DES ANDERSON HAS HARD JOB

Headlock Artist Not Easy to Dispose of; Fans Await Opening Gong

Information that Bobby Sampson, "strongest welterweight" wrestler, is a headlock artist with a reputation for downing his opponents through the use of that punishing hold, has done nothing to boost the stock of Des Anderson, local favorite, in tonight's main event at the armory.

Fans recall that Harry Kuehne, who met Anderson here twice recently, found the local man rather an easy victim for that hold, and used it repeatedly to weaken Anderson, so successfully that he won the second fall of their last encounter.

Sampson, with his great strength, is likely to make the headlock an even more formidable threat when he meets Anderson tonight, unless the local boy has developed a better method of combating it since his last appearance.

Preliminary to Start
At 8:30 o'clock sharp.

All arrangements for the match were completed Tuesday. There will be a preliminary, starting at 8:30, and it is likely to prove more interesting than the subordinate bouts on the preceding cards.

It features Bill Johnson, who wrestled in the preliminary on the first mat card staged here, and Clyde Shoemith, a local boy who works at the paper mill and has something of a reputation as an amateur grappler.

In case it is a cold evening, none of the fans needs to stay away for fear the armory auditorium will be cold. For Matchmaker Harry Plant promises that an extra head of steam will be generated and the room made entirely comfortable.

It is probable that Jack Brennan, Canadian middleweight champion who has been staying at McMinville recently, will be the referee again tonight, but if so he may rule out any holds that necessitate any kicking, recalling that he was knocked out by Anderson's flying feet just before the final fall in the last main event.

Ford Team Beaten by Chevrolet

Chevrolet scored a victory over Ford Tuesday night in Commercial league bowling when the McKay outfit put backs in Valley Motors' line to the tune of three straight and meanwhile broke the league series record with a count of 2709 pins. Capital City Bowling team from General Petroleum and also bettered the old record.

Big Muller finally achieved his lifetime ambition by rolling a series of 600.

The new Salem team in this league, formerly known as Gasco but now christened "Studebakers," threw a scare into the natives by rolling 937 in the second game, ten short of the league record, but Barr Plumbers won the other two games.

There will be a lot of excitement at the Winter Garden next Sunday when three teams of Portland stars will appear against local quintets. One of them will be the Imperial hotel five, back for revenge. The matches will start at 1 p.m.

Brief Prepared In Extension of Oregon Railway

Preparation of a brief to be filed in behalf of the Oregon public service commission and several chambers of commerce of eastern Oregon cities is being made by William P. Ellis, Salem railway tariff attorney. Mr. Ellis expects to have the brief ready to submit to the interstate commerce commission within a month for the Great Northern and Western Pacific railroad extension south from Klamath Falls, to Keddle, Calif.

The testimony in the case was

CURTIS COMMENTS

Hurray for the Bears. Maybe this village isn't on the sport map of the state!

We'll pick Mr. Sampson, whose name, we understand, would be more appropriate with the middle letter left out, to beat Des Anderson tonight, and Salem high to beat Woodburn high. Present guessing average, 600; three right and two wrong.

Nig Borleske, Whitman coach, wants the football scoring system changed so the big scores won't look so big. Let's see. Under his system Willamette would have won 18 to 6 instead of 40 to 13 at Walla Walla Thanksgiving day.

Why not score football like baseball—one point for each score and nothing counts but touchdowns. Then the score would have been 6 to 2—and submitted to the interstate commerce commission in San Francisco in November. Briefs are now being prepared by the interested parties and argument will be made later in the year. The proposed railroad extension would bring the Great Northern through central Oregon and make it connect with the Western Pacific into Oakland, Calif.

MOORES RITES HELD TUESDAY

Veteran Pioneer and Friend Of Herbert Hoover is Laid to Rest

Funeral services for Charles Bruce Moores, Willamette university trustee, and Oregon pioneer, who died Sunday at his residence in Portland, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Finley parlors in Portland and commitment was made in the Portland crematorium.

Mr. Moores was a brother of A. N. Moores of Salem. Born in Benton, Missouri, in 1849, he came to Oregon in a covered wagon three years later. In 1870 he was graduated from Willamette university, following which he went east to study law at the University of Michigan, from which he received his law degree. Then he returned to Oregon, becoming a trustee of Willamette university, which he continued to be for 53 years. Honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him here last June.

Political, historical and business circles as well as educational ones were included in the life-work and achievements of Moores. For 16 years Moores, recognized as an authority on history of the state, was director and vice president of the Oregon Historical society. He also president of the Oregon Pioneer association and of the Aud Lang Syne society.

He was a member of the original Portland dock commission, appointed in 1910 by Mayor Joseph Simons of Portland, serving on the commission 11 years. He was state central committee chairman for the republican campaign from 1912 to 1914. He was appointed private secretary to Governor Moody in 1882 and 13 years later became speaker of the house. He was chief clerk of the house two years before becoming Moody's secretary.

Mr. Moores and Herbert Hoover became firm friends in 1890, when Hoover was an office boy for the Oregon Land company, of which Moores was an official. At that time both were living in Salem. He was president of the old Capitol Lumber company of Salem which preceded the Spaulding lumber company.

Besides A. N. Moores of Salem, he leaves his widow, Sarah E. Moores; a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude E. Wells of Portland; three sons, Chester A., past president of the Portland Realty board; Merrill B. and Gordon C.; and two sisters, Bertha Moores and Carrie V. Moores, all of Portland.

OREGON REPORTS TO BE PUBLISHED HERE

The Oregon reports, which contain the opinions of the state supreme court, hereafter will be printed, bound and published by the state instead of by the Bancroft-Whitney company of San Francisco, according to announcement made by the state printing board Tuesday. The Bancroft-Whitney company has held this contract for many years.

The printing and binding of the volumes will be done in the state printing plant in Salem, while the stitching will be done in Portland. The state will save approximately 75 cents per volume as a result of the change. The additional work here also will provide work for a number of printers and binders. Oregon paper will be used. James E. Crawford, official reporter for the supreme court, said the new plan would speed up publication of the reports.

The books now cost the state $2.75 per volume and private individuals $3.75. Under the new plan, the books will sell for 75 cents less. The Bancroft-Whitney company will complete volumes 129 and 130.

possibly could see that as a close game.

Borleske, Mike Lair Gregory, is all for bolstering up the morale of an apparently beaten team by synthetic means. "We're again it. The thing to do is to let a beaten team keep up its own morale and turn defeat into victory, or keep on fighting a hopeless battle in a manner to win the plaudits of all beholders, with bloody but unbroken heads, so to speak.

Since our confusion of yesterday on basketball officiating we have received a communication which draws inferences varying from our own but points to the same general conclusion. Here it is:

"There are many who agree with you that there is good reason for the Willamette university athletic authorities dispensing with the services of Eldon Jenne as an official at future athletic contests," writes a reader of Curtis Comments. "He is said to be a gentleman and a good coach but certainly a very poor official."

"Apparently he conceives it to be his duty to demonstrate his ability as an official and his knowledge of the rules by calling all of the penalties possible. To him, the game was made for the rules and not the rules for the game. In the Willamette-Pacific football game and again in the O. S. C. Willamette basketball game Jenne's officiating marred the play with successive of unreasonable penalties."

"His attitude of mind is either the product of an exaggerated ego or of his long participation as a player in athletic contests. In either event he is unable to satisfy himself with the role of an arbiter, but attempts to steal the show for himself, much to the disgust generally of spectators at the two games. Although he called more of the 'doubtful' penalties on Willamette, Oregon State supporters were 'on' him for a few which he inflicted on their favorites."

"There were those who spoke unkind words about the fairness of Jenne. Perhaps there was merit in their contentions but Jenne has been too long identified with athletics seemingly to justify such an opinion. But this much is certain, he is strong of officiousness and weak on officiating. He does not seem to know that the public goes to games to watch the players and not the officials carry the ball."

C. E. WILSON IS REELECTED

New Board of Directors of Chamber of Commerce Holds First Meet

Reelection of C. E. Wilson as manager of the chamber of commerce for his seventh successive year was the principal business transacted at the first meeting of the new board of directors of the organization Monday night.

The ideas of J. N. Chambers, newly elected president, and of the other members of the board as to activities which the chamber should adopt for the year were outlined by the Monday luncheon.

Mr. Chambers stressed the value of publicity along two lines: Creation of a community consciousness and bringing new people here. He suggested that while the value of new industries had often been emphasized, support of existing industries is equally important, and bringing farmers is as worth while as bringing an industry employing an equal number of persons.

Douglas McKay, secretary, outlined the membership program, which will consist of creating a new membership committee each month, to serve for that length of time, insuring a constant effort along this line.

C. F. Brethaupt, head of the legislative department, announced his committee which includes Senator Lloyd Reynolds, Representative Lee McAllister, County Clerk U. C. Boyer and A. C. Hay. W. M. Hamilton of the industrial department, announced his committee, James G. Heltzel, D. W. Eyr, Walter Molloy, W. G. Allen and H. B. McLaughlin. E. B. Grabenhorst, head of the agricultural department, reported his committee members, H. R. Crawford, Frank Doerflinger and Robert Shinn, and special poultry committee, Lloyd A. Lee, C. M. Needham and W. C. Conner.

Other directors who spoke included E. T. Barnes of the social department, James H. Nicholson of the civic department, King Bing Grover Hillman of the chambers and Ed Schunk, president of the Business Men's League.

B. E. Sisson, outgoing president, in his "swan song" epitomized the chamber of commerce as "the axle of the wheel of progress."

First Regular High School Game of Winter Slated At Local Gym

The first real test for the Salem high school basketball team, and the first game which counts in the county standings, will be played on the Salem high floor tonight when Woodburn's veteran team comes here to play tonight.

The "B" team will also play and this game is scheduled for 7 o'clock, the main game to follow immediately after the preliminary is finished.

Tonight's affair marks the first regularly scheduled games between Salem and Woodburn athletic teams. Several years ago, as there have been no athletic relations between Salem high and smaller high schools in the county for some time. The resumption of such relations is distinctly pleasing to local students and school officials.

At the same time, the "A" game presents rather a serious threat to Salem high's long conceded supremacy in the county. For Coach Hollis Huntington's men are inexperienced and small, while Woodburn, which made a strong showing in the tournament here last year, has several veterans from that aggregation.

Graber, regular center on the red and black quintet, is back in school after an illness of several days, but may still be too weak to play.

WOODBURN, Jan. 7. — The Woodburn high school quintet will open the conference games by journeying to Salem to play that high school on its home floor on Wednesday evening.

The other game of the week will be at Woodburn with McMinnville high, neither of the games being easy ones for the local teams. A good battle is promised with Salem, which is a much larger school than Woodburn, but in spite of the advantages Salem might have, the Woodburn boys are not going down there expecting to lose.

All of the boys have shown their worth in the games with Newberg and the Willamette freshmen, the guard and forward positions being well taken care of.

There is about nineteen feet of horizontal center material, six and a half feet of the total being found in "Ick" Baldwin, a rather obscure fellow who overcame his stage fright on the football team and who shows good promise of doing big things on the hoop squad.

Hugh Gearin, the best bet for center, having the combined qualities of the players on the other ends of the floor, will be ineligible after the latter part of the season because of the 20-year age limit. Herman Parady, a sophomore, also came into the limelight in the Newberg game and is apt to achieve recognition this year.

Clouds Now Clearer for Art Shires

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 7. — (AP)—The dark clouds hovering over the ring activities of Charles Arthur "The somewhat gre" Shires began to disappear today.

The Illinois State Athletic commission investigating rumors that dangerous Dan Daly had to take a "dive" to Shires when the battling White Sox first baseman scored an impressive twenty one second victory in his professional first fight debut here a month ago reached the conclusion that the knockout was on the level and that Daly had not been telling the truth.

The testimony of three witnesses showed no evidence that Daly had been approached or threatened by sinister parties either before or after the fight. James C. Cullen, promoter of the battle; Eddie Meade of Cleveland, a fight manager, who acted as Daly's second and business representative, and George H. Bricker, of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the Ohio Valley Retail Furniture association were the witnesses who testified.

Bricker was a surprise witness at the hearing. He testified he held the contract as Daly's manager and that Daly's real name was Jimmy Gary, an 18 year old youth of Columbus. Gary or Daly, according to Bricker, was an irresponsible publicity craving youth who had been twice knocked out before he met Shires.

RECOVERY OF GILL LIKELY

O. S. C. Hoop Mentor is Given Good Chance in Latest Doctor's Report

"If present conditions continue, Mr. Gill can expect a complete recovery from his present illness," reported Dr. F. K. Power, physician for Amory T. Gill, Oregon State college basketball coach who is confined at the Salem general hospital here.

Coach Gill is thought to be in the first stage of pneumonia and it is feared that his run down condition might make him easy prey to the disease.

Dr. Power reported late yesterday that Gill's condition was much better than it had been on Monday but admitted that the danger had not yet been passed. It will be some time before the man will be able to resume his coaching duties at the state college, was Dr. Power's opinion.

Friday night the Oregon Staters open their coast conference hoop season with a game against Idaho at Corvallis. It is considered doubtful if Gill will be recovered sufficiently to direct his men in their opening tilt.

SILVERTON COUNCIL CONDUCTS BUSINESS

SILVERTON, Jan. 7.—The city council of Silverton met for its regular meeting at the council chamber Monday evening. A report of the librarian was read and accepted. A number of bills were read and ordered paid. Applications from Ray Abbott and from Porter & Heater for license to conduct pool halls at Silverton during 1930 were read and accepted and the recorder was instructed to issue licenses.

ARTHUR SHIRES KAYOES FAETH

Fight Declared Real Thing As Great One Wins in Initial Round

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 7. — (AP)—Arthur (the great) Shires, added another one round knockout to his record tonight by disposing of Tony (the terrible) Faeth after two minutes of fighting in their scheduled six round bout.

There was no semblance of a "dive" when Faeth went down. Arthur the Great had caught him with a terrific right cross squarely on the jaw. Faeth, turned half about by the punch, dropped through the ropes and nearly out of the ring.

At the count of nine the pitcher was back on his feet but the Great Shires, thoroughly roused in fury, tore across the ring and bounced another right on Tony's little chin. That was the last of Faeth. The referee counted him out as he lay flat on his back.

Air Travel Not Very Heavy Now

Eyerly States

Airplane travel up and down the Pacific coast is light at the present time according to Lee Eyerly, manager of the airport here. The field in east Salem is used largely by the local planes and students at the Eyerly school.

On rainy and stormy days mail planes and passenger machines pass near the Salem field in preference to taking the route farther to the east and through Silverton. This affords machines a lighting place in case necessity makes it imperative to stop. Eyerly said Tuesday that the mail planes as well as passenger service had been maintained constantly throughout the winter.

RICKREALL QUINTET CAPTURES 2 GAMES

RICKREALL, Jan. 7. — (Special)—Rickreall high won its first Polk county league basketball double header Friday night, defeating the teams from Independence high.

The boys won 19 to 9 and the girls 33 to 8. Tonight both local teams will play at St. Paul.

The boys' game here was more of a contest than the score indicated, the teams mulling up and down the floor for several minutes before Rickreall finally found the basket. The quarter ended 4 to 0 for Rickreall, and the local boys were still ahead, 11 to 3, at half time. Independence did better in the second half.
