PROF SPEAKS UPON MEXICO

O. S. C. Faculty Member Describes Conditions to Students Here

Dr. C. F. Magruder of Oregon State college spoke to students at Willamette university Thursday on conditions in Mexico. Dr. Magruder spent several weeks in Mexico last summer. The United States has stopped the last three attempted revolutions in Mexico by refusing to sell arms to the revolutionists, according to Dr. Magruder's statement. The work of Ambassador Dwight Morrow was highly praised. "The Mexicans have a lottery type of mind," he said. "Many of them would rather buy a lottery ticket and have a million tomorrow, than to try to save." He declared. Not only is the national credit of the nation low but credit of individuals is also poor. Dr. Magruder stated that considerable progress had been made in education; that now only 60 per cent of the people were considered illiterate, whereas 80 per cent were estimated to be illiterate 10 years ago. The Mexicans have a far less hostile attitude toward the United States than they had a decade ago. A further virtue named was absence of race prejudice.

ARGUMENTS HEARD IN WEMME APPEAL

Arguments of attorneys in habeas corpus proceedings filed by August Wemme against Sheriff Harburt of Multnomah county, were heard by the state supreme court here Thursday. Wemme appealed from an order of Judge Robert G. Morrow of the Multnomah county circuit court, which Morrow ruled that Wemme's claim of immunity from arrest and imprisonment was not justified. Judge Morrow found that Wemme was detained legally and by virtue of an execution on final judgment in the case of Henry Sutherland, federal alias proper, contending against Edward Wickey, Dow W. Walker and August Wemme. Wemme has furnished $25,000 bond pending disposition of the case in the supreme court.

The circuit court awarded judgment against the defendants in the amount of $67,545.89. Wickey was an agent of Sutherland. It was charged that Walker and Wemme conspired with Wickey with the understanding that Wickey was to purchase stock in the E. Henry Wemme company, which he was authorized only to sell to other persons.

THRILLING PLAY TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY

This is not a story of "Who has the button?" but "Who has the key?" And incidentally, seven persons are going to see, free for nothing, the Salkpoh society's first public production this fall, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which will be presented Friday, December 13, at the high school auditorium. The play, by the way, is a mystery thriller by George H. Cohen.

Here's how the seven seats come. Hidden tonight in each of seven Salem stores will be one of the keys to Baldpate, and the first person locating one of these and sending his or her name and the number of the key and the place in the store in which it was found to the high school, care the Salkpoh dramatic society, will receive a ticket to the play. Stores in which the keys will be hidden will be: Miller's, the Spa, Man's Shop, Capitol Drug store, Atlas Book store, Olson floral shop and McKay's coat and dress shop.

Each key will be of cardboard, more than a foot long, and on it will be found a number and information concerning the play.

NEW TYPE BOAT IS USED FOR FISHING

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Everet Idisananant, former fisherman and now a resident of this city, today announced he has patented a new type boat for use in commercial fishing operations on the lower Columbia river and similar districts which, he says, will revolutionize fishing.

The inventor said he has taken the ordinary 24-foot fishing craft and equipped it with an air propeller that will give it speed up to 60 miles an hour. This air propeller, he declared, does away with a submerged propeller and rudder.

The air propeller, the inventor said, will eliminate the fouling of fishing nets. Further it will enable one fisherman to handle all operations which formerly took the attention of two men.

He said the boat has proven successful in gill-netting, seining and deep sea trolling. It is equipped with a mechanical net handling device.
