The picture is nine by 24 feet, and transforms the entire back of the church into a panoramic view of Bethlehem and the plains of the shepherds. It is made from recent photographs showing landscape, buildings, trees and other scenes as they appear at the present time; but little different from what they were at the time of Christ's advent.

The background in itself provides a new and rich Christmas treat worth going miles to see, giving the audience a topographical view of the city of Bethlehem, such as has never before been presented, according to those in charge. Tuesday N ight
