

SEAL SALE IS HELD SUCCESS

More Money Raised Locally Than Year Ago, Report Here Indicates

The 1929 tuberculosis seal sale during the holidays in the 15 districts and 21 rural schools which have reported so far shows an increase over a year ago, with $803.59 reported from these districts and schools and $1450 from the Salem mail sale, according to Miss Mary B. Fake, county chairman. Ten districts and 17 schools are yet to be heard from. In Salem, $146.22 was realized from booth sales and $77.54 from school sales.

Silverton leads the town outside Salem, with $224.51 reported; stamp sales in other rural areas known so far include: Woodburn, $96.72; Hubbard, $44.37; Stayton, $38.39; Mill City, $64.48. All these raised the 1928 sales. Labish Center, Sublimity, Scotts Mills, Shaw, Gervais, Mt. Angel, Monitor and Gates all sent in amounts within a few dollars of last year's sales. Miss Fake reports that the Indian Training school at Chemawa showed exceptionally fine interest in the sales, the principal, S. R. Mote, backing the campaign and assisting the students with its organization. This school sold 8,000 seals, turning in a check for $80 which represented a per capita sale of 10 seals per persons. Nine seals per capita was the goal for the county.

On the Salem sale, 900 letters have not yet been heard from. Mrs. T. J. Brabec, 1970 North Summer street, who was chairman of this division of the campaign, asks that all who have not responded do so at an early date so she may make her report complete. Mrs. E. C. Ling, general chairman for Salem, with Mrs. Brabec and their committees from the Salem Woman's club, worked long and hard at the sale and has hopes that the $2,500 set for Salem will be reached.

The county chairman says further: "The tuberculosis association affiliates with the county health unit in carrying on their program and it will be necessary to raise enough money for the salary of one nurse to do effective work. This amount is counted upon by the county unit and is the part of the financial responsibility assumed by the Marion county public health association. It is to be borne in mind that all returns do not remain in the county, for the state and national associations are carrying on a great work and it is through their direction and plans that all local work is carried on."

WARNING ISSUED AS MERCURY IS DOWN

With colds becoming more numerous with the change in weather conditions, the following suggestions for each one to practice to prevent spread of colds are given from the office of Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer:

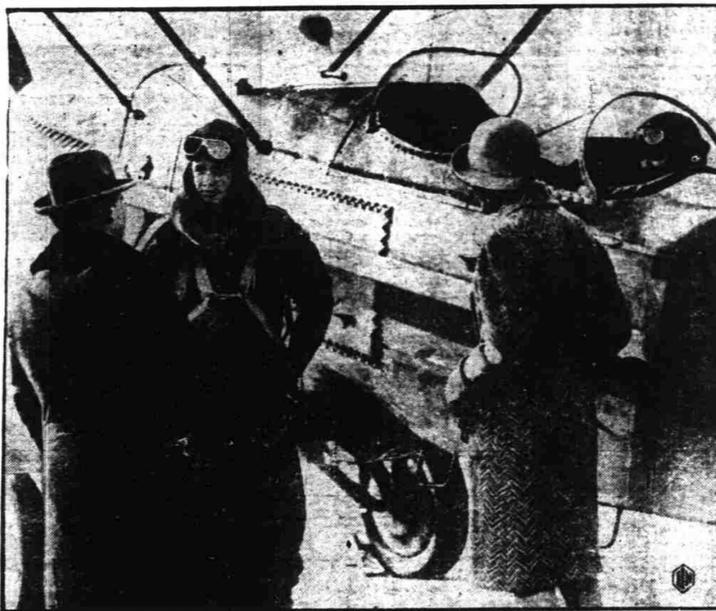

- Keep away from people who are acutely ill. Sick people seldom need visitors.
- Stay away from well people when you yourself are not well.
- Keep away from crowds gathered in ill ventilated, stuffy buildings.
- Keep your body clean, especially mouth, teeth and hands. Always wash hands thoroughly before eating. The proper diet and exercise will take care of the intestinal tract, as a rule.
- Use a handkerchief when coughing or sneezing.
- Keep your place of business and home well ventilated. Good ventilation means a constant supply of fresh air at a temperature of 65 degrees to 70 degrees and a

GUARD CHIEF

A blunt statement that the Coast Guard "means business and cannot stop smuggling of liquor with soft words and amiable gestures" was made by Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, the Coast Guard commandant, upon being informed that three men had met death at the hands of the service while attempting to run liquor into Mazama Bay.

FAMOUS AIRMEN AND THEIR BRIDES

relative humidity of 40. Proper ventilation is largely a matter of controlling the rate of dissipation of body heat. Cold, moist air absorbs body heat too rapidly and therefore, is chilling. Hot, dried-out air is irritating to nose and throat. Warm, slightly moist, fresh air is the ideal for winter.

The diet should be made up largely of fruits, vegetables and milk. When meat is eaten, it should be well balanced with vegetables. When cereal is eaten, it should be well balanced with fruits.

COLD CONTINUES TO HALT EIELSON HUNT

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Wind, fog and thawing weather combined today to hold at a standstill all search for Captain Pat Reid, William Hughes and Jim Hutchinson as well as Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, missing in the storm swept wastes of the Arctic.

Captain H. A. Oakes and Gifford Swartman, who have been planning search for Reid and his companions, who disappeared Saturday while attempting to reach Nome from here, were powerless to pierce the fog and wind to determine the Canadian's fate. Wind, howling along at 50 miles an hour, swept over the Nu-lato plains and on to Fairbanks in a warm wave that was thawing the ice and snow of the region. At Nome a 40 miles an hour wind hurled a wild snowstorm over the city, keeping Frank Dorbandt, who left there Sunday to search for Reid, at Solomon, but a short distance away. Dorbandt scouted the North Bay region Sunday but was forced to land at Solomon because of fog.

BORAH ADVOCATES SETTING HAITI FREE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, today advocated immediate action in Haiti by President Hoover as the committee began consideration of the president's request for a commission of investigation.

Appointment of a civilian as high commissioner for Haiti and authority for a "free and untrammeled election" were proposed by Senator Borah, in a statement issued after the committee failed to reach a decision on the house resolution authorizing an investigating commission.

Borah severely condemned military rule of the Haitians. He offered no objection to the commission asked by the president, and said the absence of several members had precluded committee action on the resolution. He predicted an early report. "But I feel that something ought to be done without waiting for the report of a commission," said the Idahoan.

PROF. THACHER TO SPEAK HERE

Faculty Member From State University to Talk on Advertising

Authorship and advertising are to be the subjects of two addresses by W. F. G. Thacher, professor of these subjects at the University of Oregon, to be given here Thursday at the noon meeting of the Salem Advertising club and the Willamette chapel.

"This Business of Authorship," in which Mr. Thacher will discuss various phases and problems of writing for publication, will be presented to students in the Willamette chapel. Salem advertising men will hear how Mr. Thacher thinks merchants should proceed increasing their business through the medium of newspaper space in the second address, "Making Advertising Pay."

On the faculty of the University of Oregon since 1914, Mr. Thacher has taught fundamentals to many students that are now either successful advertising men or well-known magazine writers and novelists. He was at one time associate editor of the Pacific Monthly, published at Portland, and later was on the advertising staff of the Southern Pacific. He is prominently associated with many advertising clubs and associations, and was chairman of the first educational department of the Pacific Advertising club association during 1924-27.

Much success has come to Mr. Thacher as an author. He has had stories published in the Atlantic Monthly, Munsey, Pacific Monthly, Blue Book, and Triple X, and has contributed articles on advertising to Printer's Ink and Western Advertising.

WOMAN JURORS SET RUM SUSPECT FREE

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Utah's first women jurors have decided that Louis Karakis was not guilty of violating the prohibition law, even if there was beer in his ice box and a crock of it under the bed. Maybe the fact that Mrs. Karakis went on the witness stand with her new baby and testified that the beer was hers was the reason.

The jury, including two women members, returned a verdict of not guilty after seven minutes deliberation.

The Utah law previously permitted the calling of women jurors but gave them the right to claim exemption because of their sex, so they never have been impaneled. A new law denied them this privilege.

THEATRE MAN SPEAKER HERE

Experience and Impressions Recounted by Colonel Dow at Dinner

Salem people, and persons in the northwest generally, are not theatre-minded. Colonel David Dow told the Salem Zontians at the club luncheon at the Marion Wednesday noon.

Two main reasons, he believes are behind this fact: First, that there is little of a cosmopolitan public here and in the northwest; and second, that the farm population, which is the best ticket office bet is limited.

Colonel Dow, who is manager of the Fox Elsinore theatre here, told his observations of public response to the picture houses here incidental to an interesting account of his own experiences in the business. He has been legitimate manager of a stock company, vaudeville actor and field manager for a string of 130 theatres in New England, not to mention other jobs. In 1897 Colonel Dow constructed the second picture machine ever built in Boston, and the first one put up by an American. Although made compared to the present machine, it had advantages over the foreign one used there. Colonel Dow, however, saw no future in the movie, and when fire destroyed his equipment within a short time, he abandoned the business. The local man was manager for the first traveling company in New England for "The Birth of a Nation," which he says was the first picture ever scored. Then he became manager of an exchange which exhibited "Civilization," intended at first as a peace propaganda film. He related that shortly after the exchange paid $100,000 for this picture, the United States declared war and but for the happy thought of cutting out a few scenes and changing the subtitles, the picture would have been a dead loss; instead, it was turned into an enlistment propaganda film. He told other experiences, equally interesting. Mrs. Dow was a guest at the luncheon, one of the largest attended of the winter sessions.
