SPRING VALLEY, Jan. 11.—A very good program was given Friday evening, January 10, at the regular meeting of the Spring Valley Community club, despite the very inclement weather. Several numbers planned by the committee could not be given due to this cause.

The program was opened with a vocal solo "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life" by Clifford Stephens of Fairview, accompanied at the piano by his mother, Mrs. Howard Stephens.

As an encore Clifford gave "The Utah Trail" accompanying himself on the guitar.

Chemawa Will Have But Few Students From Alaska in Future

CHEMAWA, Jan. 11.—The enrollment of Alaskan Indians at Chemawa is practically a thing of the past. For a while it was hoped by authorities here that Chemawa might be utilized in the near future as a kind of finishing school for young Alaskans, especially adapted to teaching academic and shop subjects.

It was hoped that Chemawa might have added facilities and even an increase in grades to the junior college standard so that young men and women might be trained to do a little practical missionary work for the native Alaskans. But during a recent visit to Washington, D. C., Supt. Lippis, of Chemawa, found that these plans had been abandoned and that instead, the congressional committee on appropriations for Indian affairs, was opposed to the further enrollment of Alaskans at Chemawa.

Climate Change Too Great The reason given for this stand was that Chemawa was considered too drastic a change in climate for the good health of the natives and that it was believed the Alaskan bureau of education was now able to care for their education at home and in public schools. Under very exceptional circumstances, the secretary of the interior will allow an Alaskan to enroll at Chemawa, but the general policy is to keep them in Alaska.

The Alaskans will be missed at Chemawa. As a rule, they have come to the states with a genuine "hust for learning" and at present Chemawa graduates, in spite of a poor, strong, anti-native feeling in the territory, have a good representation in business, politics and the professions.

As was usually the case, the Alaskan Indians' first contact with the white man was through the rough-neck frontier type, which has produced a social condition that will take much shoulder-rubbing with culture to eradicate. There is no denying the fact that the native Alaskan is a potential asset of great value from the citizenship point of view.

HUBBARD, Jan. 11.—"Oregon is the best wonderland in the world for prehistoric life," said Dr. J. B. Horner in his address on the subject "Prehistoric Life" at the meeting of the Hubbard Woman's club Wednesday evening. Dr. Horner held the interest of all as he told of the huge skeletons of prehistoric life that had been unearthed in the state of Oregon. He also talked of the wonderful scenery, great resources, and literature of Oregon reciting selections of Oregon poets. Dr. Horner requested the club members to join with him in a song and together they sang, "Come to Jesus" in the Indian jargon.

Despite the snow-storm, Dr. Horner came to Hubbard to give the address for which arrangements had been made several months previous and the club expressed their gratitude to him for his efforts.

Mrs. Merle Stewart sang "The Summer Wind" responding to an encore with "I Know a Lovely Garden." Mrs. Stewart was accompanied by Mrs. Kathleen Beckman at the piano. A saxophone solo: "Evangeline" by Miss Marie de Lespinasse accompanied by her father Dr. A. F. de Lespinasse was warmly received. Miss Marie responded with several other selections.

The meeting was held in the evening to make it more convenient for Dr. Horner to be present.

The stage had been prettily decorated in pink and white. A table had been placed there which was centered by a huge bride's cake, baked by Mrs. J. C. Larson. On each side of the cake were tall pink tapers.

A short business meeting of the club was held first at which Dan Hillman presided in place of Alvin Krug, club president, who was absent. The matter of securing curtains for the stage which was built late last summer was discussed at some length. Finally a committee was instructed to secure samples of materials and their cost. Mrs. Dan Hillman announced, during the business meeting, the social to be given at the Waldo Hills community club Friday evening, Jan. 24th.

The social is called "another five cent bazaar" and is sponsored by the Willard Women's club. According to Mrs. Hillman those attending would have the opportunity of having their "eyes filled for five cents; their ears filled for five cents; and their stomachs filled for as much as they cared to spend." It is understood that the proceeds of the social will be used for charitable projects of the club.

Program is Good At the program given by the club Friday evening each family of the Booster club was supposed to be represented with a number. Very nearly all responded and a very pleasant hour was spent listening to musical numbers and readings and recitations. Following the program John C. Goplerud was chosen to present the honor guests with a chair from the Booster club and a bedspread from the girls of the school. Mrs. Doerfler responded to this.

A lunch was served at the close of the evening's program and a social hour enjoyed. During this Mrs. Doerfler cut the bride's cake and presented each one present with a piece.
