suburb tonight and stripped of jewelry estimated by the victims to be worth more than $400,000.

The heaviest loss was suffered by Mrs. Ray Alan Van Cleet from whose neck one of the bandits tore a triple string of matched pearls worth, its owner said, between $250,800 and $300,000.

Not only did the bandits, all of whom were masked, unceremoniously strip jewelry from the guests of the party, but they stole from an upper room the evening cloaks and fur coats owned by the women guests.

LIQUOR PEDDLERS BEING PROSECUTED

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Twenty-four links of an alleged north Idaho liquor conspiracy chain were gathered in by federal officers today and 20 more indicted by the grand jury were to be arrested.

Warrants served by United States Marshal Breshars cited every member of the city council of Wallace, save one, the sheriff of Shoshone county, his deputy, several prominent citizens, three women and the proprietors of a number of bars.

The grand jury indicted two men on double offenses. W. E. Coughlin, proprietor of a Mullan soft drink parlor, was charged with conspiracy against the national prohibition amendment, and with failure to appear for trial in federal court last May. Michael Denny, proprietor of a bar, was charged with sale and possession of liquor and with conspiracy.

The United States District Attorney Ray said the 44 secret indictments were intended to smash a "great north Idaho conspiracy" for protection of persons selling liquor, but would give no information as to whether the indictments covered some charges of rum running or merely charges of quasi-official "protection" of rum sellers in Wallace, Mullan and adjacent towns of Coeur d'Alene.

One member of the Mullan council testified before the grand jury at Moscow. All the others were indicted, including the mayor.

SANITY HEARING IS HELD FOR SLAYER

SPOKANE, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Police started a sanity hearing for Robert M. Landis, 16, who had confessed to killing Detective Roy Fordyce, but counsel retained by the boy's family halted it suddenly late today.

Young Landis was charged with murder, after admitting to officers and newspaper men that he slew Fordyce after the latter questioned him about a pistol he possessed unlawfully, and police wanted to forestall an insanity plea at the trial.

Doctors had questioned the boy, and decided he was sane, Prosecutor C. W. Greenough said, when Frank McKovitt, attorney, appeared and said he had been retained by R. E. Landis of Minneapolis, the boy's father. The hearing was cut short.

Detectives, after quizzing Landis for many hours, reported the youth admitted participating in more than a dozen highway robberies and store burglaries since he was released from the Minnesota reformatory at Red Wing. This tallied with reports from Minneapolis, which said a youth there was hired by Landis to help him commit robberies.

Landis related how he shot a

Minneapolis druggist in the thigh during a robbery there last Friday. Police here affirmed.

The youth arrived here with Charles Dawes, 14, and they bought a pistol. Detective Fordyce and Detective George Bradley trailed them to a hotel for questioning and Landis suddenly started shooting Bradley stated.

The officers retaliated. Fordyce was shot through the heart and Landis through the arm. Then Bradley smashed Landis over the head with his pistol, shattering the weapon.

Dawes was held as an accomplice, although police did not believe he had committed any crime, they declared.
