Divorce Industry Makes Reno Prosperous City Is Claim of Nevada Lawyer

Reno, widely advertised divorce capital of America, compensates for its many untied matrimonial knots by tying new ones. This picture of the Nevada metropolis as a cradle of romance, was sketched yesterday by Robert Z. Hawkins, Reno attorney, who is in Salem on a brief visit.

A surprisingly large number of those who go to Reno seeking legal separation from their mates, find among others of their kind new objects of affection, Mr. Hawkins said, and new marriages follow as soon as final decrees are secured and their previous unhappy unions dissolved. Reno has also become a popular place for Californians to marry, since the enactment of the three-day law by the California legislature delaying the marriage ceremony for three days after the license is obtained.

Mr. Hawkins found that there are 47 listed attorneys in Salem as against 157 listed attorneys in Reno, a city of approximately 200,000 population. This difference in the size of the legal fraternity in the two cities is due in part to the added legal business which the divorce "industry" has brought to Reno.

Gerke of Eola, spent Sunday in Philomath with the R. B. Fish family.

Ernest and Willard Friesen, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Friesen are confined at their home with the grip. They seem to be some better now.

The bazaar held by the Ladies' Aid Friday evening was quite a success. Several people attended the supper and quite a sum of money was cleared.

Mrs. Edward Brock has been quite ill with the flu. She has been ill since Friday but is some better now.

Mrs. Mary Dumar and Mrs. Bert Waller of Salem were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Ed Brock. Mrs. Brock has not seen Mrs. Dumar for several years, but they have known each other for a long time.

Lester Dyer motored to Independence where he spent the weekend. He is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brock of Second street.

A surprise house warming was recently given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Summers of Kingwood avenue. The evening was spent playing "500." With the high score being won by Mrs. L. L. Sloper of Edgewater street. Mr. and Mrs. Summers received a large number of nice gifts. There were about thirty guests present. At a late hour a dainty luncheon was served.

COURSE TALKED FOR POLICEMEN

School of Law Enforcement Officers to be Held in February

Plans are being formed for a school for police officers at Willamette university on the week of February 3-8. It is planned that the week's course will give training in many important phases of the work of law enforcement. Instructors include many prominent enforcement officers and attorneys.

The course of instruction will include six lectures on common reactions of the normal mind by either William McSwain of the U. S. Secret Service or Dean P. A. Parsons of the school of social work at University of Oregon. Six lectures on law regulation, search and seizure will be given by William S. Levens, assistant attorney-general of Oregon. Luke S. May, president of the Northwest Sheriff's association will give six lectures on the recognition, preservation, and presentation of criminal evidence.

Chief L. V. Jenkins of the Portland police department, William C. Epps and Harry Niles, also of the Portland department, will give lectures. J. O. Stearns, former deputy U. S. district attorney, Earl Nott, Dean Roy Hewitt of the Willamette law school, and Senator Frank Longergan will also be speakers at the school.

Arrangements for this course of instruction are being made by the Willamette university law school under the direction of Dean Roy Hewitt.

Few Cranberries Now Remaining In This Section

There are probably not more than 1,000 boxes of cranberries left in the northwest, according to local dealers. The crop has been especially good this year and the price has been such that the growers have made good profit.

The demand for grapes has been less this season than ever before although the quality has been good. Nothing but storage fruit is now available.

California tomatoes are still in the market but the demand is slight. The heavy duty imposed on Mexican tomatoes has served to practically bar them from the country and kept the price up on the California crop.
