

CURVE STREETS SPEAKER URGES

Effective Curb for Speeding
Motorists Seen by Oregon State Prof

"Keep the residence streets curved if you wish to protect your children, and fat cats from the speeding motorists" was the sage suggestion of F. A. Cuthbert of the Oregon State college in an interesting talk before the Salem chamber of commerce Monday night in the chamber of commerce room. His remarks were centered about "designing the small home grounds" but he enriched these with pertinent remarks about other things in close connection with gardens.

In speaking of architecture he said he honestly believed the only true original type of architecture typical of the United States was the log cabin. One other which Americans have been mostly responsible for directing is the new factory buildings, aside from these America goes to Europe for its styles and is some 10 years behind at that.

The one man of the United States who according to Mr. Cuthbert is now doing original work is Frank Lloyd Wright who began the use of concrete and steel, and builds so effectively that a building constructed by him in Tokyo was the only one to withstand the great earthquake there.

Pictures of gardens were shown on the screen Monday night and explanations of them were given. Two things which Mr. Cuthbert thinks should not be left to the gardener are the rock garden and the rose garden. These two need individual and personal attention of the owner, and to be successful must have his intimate interest.

Miss Elizabeth Lord announced a lecture by Mrs. Frances King which will be given in Portland December 13, under the sponsorship of the Portland Garden club.

F. A. Doerflinger has tickets for this which will be one of the outstanding garden events of the year as Mrs. King is a nationally known garden topics as well as develops her own gardens.

MOISTURE CLAIMED WELCOME FARM AID

dict of those who are familiar with Oregon climate.

In Tillamook county the matter of water for stock is a serious problem. Springs and creeks are dry and the farmers are faced with a water shortage such as never before.

Local farmers who have tractors and plows and seeded the grain but in most cases little growth is to be noted. Summer fallowed crops are doing best because of the conserved moisture while the stubble in crops are suffering most.

Farmers on the prairies are in about the same predicament except for the fact that the prairie land is richer and seedling can be done at a much later time. Less than half of the grain crop is now in and should heavy freezing come this will be destroyed since little root growth has been made.

The central and eastern Oregon wheat belt is perhaps the hardest hit of any of the farm districts. The season there has been so dry that seeding was impossible and spring sown grain has but little chance there.

of the Whitman game, Coach Keen declared "My impressions of that game were everlasting." He thanked students and faculty for their cooperation during the season, and praised townspeople who had supported the team.

"Football season is over now, and basketball will be here in no time now. Go out and have a good time this afternoon and the come back and hit the books hard for the rest of the semester so that everybody will have good grades."

Graduate Manager Sparks stated that he had read of games and excursions like those of last week, but that the experience of taking part in such an expedition was thoroughly enjoyable. Professor F. D. Leamer and W. C. Jones, who with their wives were chaperones for the excursion, gave students high praise for their conduct on the trip. They reported that trainees who had been on many excursions had told them that the Willamette crowd was the most orderly they had dealt with.

A special admission rate was given students by the Fox Elsinore theatre Monday afternoon, and practically the entire student body attended the matinee performance.

Longer Hunting Season is Talked

Final action on the attitude it will take concerning the proposed lengthening of the deer hunting season, will be taken by the Marion County Game Protective association at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Officers will also be elected for the coming year.

There is unmistakable difference between the "actor" and the finished artist of the stage. Every one knows this is true but to realize it again with gratifying satisfaction it is necessary to watch Ronald Colman and hear him speak in the play, "Bull Dog Drummond," which is at the Capitol for the next three days. His work is finished to the last detail. He moves through the scenes with a fascinating grace and poise and thoughtful interpretation that holds one absorbed attention. His actions, as well as his actions, show years of training of a successful legitimate stage artist.

Someone said they did not like the sound of the show's name. Well, it does sound a bit uncouth but the play is far from that. It is highly exciting and although the plot is based on crime yet the comedy parts and the mystery keep it at a high level of interest and the crime deals with genteel, or apparently genteel people.

May Sheldon, well known to Salem folk, who followed the Manhattan Players when they were active in Salem last winter, will again greet her old friends in "The Cohens and Caseys," an Irish-Jewish comedy at the Hollywood both Wednesday and Thursday night. Mr. Stumbo, manager out at the Hollywood, informs the Call Board that the Manhattan cast has changed but little in personnel from what it was last year.

The Grand is starting an innovation for that house beginning with Saturday at which time it will present a double bill. This is a plan which the house intends to carry out consistently in a short time, and which will be gratifying to patrons no doubt. The first double bill will be "Fury of the Wild" and "City of Purple Dreams."

There is no way to describe Harold Lloyd. I have always liked him. His fun is sure to be original and he is sure to be funny—a very good combination. Just happening into the Fox Elsinore Monday afternoon I found Harold in a Chinese suit little wearing his big glasses and hiding under a table with numerous very excited, very angry Chinese searching for him. Watching him get out of his predicament was a scream—and that is just what part of the audience were doing.

The picture is beautifully filmed and it moves with such rapidity that any inconsistency becomes hidden. The acting of so many Chinese gives a pleasingly different note.

A season of dramatic stock will be inaugurated at the Hollywood theatre commencing Wednesday.

MRS. MARTHA TAYLOR TAKEN

Wife of Retired Postoffice
Employee Passes Away
Late Monday

Mrs. Martha M. Taylor, wife of Benjamin P. Taylor, died Monday evening at the home at 2096 State street at the age of 83 years. Although she had been in poor health for the past two years, her condition had not been serious until about two months ago, and for the past week or so little hope has been held for her recovery.

Mr. Taylor is a retired employee of the local postoffice, where he served for 40 years, first as carrier and later as clerk.

Martha Rider was born near Joplin, Missouri, on February 17, 1846, the child of Rev. and Mrs. William H. Rider. Her father was well known over the Willamette valley as one of the early Methodist circuit riders. He died here about 22 years ago, and the mother a few years later. Rev. and Mrs. Rider and their family came to Oregon from Missouri in 1863, settling first near Roseburg, then moving about 1880 to Seaside and later to Niagara. From Niagara they came to Salem, reaching here about 1892.

Martha Rider and Benjamin P. Taylor were married in Salem on February 17, 1886, and have lived here continuously since that time.

Besides Mr. Taylor, Mrs. Taylor leaves a daughter, Marjorie Taylor, two sisters, Mrs. C. A. Bates of Seaside, and Mrs. M. Brown, of Stockton, Calif., and one brother, U. S. Rider, of Salem. Three brothers have passed away and one sister preceded her in death.

Mrs. Taylor was a member of the Unitarian Alliance and of the Unitarian church. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Rigdon mortuary, Rev. Martin Ferry officiating.

the French government, as was a similar communication addressed to the Soviet by the United States in 18.

The communication to China was handed to the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs by the American legation in Peking.

Secretary Stimson's move was predicated on the knowledge that open hostilities have taken place between the two nations in Manchuria. A statement by the secretary accompanying the publication of the message to Moscow and Nanking emphasized that no Pacific means had been resorted to for settlement of the dispute.

The message to the two governments was couched in firm and precise terms, concluding with the admonition that the respect which China and Russia will be held in world opinion would depend upon the way they carry out their promises under the anti-war pact.

In a subsequent informal discussion of the situation with newspapermen, Mr. Stimson explained today that while there is a basis for criticism by each power of the other, it was not the part of the United States to set up itself as a judge or arbitrator of the dispute, but to take all possible measures to mass world opinion.

December 4, when the Manhattan Players present their first comedy-drama, "The Cohens and Caseys," featuring Miss May Sheldon in the star role of Rachel Cohen. A new play will be offered each Wednesday and Thursday in conjunction with the regular picture program. The stock company will appear only once each evening—the picture will be shown before and after the players appear.

Twins Seeking Foster Mother And Father Now

A baby boy and girl, seven months old twins, are looking for a home. The mother is unable to care for the little ones and they are virtually orphans so Mrs. Nona White, county probation officer, is broadcasting the call for a home for the twins.

Only personal calls will be given attention, reports Mrs. White, as no telephone calls or letters in regard to adoption or care of the babies will be answered.

The twins are both healthy, normal, intelligent and are apparently of good stock, said Mrs. White.

CHAMBER TO ELECT DIRECTORS SHORTLY

Preparations for the annual election of directors of the Salem chamber of commerce were started at Monday's luncheon when President B. E. Stinson announced the appointment of a nominating committee consisting of Charles Hudkins, Leo N. Childs and T. M. Hicks. The committee will report next week and the election will be held the following week.

H. C. Brockhagen, editor of the Portland Telegram, was the speaker Monday. In connection with the subject of "Boosting Oregon," he mentioned a project started by J. C. Ainsworth, Portland banker, to bring about intensive cultivation of more of the tillable land in the Willamette valley.

He also decried the tendency, in Portland and perhaps elsewhere in the state, of business men to attempt to block the introduction of competing businesses in their communities, declaring that the reason why Oregon has lagged behind Washington and California.

A resolution changing the council's order of business, to conform to the new lineup of standing committees, was introduced and will come up for passage at the next meeting.

Olson and Miller Succeeded Aldermen Hawkins, Thompson. The council elected Dr. O. A. Olson alderman for the seventh ward succeeding Harry M. Hawkins, whose resignation was accepted, and elected Dr. Carl E. Miller for the same ward to succeed Ralph E. Thompson, who died a little over a week ago. Dr. Olson won out by a vote of 8 to 4 over Lee McAllister, and Dr. Miller defeated Paul Hendricks 9 to 3.

Petitions supporting E. A. Rhoten, Hendricks and McAllister were read, bearing 45, 27 and 13 signatures respectively.

The budget for 1930 was adopted without change from the figures approved by the budget committee. However, the council pledged itself, in that connection, to include in the 1931 budget an item for a sinking fund to retire the incinerator and airport bonds.

This was urged by Alderman David O'Hara and by Fred Paulsen, secretary of the budget committee.

Alderman W. H. Dancy pointed out that the old sewer bonds will be retired in 1933, and that thereafter, it will be possible to set aside the sinking fund without increasing the tax levy. All councilmen who spoke, were in favor of the sinking fund being included as soon as possible.

JAPS WON'T BACK STIMSON IN STAND

TOKYO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—(Tuesday) An official statement issued today said that Japan does not intend to issue a declaration supporting the American note to China and Russia, warning them of their obligations under the Kellogg anti-war pact, or otherwise associate herself with the proposal.

The official spokesman said the opinion was held in authoritative quarters of Tokyo that the Chinese might interpret such a declaration from Japan as an intervention in their favor, stiffening the Chinese attitude and interfering with prospects of an early peace.

While the Japanese government saw no great objection to the United States and Great Britain sending notes, the spokesman added it believed that such action is no longer necessary since direct peace negotiations between Mukden and Moscow were already proceeding.
