

Wonder what we'll do in this column for the next week or so?

If we took Collier's for nothing but Grantland Rice's annual selection of the All-American team, we would cancel our subscription two years ago.

Hugo Bezdek, who used to coach at Oregon and is now at Penn State, would abolish collegiate sports if they interfered with the true object of the schools, he declared at a "victory dinner" the other day.

What job do you suppose Bezdek has to fall back on when football is abolished?

He added that the tendency is in the direction he suggested, and blamed it on the "scholarship nuisance."

"Years ago we had isolated cases where we helped men out. Instead of the exception today we have the rule, and the weight is cumbersome; it is becoming an evil instead of a good. It is simply a clash between professionalism and amateurism. There is an ideal and a goal and a standard to uphold and as soon as we start to buy athletes we are planting an inferiority complex in the individual. Some boys may survive, but why take a chance?"

Bezdek is strong for the new fumble rule, saying he favored it five years ago. He wants to make the ball dead when a forward pass is intercepted, which would be another step in the same direction, and also wants to abolish the punt out of bounds on the one or two foot line.

We note by the New York papers, however, that "the majority of coaches are adamant in their view that the old rule was better. That's news, because the reports all season have been the other way.

They bring up all kinds of arguments against the fumble rule, all of which may be valid—and yet they get around the fact that football was faster and more spectacular, more the game the public wants, this year than ever before.

Hurray for the Flying Clouds! Looks like we're due for some more Northwest bowling honors.

The Albright college basketball team, capt. at Reading, Pa., has five captains. Something like the Mexican army.

2000 Persons Crowd Way Into Y. M. C. A. Building Monday Night

Joyous youth overflowed the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night when about 2000 persons, nearly 1500 of them school children, jammed their way in to enjoy the Christmas party given by the Salem Kiwanis club.

There were boys and girls packed in tight all over the gymnasium floor, more of them on the bleachers at each end, and still more crowded from railing to walls in the balcony. There were rows of boys perched on the gymnasium ladders, on the parallel bars and on the "horses" everywhere on a foothold or a handhold could be found.

And how they yelled—yelled when Cooke Patton displayed his feats of magic, yelled when Santa Claus was shown on the screen, yelled when the "Our Gang" comedy appeared there. They yelled harder, each for his favorite group, when the home talent "Our Gang" casts staged their contest. The Grant school boys and girls won the prize.
