

MISSING PILOT IS FOUND DEAD

Thomas P. Nelson, Air Mail Carrier, Crashes Near Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The mystery of the fate of Pilot Thomas P. Nelson, who disappeared in the darkness and snow storm of early Monday while flying the air mail from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland, was solved today when Nelson's body and his badly wrecked plane were found in a ravine near Chagrin Falls, Ohio, 25 miles southeast of Cleveland.

Nelson, a pilot of the National Air Transport company, apparently had realized death was close at hand for his parachute was found partly opened, indicating he had made a belated effort to jump for his life. His body was found about 100 feet from the wreckage of the plane. Death apparently had been instantaneous.

Discovery of the body and wreckage was made by Joseph Vincent of Cleveland, while he was hunting rabbits. The plane's motor was buried four feet deep in the frozen ground. The body of Nelson was partly covered by his parachute.

Both the body and plane were partly covered by snow and although only 25 feet from a heavily travelled highway were hidden from view by the snow and the sides of the ravine.

PROBE SOUGHT IN DEATH OF WOMAN

MANILA, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Re-opening of investigation of the case of Esther Louise Klein of Cleveland, Ohio, navy nurse found mysteriously dead in a roadhouse near Fort McKinley last August, was demanded tonight at a women's mass meeting conducted here under the joint auspices of the women's clubs of Manila.

Descriptions of the roadhouse where Miss Klein met death, together with affidavits by physicians and other nurses stating it was unlikely if not impossible for the woman to have committed suicide, were introduced at the meeting.

A council on which each of the women's clubs was represented was formed to interview Governor General Dwight F. Davis and request the reopening of the investigation, which was dropped for lack of clues.

COURT MARTIAL FOR NORTHCUTT SLATED

BREMERTON, Wash., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Officers who will hear the court-martial of Lieutenant Harold W. Northcutt, who disappeared from his post at Norfolk, Va., and was arrested in Seattle more than a month ago were named today by Rear-Admiral H. J. Ziegenfist, commander of the Bretherton navy yard.

The officers were: Captain Z. E. Briggs, Commanders J. B. Earl and W. C. Faus, Lieutenant Commanders E. D. Johnson, C. F. Osborn and O. W. Leidel, Lieutenant Gale Quarton, Arthur Chalacombe of the marine corp was named judge advocate.

Although no charges have been made against Northcutt, it was believed at the navy yard that he would be charged with desertion and leaving the United States for a foreign country without permission.

The lieutenant was arrested in Seattle after being discovered in Vancouver, B. C., about two weeks after disappearing.

MILK STANDARD IS CONSIDERED

Ordinance Is Submitted to Portland City Council For Discussion

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fear that compulsory pasteurization of milk would result from the requirements of the raw milk producers formed the basis for most of the objections today aired before the city council at the first hearing on the standard milk ordinance submitted to the city council by M. M. Miller, milk investigator of the United States Public Health Service.

While the question was raised as to the necessity for the provision the feature of the ordinance in which Portland is leading the United States, that of prohibition of milk sale from herds infected with contagious abortion, raised little objection from the dairy men and others gathered at the meeting. Some contended that it had not yet been shown that undulant fever is transmitted through milk from infected cows, but it was pointed out that Oregon again led the country in this regard and has demonstrated several cases where such transmission of the disease has been a fact.

Objection to the ordinance also was raised on the ground that pasteurized milk should be required to be just as good as raw milk and that grade B milk should not be sold as grade A milk just because it has been pasteurized.

The ordinance will receive another hearing Monday.

LAW ENFORCED FOR GRADING POTATOES

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—First prosecution here for alleged violation of a new potato grading and inspection act passed by the legislature this year was made in District Judge Mears' court today after W. Erickson, Walter Williams and D. H. Klenow, grocers, were arrested by Henry H. Taube, state potato inspector.

The men pleaded guilty to charges of offering ungraded potatoes for sale and their cases were continued indefinitely. The men were arrested in order to acquaint dealers with the new law. Deputy District Attorney Lyle Brown declared.

Under the new law, potatoes must be graded and must carry the name of the grower, the state in which they were grown and the grade number on the containers.

at the Fox Elsinore for the last time today shows the results of careful photography and attention to detail in acting which has won Lloyd a wonderful reputation as a producer.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., seems to be coming right along in the world. His acting is good and of course his father has no little to do with giving him a splendid chance to make good. His wife too, should be something to help him on with success. Joan Crawford is not only pretty but she is an excellent actress—this should make her quite a help for any ambitious "actor" husband. Douglas Jr. is to be seen in "The Jazz Age" at the Grand today, a play whose motto is "live, drink and be merry, tomorrow may never come."

The Frazier Players in "I'll Get You" offer some amusing situations on the stage at the Grand tonight and the picture that gave everybody such a thrill and so many good laughs when it was here before "The Flying Fool" is showing at the Hollywood.

The one act play by Ben Hecht, "The Wonder Hat" presented by the Snikph club, a dramatic club of the senior high school, made a decided success of its production at the high school Thursday. It will be repeated at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Burroughs coached the play and the smooth, easy production of a really difficult play was a great compliment to her coaching. The play is a fantastical, whimsical comedy.

dy, clever and lively, and it held the student body in close attention during its Thursday production. Such work as this will soon develop some real talent in the high school folk. # Success-Love Disaster-Victory

Read of their unfolding in the new gripping serial which starts in next Sunday's STATESMAN.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

Shirley had sworn she didn't love Alan and turned him down to marry handsome, irresponsible Roger.

And six months after their marriage, Roger embezzled Alan's fortune and was secure in the knowledge he wouldn't be prosecuted because of Shirley.

And then with one brave gesture, Shirley tumbled her house of cards to ruin, and put herself outside the pale of the Society she thought she loved better than any man.

Roger was her legal husband, a thief and rogue who dared her to grasp for happiness and freedom.

Alan was just "the other man" in the eyes of the world, yet he offered her a love that built a new world, far more glorious than the sham glitter she had sacrificed for his sake—and her own.

"Master of Money" is a great tale of the happiness found outside the pale of convention. Roy Vickers, one of America's most widely-read newspaper serialists, has unfolded a fine story based on the pivotal point of modern society.

Don't miss this absorbing drama of every city in America. Watch for it in
