The pupils recently finished an Indian project which was carried through most of the regular classroom work and which brought more than the usual classroom routine to the pupils. PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 14 .-(AP)-Before adjourning at 1:30 a. m. today, the officials ignored room. This is the only room in the hour of midnight, the Oregon state highway commission added to its announced immediate program two other projects.

As soon as the engineering staff can make the necessary arrangements, the commission will order advertised the paving of the highway between Beaverton and Silvan. A survey with a view to widening the Pacific highway between Albany and Halsey was alordered.

The protracted session of the commission was due to a discussion of the location of a section of the Central Oregon highway. Commissioners who made a personal inspection of the two suggested routes earlier in the week differed, and the third member was considering the arguments of his colleagues. The contention is whether the route should go by way of Drowsey or Crane. The subject has been a matter of controversy in Harney county for a matter of years.

Don H. Peoples, Bend, has filed with the state engineer here application to store 50,000 acre feet of water from the west fork of the Deschutes river and to appropriate 600 second feet of such stored water for the irrigation of 60,000 acres, domestic and stock purposes in Deschutes county.
