Chamber of Commerce Reviews Work of Year and Plans for Future

WOODBURN, November 21.—W. H. Baillie, superintendent of the State Training school, was elected president of the Woodburn chamber of commerce at their meeting in the Ray-Brown canery cafeteria Wednesday night.

Elburn Sims was elected vice-president and Paul Mills, secretary-treasurer. John Ramage was elected to the board of directors in place of W. F. Norman, who resigned, and E. J. Allen was re-elected to the board for another term.

After a delicious turkey dinner served by the cafeteria staff, H. F. Butterfield, retiring president of the club, took charge of the business meeting and the reports of the different committees who served during the year were heard. Blain G. McCord, who was at the head of the committee to cooperate with the citizens in putting over the Boy Scout organization in Woodburn, reported a successful year under the direction of Harold Aspinwall and Samuel Kerns and said that at the beginning of the school year when the troop took up its activities again, J. B. Woodfin, who has been in charge of several successful troupes in other communities, was asked to take charge of the work here for the coming school year. Mr. McCord states that Captain Olson of the National Guard had granted the scouts permission to meet in the Armory and he wished to thank him for his kindness. He also suggested that because there is $1000 to be raised in Marion county outside of Salem that it would be a wise thing for them to be prepared to be solicited for contributions to a Boy Scout fund.

John Ramage, chairman of the committee which worked toward getting a better understanding between the people of Woodburn and the Oregon State Training school, reported that, upon the request of Superintendent Gilbert, they had furnished the school with athletic coaches and had also given an entertainment for the boys that was a credit to the community. After the change in superintendents this committee saw that a boxing instructor was employed for the school and also furnished transportation to get the boys to the Roundup at Molalla on the Fourth of July.

At the extreme left Miss Peck is shown in her mountain climbing costume of thirty years ago when she scaled many of the loftiest peaks of Europe, Asia and South America. The scene in the center shows Miss Peck's party of by-gone days when she made her record on the Peruvian peaks. At the right we have a close-up of this daring mountain climber as she is today, still young and willing to undertake tasks which others shirk. The erstwhile school teacher will have the pleasure of viewing from the lofty heights the mountains which in earlier days she scaled.

Fred Evenden who was chairman of the committee which was chosen to work with the State game commission announced the organization of a Woodburn rod and gun club, the interest of which is primarily to preserve and protect the wild game around the community. He reported that a game reserve of several hundred acres had been allotted in which there would be no hunting. Twelve pairs of China pheasants have been turned loose on this reserve and the place is fairly well posted so that within a few years there should be an abundance of this game present. It is also the aim of this club to stock the adjacent streams with game fish as soon as possible and to prevent pre-season hunting and fishing.

Trophies won at the community club contest at the Elsinore theatre in Salem last spring were presented by C. J. Espy, chairman of the committee in charge of this event. At this contest, Woodburn won two cups, one for the preliminary and a second, the grand sweepstakes prize. It was voted by the chamber that since the program was put on by high school students, they should be allowed the privilege of retaining the cups in their trophy case and V. D. Bain thanked the group for their decision in behalf of the students.

Eugene Courtney, chairman of the roads committee, reported that through the efforts of his group the Woodburn arch on the highway has retained its present position. He also said that the new Killen bridge would soon be completed and that road, leading to one of the most prosperous sections around here, will be open to public travel. The president suggested two projects for the new committee might be to get the road from Elmer Settlemier's place to the Benjamin lane in good condition and to see to the repairing of the north end of Front street which leads to Hubbard. The president announced the efficiency of the special committees and the committee which put over the "turkey" chase" last year. Later in the meeting it was announced that this event would be repeated December 24, this year. This novel advertising stunt drew people from all parts of the valley as well as being shown on news reels throughout the United States. He mentioned the fact that the first community Christmas tree was sponsored last year and that the wiring equipment was still available. W. H. Baillie of the training school offered a tree to the club cut and delivered, if they would select one. The legislative committee functioned as usual in protecting the interests of the community at the state legislature.

Rev. Charles S. Tator of Portland was the speaker of the evening and gave an exceptional talk on "Community Cooperation."

It is all right to experiment but a pity to spend too much time experimenting when you might be enjoying the fragrant pleasure of smoking Camels.

It has been the experience of many smokers, after trying other brands, that Camels give constant and unfailing pleasure. Their mildness, due to choice tobaccos and expert blending, makes it possible to smoke them liberally without any tiring of the taste. This quality, which smokers have learned to depend upon, will be maintained, because Camels are made for those who know and appreciate the real pleasure of smoking.
