

STOCK SUFFER FROM GOLD

Kings Valley Ranchers Much Concerned Over Severe Weather

KINGS VALLEY, Jan. 14.—Many stockmen in this community are much concerned by the severity of the recent storm that is sweeping the valley. Stock is general in a very poor condition to withstand severe winter weather owing to the extremely dry fall and shortage of pasture, and also the partial failure of the hay crop. Sheep in Poor Condition Some sheep men have been feeding their flocks since last October, but many who did not feed find their sheep very thin, and with no large amount of hay on hand, a protracted storm would result in the loss of many sheep. The three inch covering of hard frozen snow acts as a blanket to fall grain, but it also covers the pasture that is so necessary for the well being of stock.
